VOL. XLIII. FEBRUARY 2, 1889. No. 1,090

The immediate future of the stock market has a hopeful look. The bond buying continues with unabated vigor, both for domestic and foreign accounts. Conservative investors realize that new securities will not be put upon the market during the coming year. Hence the bonds and mortgages now offered are attractive, as there will be a deficient supply for the rest of the business year. During our past history an unusual demand for bonds was always followed by a boom in the best class of stocks and junior securities. We do not see that there is much to be expected from the coal stocks, but the corn roads and the Southern stocks ought to increase greatly in value. The rise in "Big Four," C., C., C. & I., Erie & Western preferred is an indication of what may be expected from the roads north of the Ohio and east of the Mississippi. That prosperous manufacturing region has had the largest corn, hay, and miscellaneous crops ever known, and the plentiful supply of hogs and beeves ought to make the whole region between the Lakes and the Gulf of Mexico prosperous beyond precedent. It is now settled that the rate wars west of the Mississippi and the Missouri will be reduced to a minimum, but the overbuilding has been so excessive that much encouragement from that region is not to be expected. If there should be a boom during February the corn roads east of the Mississippi ought to show the largest advance. Then should come the Southern securities, then the "Trunk" lines and specialties, but in our judgment it will be a long time before the Western and Southwestern roads have any marked advance in prices.

What to do with the Treasury surplus will perplex the incoming administration as much as it did the one which is just about to surrender power. Indeed, Mr. Cleveland's defeat was mainly due to the fact that he insisted upon so manipulating the surplus as to force Congress to pass a measure reducing the tariff. Readers of this periodical will remember that before Congress got together in the December of 1887 we had a number of articles insisting that the true policy was to spend the surplus productively—that is, in river and harbor improvements, sea-coast defenses, in public buildings, and in the rehabilitation of our commerce. To supply our real needs would require fully $1,000,000,000, instead of the $150,000,000 locked up in the Treasury. While the money was being thus used in stimulating the business of the country, we argued that Congress might take up the tax and tariff questions and discuss them without any fear of interfering with the trade of the nation. The expenditures to be urged would have come in at the right time, for it would have followed the stoppage of the excessive railway construction in the West. The government, of course, would have employed labor and stimulated the iron and shipbuilding industries during last summer and fall and this winter and spring.

But, no! instead of spending the money on works the nation really needed, the administration saw fit to buy bonds, and since April 17th last about $110,000,000 have been paid over to the rich gentlemen and corporations who own these national obligations. The latter, of course, made splendid profits, as they had a practical corner in the price. They probably were paid 15 per cent. more than the bonds would have fetched in a normal market. Were a war or any national emergency to force the government to borrow money, these rich beneficiaries of Secretary Fairchild's policy would be reluctant to furnish funds at even 25 per cent. below what they were paid for their bonds. It is curious to note, by the way, that President-elect Harrison has given his adhesion to this policy, and there are very few leading statesmen or newspapers that can see anything to object to in it.

But, nevertheless, it was trying to use the surplus to secure more liberal tariff imposts which lost Mr. Cleveland the election, and if President-elect Harrison and his administration do not act more wisely they too will be discredited. The Republicans, also, have a tariff bill, which seems to us even more objectionable than the Mills bill. It will probably be passed in the extra session, which will certainly be called; but, as it will take time to tell how it will affect the revenues, the existing surplus is still a problem to be solved. We do hope there will be some sense shown in dealing with this unused money. If it is used productively, it will stimulate our industries and give the country better times. It would be folly, unspeakable, to keep on paying it out in bonuses to the bondholders, and absolute wickedness to lavish more millions on pensions. In 1880 our annual pension payments were $56,000,000. In 1888 they were over $80,000,000. Two-thirds of our pension payments are the sheerest plunder, as all the Congressmen know who voted for the various bills. Let our surplus money be spent in public buildings which are needed in this growing country, or in river and harbor improvements, for which an appropriation of $60,000,000 per annum would not be too much, instead of the $7,000,000, which is the beggarly sum at present spent for our vast coast lines and magnificent internal waterways. Right here, in New York harbor, the expenditure should be from seven to eight millions, and other sections of the country need equally large appropriations. But no more throwing away of the money to bondholders or in villainous pension legislation.

An article that recently appeared in the Sun, saying that rents in Brooklyn generally would be lower this year than last, has found its way into several Brooklyn journals, and by some inexplicable blunder has been credited to THE RECORD AND GUIDE. No statement of the kind, either direct or inferential, has appeared in the columns of this journal, and we are rather surprised to see such an utterance, under the circumstances, fathered upon us.

One tie-up on the New York and Brooklyn horse-car systems might be excusable, but their frequent occurrence is wholly unjustifiable, and is alike discreditable to the companies, their employés and the city and State authorities. The business of the community and the comfort of our citizens should never be at the mercy of quarreling corporations and their employés. We do not propose to discuss the right or wrong of this quarrel between the horse-car line companies and their workpeople. The State has provided a machinery for putting a prompt end to all disputes by the reference of the matter to a State Board of Arbitrators. But the horse-car owners decline to recognize the representatives of their employés and will not arbitrate. The position they take is heartily sustained by the entire press of New York, and, as far as we can judge, the newspapers represent the opinion of our employing and business classes. The class that sympathizes with the strikers may be large, but it is not influential. It has no representation in the press and no way of making its wishes effective when these conflicts are under way. The violence incidental to such labor revolts, in the end, tells against the strikers.

No strikes such as we have suffered from during the past week are ever heard of in European cities. In many cases the tramway lines are owned by the city, which rents them to companies which agree to give perpetual service. The latter also usually contributes to the Sinking Fund, by which the city eventually gets possession of the tracks without cost to the citizens. In time, not only the local railroad in Paris, but nearly all the great railway systems throughout France will pass under the control of the nation. We have thoughtlessly given away for perpetuity these valuable franchises to private corporations.

Our solution of the city railroad problem is the licensing of the conductors and car-drivers by the city authorities. They would be thus made public officers—part of the police force of the city. Their pay and hours of labor as well as general treatment should be established by the city or State; this would end strikes and would put a large body of men under the control of the city government in the event of any widespread riot. We are so practical a people that we should put a stop at once and forever to these preposterous and business-disturbing quarrels between the horse-car companies and their employés.

The treatment of General Boulanger by the American editors is not creditable to their sense of fairness and discrimination. They repeat the hostile and malicious statements of Boulanger's French enemies, as if they were settled facts. Boulanger is really a clever man, who made his mark, as Minister of War, in reorganizing the French army. He showed so much vigor and efficiency as to excite the jealousy of his associate Cabinet Ministers and political leaders. It was the latter's attempts to degrade and discredit him which have been resented by the mass of the French people. Then, as we have often pointed out in these columns, France does not take kindly to parliamentary government. The present constitution was confessedly a makeshift until something better could be devised; and it has not worked well. The nation has had no stable policy; Cabinets have lasted only a few months at a time, while the public debt has heavily increased without there being very much to show for it. Hence the demand for an altered constitution, which would give the nation the advantage of more personal and responsible government, such as that of Germany and the United States. France should have an Executive not wholly dependent on the parliamentary body, and therefore with some initiative of his own.

General Boulanger is the club the people of France are using to beat down the present headless government of that country. The wise thing to do would be to call a Constituent Assembly and satisfy the demands of the nation for a powerful executive. The French people never had due weight in the counsels of Europe, except when represented by a commanding personality on the throne. Boulanger may not be fitted for the first place in the State, but his opponents must find some one to represent the nation worthily, or he will get the masses of France with or without a revolution. There is a chance for serious trouble ahead in the next few months.

While there is a brisk buying of railroad bonds and mortgages it seems to be impossible to get up any enthusiasm in the stock market. Is there not a deeper reason for this than mere rate-cutting and the overbuilding of railroad lines? It is alleged that the annual addition to the wealth of the commercial nations is only about 2¼ per cent.; a business which pays 6 per cent., therefore, represents a much larger profit than the increase of wealth warrants. It has been taken for granted that the average profitable business of the country does not yield more than 5 or 6 per cent. Suppose this rule was applied to railroads. The first mortgage bonds usually represent the actual cost of the roads. These are safe to hold, because any well-located line in this growing country is pretty sure to earn 6 per cent. But the income bonds, preferred and common stock of new roads represent no equity. They are divided among the promoters of a railroad gratuitously, with the hope that as the country grows they may become more or less valuable. But when there is any depression in the times, or pinch in railway circles, the real lack of value in common stocks and minor securities of the railroads becomes apparent, and hence an advancing bond market may co-exist with a declining stock market. If anyone is tempted to speculate in Wall street, he should keep the fact in mind that the average railroad, after paying out 6 per cent. on its superior bonds, has nothing left for its inferior so-called securities. Of course, great concerns like the New York & Pennsylvania Central are in a different category, as much of their property represents vast past accumulations. It is safe to say that in any active market stocks usually sell far above their intrinsic value. Indeed, what possible value can the common stock of Erie have which never pays a dividend and scarcely earns fixed charges. The same is true of twenty other stocks actively dealt in. The outlook is not particularly hopeful for the poorer class of stocks.

It is curious how little is said by the American press on the subject of municipal government abroad. For a quarter of a century the English and the Continental cities have been working under systems very different from our own. Yet it is indisputable that the mass of Americans know as little about the municipal governments of Europe as they do of those of Asia. Last week we published some facts in regard to Glasgow and pointed out the astonishing new departure in London. An evening paper has had two letters from Boston summarizing lectures explaining the local governments of Manchester, Birmingham, and Berlin the capital of Germany. These various publications are extremely instructive and interesting, and it would pay some able writer to publish an exhaustive work explaining and comparing local governments abroad and at home.

One fact will strike the observer at the very beginning—foreign cities have home rule. The powers of the various corporations are very extensive. The men who administer the local governments belong to the best and most honorable classes of citizens and generally hold office for many years. Our local rulers are recruited from a very inferior class—saloon keepers, impecunious lawyers and politicians of a very low type. Hence municipal government in America is in a very bad way, while abroad it is honest, economical and efficient.

This difference is not because of any militarism in the government of foreign cities, for the rulers are taken exclusively from private life and under a system of household suffrage. On the other side of the water it is not the landlords who pay the taxes, but the tenants, and every one who pays "rates," as they are called, votes for the members of the municipal councils. The members of these councils elect the Aldermen and the Mayor, as well as the heads of departments. Theorize as we may about it the fact remains that in Europe the members of the municipal government belong to the very best class of citizens. In America our local legislators are of a very inferior type, intellectually and morally. The difficulty with us seems to be that the vast mass of the voters have no stake in the property of the city—as the landlord pays the taxes they do not know what an onerous burden the latter is. It is difficult to see how, with universal suffrage, any vital reform can be effected. Yet matters cannot go on as they have been, and some solution of our difficulties must be reached at last.

Improvements in Building.

II.

There is one point in which American architects in general and the architects of New York in particular are assuredly entitled to take pride. That is in their treatment of baked clay. Fifteen years ago, when brick was used in costly fronts, it was the Philadelphia pressed brick. The ideal aimed at in its production was that it should be as red and as smooth and as uniform as possible, and in its introduction that it should be laid with the thinnest possible joints. The result was eminently what a bricklayer would contemplate with complacency as "a neat job," but an artist could take no sort of interest in it. One has only to look at the new buildings in brick to see how completely this ideal has become discredited. Slight inequalities of tint are sought for instead of being shunned in brickwork of the same general hue, while the surface is also roughened and the joints are often emphasized, either by thickening or by withdrawal. In place of the violent monochrome we can now run a whole gamut of color from pale buff to deep reddish brown, so that a designer can choose whatever goes best with a stone of a certain color, and it often seems that the brick must have been colored to order, so apt is the combination, though the color is in fact the result of a judicious selection and careful burning of the natural clays. What is true of brickwork is equally true of terra cotta and of roofing tile. This latter at one time was forced into unsuitable positions and functions and much overworked, but it is now introduced sparingly and judiciously, and its quality, at least in color, is much improved.

All this is the work of the architects, for though they have found many enterprising and intelligent maufacturers to meet their demand, the demand has come from them and not from the supply for which the manufacturers were endeavoring to make a market. What is thus true of baked clay is even more true of iron. What a ghastly sight was the catalogue of an "Architectural Iron Works" fifteen years ago, the patterns of classic capitals and details that had nothing at all to do with the actual use of the ironwork. The other day we saw a like catalogue which it was actually a pleasure to look over. It is true that this was the production of a German house, but the same leaven is at work here. When a man now builds himself a cast-iron dwelling in imitation of stone, as one unfortunate person has done lately on the Riverside Drive, everybody laughs at him and wonders where he has been for twenty years. Go into a modern office building in course of construction and see the posts, that would have been Corinthian columns under the old fashion, cast in sections riveted together, and bearing what may still be called capitals, expanding to take the bearing of the girders over them, but now fitted with flanges that are manifestly metallic and as manifestly doing real work. It is true these are usually encased, but the same rational analysis has been applied to the design of ironwork that is meant to be seen. The increased use of rolled iron in building and a more judicious application of it in conformity with its nature and use is another marked improvement. This has been forced upon the trade by the profession. It is due partly to an advance in the technical education of architects, and perhaps this is the chief factor in the improvement. Here in New York it has been also very powerfully promoted by the stringent requirements of the building law, as interpreted and enforced under the present intelligent management of the Building Department.

Another municipal department here had very nearly as much to do as the Building Department with the improvements in building practice, and that is the Board of Health. With one lamentable lapse that department has been kept very free from politics, and has used its great power steadily in the public interest. It is mainly in dwellings that the good influence of this department is seen, but the effect of the good work it enforces there is seen in a higher standard of work everywhere, especially in plumbing. The dangers to which the tenants of the most costly buildings were exposed, a few years ago, by reason of plumbing badly planned or badly executed, are now scarcely possible. Honest plumbers have been led to study their business much more closely than they did, and dishonest plumbers have been inoculated with a wholesome fear of the vigilance of the department. There is one point in which either the power of the department might be enlarged to advantage, or it might use to more advantage the powers it has, and that is in the provision of light and air for the "flats" that are between the sumptuous apartment houses on the one hand and the tenement houses on the other. The tenement houses proper are very well looked out for by the board, and the apartment houses by the architects. But the "flat" is the stronghold of the speculative builder. He has not found it to his interest to employ a competent architect to plan it, and continues to plan it himself. The result is that where a competent architect, with very little or no additional expenditure of money, by simply taking very much more thought, would secure ample light and air to every room, the speculative builder contents himself with a solid mass of building, leaving at the rear of the lot the open space the law requires him to leave, and opening between the houses a slit, which he calls a light-shaft, but which, in fact, is nothing of the sort, but a mockery and a delusion. If one builder of flats would employ a good architect to lay out a row of them for him, the demand for them would much more than compensate him for the additional cost, both of planning and building. We have had model tenement houses, but a row of model flats of the kind that rent from $30 to $60 a month is still to be desired.

Nevertheless, the outlook for the architectural future of New York is very bright, and the advance in the average of commercial and of domestic architecture, as exemplified by the latest office buildings and the latest dwellings, over that of even ten years ago is enormous.

Our Prophetic Department.

RAILROAD EXPERT—I see that during the past year nineteen railroads, embracing 1,600 miles and involving nearly $65,000,000 in bonds and stocks, have been foreclosed and have generally passed out of the possession of first mortgage holders. This makes a better showing, however, than the average of the past thirteen years, during which time 423 roads, with a mileage of 43,770, representing securities that foot up $2,545,000,000, have been foreclosed by the holders of the first mortgage bonds. This seems to me an astounding exhibit, and if the loss is so enormous, one asks, why it is that people put their money into doubtful enterprises?

SIR ORACLE—In the first place the securities are often nominal. The first mortgage bonds generally build the roads, when the second mortgages, preference and common stocks represent nothing but the probable good-will of the road after its business is developed. Then all the value is not wiped out. The roads remain and are usually worth more than their actual cost. It is this probability of profit in the junior securities which tempts capitalists into the construction of new roads.

R. E.—I am still desirous of being enlightened as to why people will invest their money in railroad construction in view of the appalling disasters which have attended that form of investment.

SIR O.—It may be laid down as an axiom that any business which yields enormous profits is unsafe to venture into. This may seem paradoxical; but look at theatres, hotels and newspapers. Big fortunes have been made by the owners and managers of all three; but the majority of those who invest their money in either a theatre, hotel or newspaper, lose it, and have to seek other occupations. There are enormous profits in the sale of liquor. The owner of a bar receives fifteen cents for a glass of whiskey which does not cost him three. The result is a multiplication of saloons, three-fourths of which become bankrupt. Drug selling is extremely profitable, as much as 1,000 per cent. being made on the bulk of the medicines sold on our street corners. Yet the greed of the owners introduces adulteration; and drug stores are so multiplied that a living is eked out by the addition of perfumery, soda water and the like. So with regard to railroad building. The promoter can generally sell his bonds which build the road, and then the second mortgages, preference and common stocks are pure water. But vast fortunes are sometimes made by manipulating them. Where one road can succeed under this system a number of them fail, hence the bad showing in the figures you have quoted; but I have seen some remarkable fluctuations in the price of the common stocks. I held Erie common during the war at 111, yet I have seen it sell under 5. I have bought Missouri, Texas & Kansas common at 2 and 3 cents a share, and then was idiot enough to purchase it at 53 some years after. Atchison & Santa Fe sold at 7 in 1879, and was extensively dealt in at 130 in 1887. It is these tremendous differences which attract the speculator and average stock gambler.

R. E.—What is to be the fate of this same Atchison? You have always been dubious about it. I see there is some talk of its stock being bought in the interests of some Eastern trunk line.

SIR O.—I am on record as having predicted that this would happen at one time or other. I have supposed that the Chicago & Burlington would come under the control of the Pennsylvania Central, and that the Missouri-Pacific will become the Pacific end of the system of roads controlled by the Richmond & West Point Terminal, but the Atchison does not seem to have any natural Eastern connection.

R. E.—Why not the Erie and its connections to Chicago?

SIR O.—That would be feasible if we knew of any great syndicate who could control capital enough to buy a series of roads running from New York to the Pacific coast. Something of that kind may be on foot; and the Chicago & Alton may have a hand in so as to prevent the competition of the Atchison in its Chicago business. If Commodore Vanderbilt was alive I should suspect him of wishing to get control of Atchison, but there does not seem to be any power of initiative among the living Vanderbilts to undertake any big enterprise or deal. W. K. Vanderbilt would probably like to engage in some such programme; but I judge that he is hampered by his father's will. The failure of the Vanderbilts to secure the Soo line as a feeder to the Michigan Central settles the question as to the lack of enterprise or power on the part of the present owners of the Central, Lake Shore & Northwest.

R. E.—It seems to me you are not talking in a very hopeful strain. Do you apprehend any further depression in the railroad world?

SIR O.—I hardly think we are out of the woods yet. There has always been a period of depression after every extensive railroad building movement. Time enough has not yet elapsed to recover from the excessive overbuilding of 1885, 1886 and 1887. Then, we are going to send a great deal of gold to Europe this spring. The political uncertainty will have its effect.

R. E.—You made a remark about newspapers early in this conversation which I would like to hear you explain. Are not daily, weekly and monthly periodicals generally profitable?

SIR O.—They are not. We have three magazines that more than pay expenses; the others are a heavy loss to their owners. Then, I do not believe that more than 20 per cent. of the daily and weekly papers are good paying properties.

R. E.—You astonish me. Why are newspapers kept alive if they do not pay?

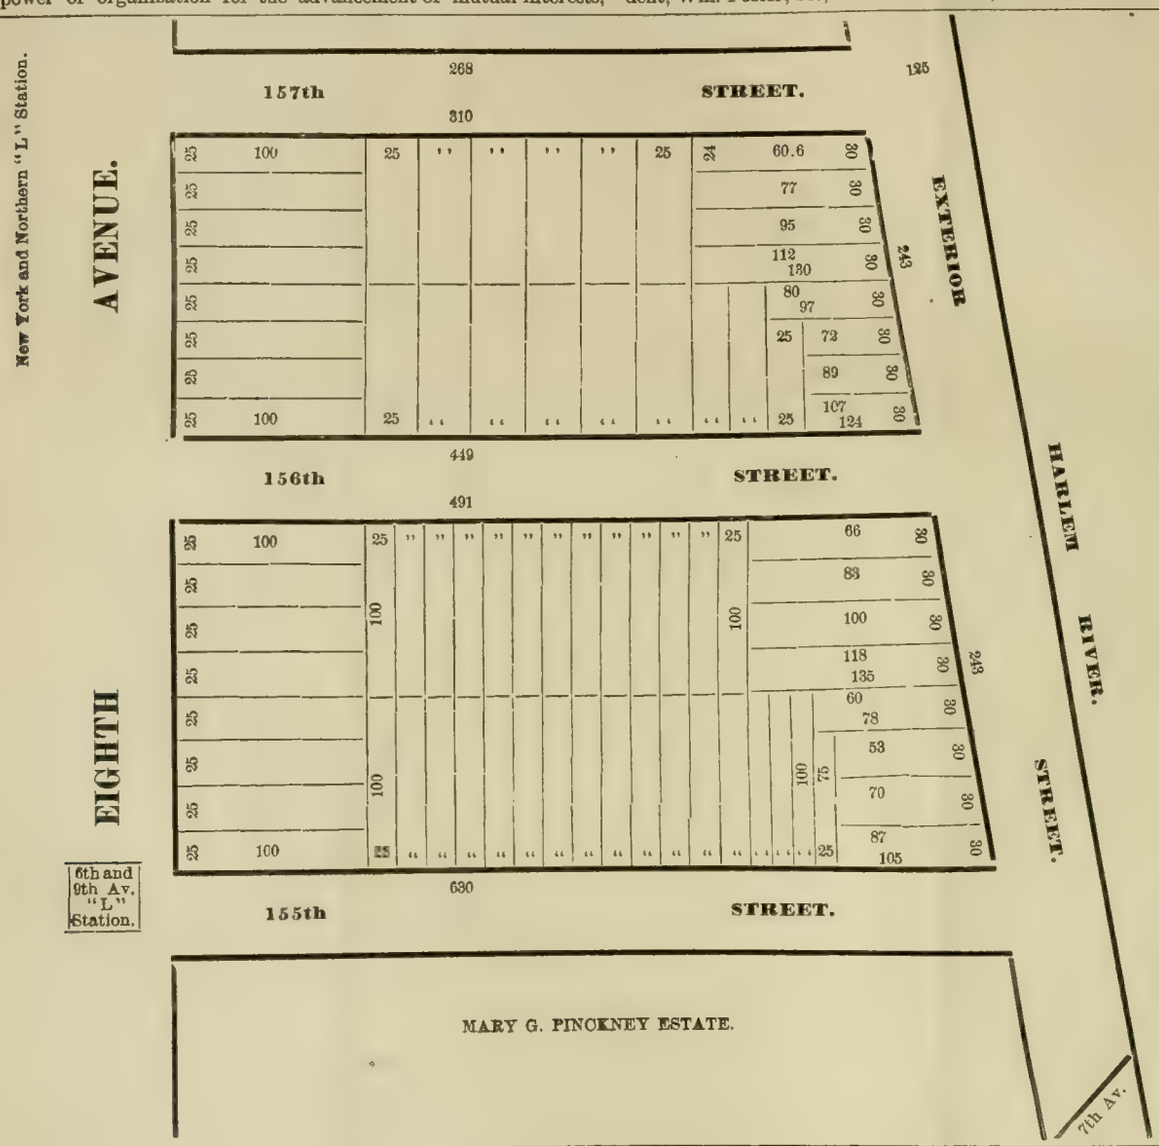
SIR O.—It is almost impossible to kill a journal once it has been started, no matter how unprofitable it is. There is always some eager and hopeful person who is willing to step into the gap and try and make both ends meet. Then, papers are used as organs by individuals and corporations, they are supposed to help get people into political offices, while in the country they are mainly supported by the job printing office. It is really a struggle for life.

Taxation in New York City.

The two last Comptrollers of this State, emphasizing the fact that personal property is practically exempt from all taxation and that the money to support our local government is contributed almost entirely by real estate, have proposed measures by which corporations shall be forced to pay some share of the expenses in running the State government. The daily Times takes issue with these officials, and indirectly adopts the Henry George idea that all taxation should be placed upon vacant land. Of course, George and his followers wish to confiscate unimproved property so that the "unearned increment" due to the growth of population and business shall inure to the community and not to private individuals. But the owners of real estate are not able to see the justice of putting all governmental burdens upon them. They have to pay an annual visit to the tax office and plank down a good round sum; but there is no such call upon the rich man, whose means are invested in bonds, stocks and shares of corporations or trusts.

We have always held that while one kind of property should not bear all the burdens, yet we could not see how the matter could be bettered under State laws. A rigid and honest taxation of personal property in the State of New York would simply drive hundreds of millions of business to other States. It seemed to us that the only way of forcing the rich to contribute their share to the expenses of government would be by an income tax; but the recipients of considerable incomes include very influential classes, such as owners of strong and popular newspapers and able lawyers in the pay of the rich men in the country. Hence a tax, which has lasted for a generation in England, and is admitted to be a just one, is promptly howled down in this country whenever suggested, and the anomaly is presented of the immense vote which represents our landowning class being controlled against their interest by the comparatively small class who are in receipt of large incomes.

Apropos of this interesting subject, Prof. J. T. Ely publishes an article in the Chatauquan, in which he takes somewhat novel ground on taxation. His main thesis was simply this—that taxation properly distributed and properly collected is a blessing and not a curse. Property-owners who pay a good round sum to the municipality every year do not appreciate what large returns they get for their money. What private corporation could give him back for his one hundred or five-hundred dollars, security, protection, justice, lines of communication, unlimited water, and facilities for out-door recreation. It follows from this that high taxes do not mean oppressive taxes, or, in other words, it is not really an essential matter to a property-owner how large or how small his tax charges are as long as he gets an adequate return for his outlay. It would be bad, indeed, if they sunk below a certain limit, because in that case a niggardly policy would be necessary, and niggardliness never results in public good. It is not that the municipality or State should spend much or little money; but that they should spend what money they do spend, wisely. Moreover, the sacrifice entailed by the payment of taxes is stimulus on the part of the taxpayer to renewed effort in order to make up the deficiency.



Such is a summary of Mr. Ely's main argument. Obviously it does not excuse the injustice of putting all the taxes on real estate owners. Whether they are large or small in amount they should be equitably distributed just as much as they should be wisely expended.

The Property Movement Around Washington Heights.

IMPROVEMENTS PRESENT AND CONTEMPLATED—CREATING AND FOSTERING NEW NEIGHBORHOODS—THE FORTHCOMING LYNCH ESTATE SALE.

As the interests of property-owners have become more numerous and important in different sections of the city, so has the feeling grown in favor of organization and co-operation with a view to the advancement of those interests and the improvement of the various localities. We have seen this forcibly illustrated in the movement of the West End Association, which for years maintained a continuous and aggressive watchfulness over the west side, and who met week after week and month after month to watch over the propertied interests of that once neglected region. Time was—not more than a short six years ago—that scarcely a row of houses could be seen west of the Central Park. All was barren and bleak, and to the ordinary New Yorker the west side was then an unexplored and undesirable quarter. The change which has been wrought since is a strong tribute to the natural superiority of the section and the enterprise of capitalists and builders. Again, the West End avenue improvements, where a new section was created, shows how a strong and united effort is capable of accomplishing a metamorphosis in a neglected quarter of the city, and of turning a veritable desert into an oasis. Not satisfied with making a handsome cross-town street a park thoroughfare, the residents and property-owners of West 72d street are a third instance of the power of organization for the advancement of mutual interests, not yet appreciate the numerous and handsome improvements which have taken place in the last few years on and around Washington Heights. One of the objects of the new association is to preserve to us the historic landmark of the Hamilton Grange trees, representing the thirteen original States. In Europe the municipality would long since have purchased such a standing souvenir of the early struggles for the independence of a nation, but we are very slow to appreciate these historic landmarks on this side of the Atlantic. Again, it is pleasant to know that the owner of the old Hamilton mansion has donated that historic structure to St. Paul's Church. It has been removed several hundred feet away and placed adjoining the new church, to be built by Dr. Tuttle's congregation, on Convent avenue and 145th street, which will cost $150,000. During the erection of this church the old mansion will be used for temporary worship. When the church is completed, Dr. Tuttle will occupy the old mansion as a parsonage, after which it will be turned into a meeting place for social and religious purposes in connection with the church. It will be decorated and repaired, but will be altered as little as possible, so that its original appearance, as it was when Washington stayed in it, may be retained as nearly as possible.

The Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association is undoubtedly a strong one. Its members represent millions of dollars worth of property, and include the names of many well-known citizens. The president is Dr. M. Van Rensselaer, the principal inceptor of the movement; the vice-president, Wm. Foster, Jr., and the treasurer, Charles E. Runk. The committees appointed include such men as Geo. F. Gantz, F. N. Du Bois, James Monteith, R. Carman Coombs, E. C. Converse, J. D. Butler, the Rev. Father Slattery, R. C. Rathbone and others. In the hands of such men Washington Heights is sure to be well taken care of. The association, which has for its object the improvement and development of the upper western portion of Manhattan Island, will already find a good deal accomplished by individual and municipal efforts. In addition to the Hamilton Grange improvements and the opening up of Convent avenue, etc., a new thoroughfare—Undercliffe avenue—is being improved; the work on Edgecombe road will soon be finished, and work is about being commenced on Macomb's Dam road, between 149th and 155th streets. An ordinance was approved in reference to the latter as far back as 1885, but three years was allowed to elapse before the contract was let to do the work. Had such a body as the new association been in existence at the time, three months would scarcely have gone by before the improvement was commenced. Herein lies the value of such a body. This new road is a most important one for the section, as it gives direct communication between 8th avenue and the Central Bridge over the Harlem.

Amongst the other improvements from which Washington Heights property will receive great benefit are: The New High Bridge Park, of which THE RECORD AND GUIDE published a map recently, and which takes in the very vertebræ of this section north and west of 155th street and 8th avenue for two miles and a quarter; the Harlem River Canal Improve-and that handsome street will in the spring possess an attractiveness unsurpassed by any other in the city. Again, the James-Prague-Power syndicate purchase and beautify a section and make 86th street a veritable garden street, lined with picturesque residences. Further north the Equitable Life Assurance Society is revolutionizing a whole section between 135th and 142d streets, 7th and 8th avenues, by purchasing the property and reselling it gradually to builders, with loans. This has already resulted in the erection of some fifty houses or more on the lower blocks, and it is stated by those interested that between 100 and 200 more buildings are to be commenced in the spring of this year on the most northerly blocks purchased by that institution. Then, further north still, there are the Hamilton Grange improvements, which, although neglected for a time, are now being proceeded with. Other instances of a similar character might be mentioned. The latest organization instituted is the Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association, created with the object of improving, beautifying and otherwise advancing the real estate interests of that important section. The association does not commence work a whit too soon. The handsome improvements made along the line of St. Nicholas place to the east and west, where the Bailey mansion and other fine residences have been erected, have long since called for the fostering care and supervision of the united body of property-owners up that way. Just as the people but little realized the wonderful development under way on the west side when it commenced, so they do ment, which is being rapidly pushed forward, and which, when completed, will join the East and North Rivers together; the building of a continuous terrace joining St. Nicholas and 8th avenues with Convent and 10th avenues; the approaching completion of the Manhattan Bridge, which spans the Harlem River at 181st street and 10th avenue, and which is to be formally opened on Washington's Birthday, and a $400,000 bridge to connect the upper west side with the region beyond the Harlem. Besides, the recent decision compelling owners of water grants to improve the property and keep it in repair at their own expense will lead to considerable improvements on the water front up this way. This has already been undertaken to some extent, especially at 155th street and 8th avenue.

Another section which has been improved, and which is likely to be further improved later on, is that of the property of the Lynch estate. This comprises some 600 lots between 155th and 159th streets, 8th and Edgecombe avenues. Some thirty of these have been taken for the New High Bridge Park. The leases of two of these blocks were recently being negotiated for by the Polo Ground people, who are being forced into removing from their present quarters. These are shown in the diagram herewith. It may be said, however, with some authority, that these blocks will not fall into the hands of the Philistines, but will be offered at auction on February 21st, by Messrs. A. H. Muller & Son, on the Real Estate Exchange. The Polo Ground people were anxious to secure the site owing to its accessibility to the terminus of the 6th and 9th avenues elevated roads stations, which would practically have poured in the immense crowds right on the grounds. The two blocks further north, to the west of 8th avenue, between 157th and 159th streets, will still remain to the estate after the auction sale, and it may be that the Polo Ground managers will make an effort to lease these for a term of years. They seem to recognize that the location is probably the best for them on Manhattan Island, as the express trains which are run by the elevated road, connecting Washington Heights and this section with down town, make 155th street and 8th avenue accessible from Cortlandt street in about half an hour, and from 42d street in less than twenty minutes. Besides, if Mr. Jay Gould was correctly reported in the Stockholder recently, the Manhattan Road intends to run frequent express trains soon by means of third tracks, and this will greatly advance property around this locality. The outskirts of the city would also gain by this—such places, for instance, as Yonkers and neighborhood—as these express trains will connect with the Yonkers Rapid Transit Railroad on the New York & Northern branch which starts from 155th street and 8th avenue. At present only three of these trains run in the afternoon, and they would only be sufficient to accommodate a tithe of the crowds which would board the trains if the Polo Ground ball matches were held near 155th street and 8th avenue. Whether the managers of this concern will succeed in securing any other block in the neighborhood remains to be seen. In the meantime it will be interesting to note the prices obtained at auction next month for the lots to be offered on the two blocks shown on the above diagram, all the streets around which have been opened and made at the expense of the property-owners.

Legislation Affecting New York City.

ALBANY, February 1, 1889.

Business in the Assembly this week has made haste slowly. The ceiling scandal has overshadowed everything else, and the debates which have taken place over the appointment of experts to examine the ceiling has demonstrated very clearly that a big job has profited some persons' pockets; but how even a committee of experts, whose function it is to determine whether papier-maché has been substituted for quartered oak, is to show who is responsible for the change in the specifications, or who profited by the apparent swindle, it is not easy to see.

As usual the bulk of bills introduced in both Houses affect the city of New York and the pockets of the taxpayers. A long list of bills, which had already been introduced in Senate and Assembly, was printed in THE RECORD last week. Among the more important ones since introduced and referred to committees are the following:

By Senator Pierce—Revising the powers of the Cable Railroad Commissioners under the Rapid Transit act of 1875, who laid out the routes on seventy-one miles of streets for the New York Cable Railroad Company. It permits that corporation to perfect its charter in respect of the forfeiture clause, which the Court of Appeals ruled upon.

By Senator Ives—Providing for the issue of bonds to carry out the act which provides for laying out public places and parks in the 23d and 24th Wards in the adjacent district of Westchester County.

By Senator Stadler—Providing for the construction and maintenance of an exterior street along the East River front, from the northerly line of 49th street to a point south of the southerly line of 53d street. In this connection it may be stated that a bill is here to be soon introduced which is intended to gobble up two of the last three East River docks still open to public commerce. The Housatonic Railroad influence is said to be back of the bill, which provides for the setting aside of piers Nos. 45 and 46 for the use of the New England Terminal Company, which comprises the New York & New England and Housatonic Railroads and the Standard Oil Company. The piers are now used by American vessels plying in the East River trade.

By Senator Ives—A bill to give the Park Commissioners power to rent the buildings within the limits of Van Cortlandt, Bronx, Pelham Bay and St. Mary's Parks, for the purpose of raising money to keep them in repair until the city is prepared to open them. This, as well as a similar bill introduced in the Assembly by C. C. Clarke, member from the twenty-fourth district, was sent here by Corporation Counsel Beekman.

By Senator Cantor—Fixing the pay of day laborers for the State at $2.00 a day and 25 cents an hour.

By Senator Pierce—Providing that all mortgages heretofore made by corporations and filed in the Register's office, instead of the office of County Clerk, shall be just as valid as if they had been filed only in the latter.

By Senator Deane—A bill amending the laws relating to the construction of roads and streets across railroad tracks, which is evidently in the interest of the Vanderbilt system, which is contemplating the building of a new depot above the Harlem. It adds to Section 1 this: "Provided, however, that no highway within a radius of forty miles of any city containing a population of 500,000 or more inhabitants shall hereafter be laid out or constructed across any double, treble or quadruple track railroad operated by steam on the same grade or level with such tracks without the previous consent in writing of the Board of Railroad Commissioners."

Many important bills have been sent to the desk of the Assembly during the past few days. One of them has aroused considerable criticism, it having been asserted and denied that it was in the interest of a patent pavement company. It is the bill introduced by Mr. Connolly for the repaving with asphalt of the Grand Boulevard from 59th to 110th street. This Boulevard was splendidly paved with asphalt by day labor when the city park system was controlled by Peter B. Sweeney, but it was utterly destroyed a few years ago when Dan. Conover laid down the rails for his Boulevard and 42d street railroad. The splendid line of trees up the centre of the broad thoroughfare was not spared at the same time, as the branches were ruthlessly sacrificed whenever it was found they were likely to come in contact with the top of the cars.

A bill by Thomas E. Smith, Jr., directs that hereafter the Mayor shall appoint a School Commissioner, who shall reside within it, for each one of the twenty-four Assembly districts. Mr. Smith claims that his bill is a necessity, owing to the deterioration of the schools of the lower wards, a result largely brought about by the lack of interest shown by a Board of Commissioners all of whom reside up town.

A general bill sent up by Mr. Connolly gives the Board of Education power to establish evening high schools in its discretion without being compelled to come to the Legislature every winter for an enabling act to accomplish that purpose. Another measure gives the Department of Public Works power to establish public baths wherever and whenever required, with the reservation in both cases that the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and the Comptroller are authorized to issue the necessary bonds. Still another general bill places the power of ordering the paving and repaving of streets in the hands of the Commissioner of Public Works, for which $6,000,000 of bonds are to be issued at a rate not to exceed $2,000,000 a year.

Other new Assembly bills affecting New York property are these:

By Mr. Hamilton—Incorporating the Sevilla Home for Children in the city of New York, for which there is a private bequest of $400,000.

By Mr. Husted—Permitting the General Theological Seminary of the Episcopal Church to hold property to the amount of $200,000; also, amending chapter 176 of the laws of 1869, exempting from taxation not more than $10,000 worth of property held by certain Masonic bodies for charitable purposes.

By Mr. Husted—Authorizing the Governor to appoint five commissioners to select a site in a county east of the Sixth Judicial district to erect a State prison in place of the one at Sing Sing. The commissioners are to report to the next Assembly.

By Mr. McCarren—Authorizing the Brooklyn authorities to issue loca improvement bonds to the amount of $2,500,000, bearing 3 per cent. interest, for repaving and repairing streets.

By Mr. Hogan—Authorizing the Fire Department to approve plans for changing into a theatre the old armory building at 35th street and Broadway.

By Mr. Blanchfield—Changing map of Brooklyn so that Evergreen avenue shall be 66 feet wide between Ralph street and Gates avenue.

It is thought that very little opposition will be displayed in either House to the passage of the bill which has been sent up by Robert Ray Hamilton empowering the Park Commission to remove the zoological collection from its present quarters in the Central Park on the borders of 5th avenue to some other part of that pleasure resort where it will be less of a nuisance to people of the finest residential part of the metropolis.

The long-continued complaint that New York city realty unjustly suffers by reason of having no representation on the State Board of Assessors is met by Mr. Connolly's bill, which provides for the appointment of two additional State Assessors, which measure has been favorably reported by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

The Senate Cities Committee has favorably reported Senator Ives' bill, which permits an expenditure of $400,000 for the completion of the new building of the American Museum of Natural History.

It is believed that a favorable report is also forthcoming on the bill of Mr. Van Gorden, of Wyoming, amending the assessment and tax laws by providing that the same rule of deduction for indebtedness that now applies to personal property shall hereafter apply to real estate, and all indebtedness on real estate shall be deducted from its true value and the remainder assessed to the owner of such real estate.

Senator Murphy's bill, for the erection of a soldiers' and sailors' memorial arch in New York city, has been recommitted to the Committee on Cities. It provides for such a memorial being erected at the Plaza, at 5th avenue and 59th street, and is to be in memory of the heroes who fell in the late civil war. It constitutes the Mayor, Recorder, Comptroller, President of the Park Department, and Messrs. S. V. R. Cruger, William Waldorf Astor and Martin T. MacMahon a board of commissioners to carry the plan into effect. They are to approve designs, and the cost of the memorial, which is to be paid by the city, shall not exceed $250,000, thirty-year bonds to be issued for the purpose.

Senator Van Cott's (No. 18) measure, relating to females, amending sections 281, 282 and 322 of the Penal Code, is of interest to real estate men only in section 3, where it states that any person who, as agent or owner, lets a building, or portion thereof, for immoral purposes, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by imprisonment.

Senator Murphy's bill (No. 24) authorizes the Commissioner of Public Works to repave streets and avenues requiring it, giving him power to determine the character of the pavement; but no patented pavement shall be used without the consent of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment Bonds are to be issued for the cost, not exceeding 4 per cent. interest.

Senator Robertson has introduced an act to incorporate Webb's Academy and Home for Shipbuilders, in conformity with a desire of Wm. Henry Webb to build and endow such an institution.

Senator Ives (No. 78)—Authorizes Board of Street Opening to lay out and open the streets between 115th and 119th streets, 10th and 11th avenues, as heretofore laid out on the maps. This runs through the Bloomingdale Asylum property, and will involve its removal if passed.

Senator Robertson (No. 85)—An act to enable the foreign born children and descendants of any woman, born in the United States, and notwithstanding her marriage with an alien and residence in a foreign country, to "take, hold, have, possess, enjoy, convey and devise real estate situated in this State, provided the title to such real estate shall be or shall have been derived from or through such woman, or from or through some ancestor of such woman, which ancestor shall be or shall have been a citizen of the United States."

Assemblyman Sullivan (No. 28)—Authorizes the Fulton, Wall and Cortlandt Street Ferries Transportation Company (Limited) to run stages from Fulton Ferry through and along South street to Wall Street Ferry-house, and along and through Wall street to Broadway, on Broadway to Cortlandt street and on Cortlandt to West street, to stand on Cortlandt street at junction of Cortlandt and West streets and return over same route. The company is to pay a license of $25 per annum to the city for each stage run, and is not to charge more than 5 cents fare per passenger.

Assemblyman Blumenthal (No. 30)—Authorizes the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund to release, at private sale, the right, title, estate and interest of the city in "the old Harlem road," a certain sum to be fixed by them as compensation therefor. This has passed the Assembly.

Assemblyman Connelly (No. 33)—Extends the jurisdiction of the Park Department over West End avenue, between 72d and 106th streets, and of all the streets between West End avenue and Riverside Park, 73d and 106th streets, inclusive. It also empowers that department to plant trees and construct seats, drinking fountains, statues and works of art on any of these avenues or streets. The act does not take away the authority over paving, sewering, etc., by the Public Works Department, or of the keeping of the peace from the Municipal Police Department over this section.

Assemblymen Endres, McKenzie and Miley have each introduced a measure reducing the legal rate of interest to 5 per cent.

Assemblyman Connelly (No. 70)—To lay out and improve 116th street, from 10th avenue to the Broadway Boulevard.

Assemblyman Connelly (No. 77)—Provides for a new free floating bath on the Hudson River, between 75th and 80th streets.

Assembly Hamilton (No. 78)—Gives relief from covenants under water grants in respect of repaving and repairing streets. Allows claimants to commute by application to the Sinking Fund Commissioners, the latter to determine the sum, and makes it mandatory for the city to grant a release upon payment of such commutation.

Assemblyman Endres (No. 128)—An act to amend sec. 3, chap. 342, laws 1885, entitled "An act for the better security of mechanics and laborers and others who perform labor or furnish material for buildings and other improvements, etc." It is an amendment to the Mechanics' Lien Law.

Assemblyman Connelly's bill (No. 132) provides that corporations organized under the State laws, and every foreign corporation having a principal office in this State, shall pay all moneys due to employés at the expiration of two weeks, or treble the amount of moneys unpaid.

Assemblyman Roesch (No. 140)—Provides that all corporations shall pay weekly wages to employés, on penalty of $10 to $50 fine on each default.

Assemblyman Kerrigan (No. 141)—Amends dock laws. Provides that one dock in every five on East and North Rivers shall be an open dock for public use, and makes provisions as to the lease of such docks.

Assemblyman Crosby (No. 152)—For the erection of a fire-proof building in the City Hall Park for the office of the Register and others. It does not give consent to the removal of the City Hall and new County Court House, but any other buildings may be removed for the purpose. It also goes into details about the plans and manner of bidding, etc.

The act (No. 7) introduced by Senator Worth incorporates the Grand Bridge Company, for the purpose of constructing and maintaining a permanent bridge for railroad purposes and other traffic over the water between New York and Brooklyn, together with all necessary appurtenances and approaches thereto and stations. The capital stock is to be $10,000,000, in shares of $100. The company is empowered to acquire title to any real estate it may require, either by agreement with the owners or by condemnation. Section 19 provides that within thirty days after the passing of the bill the Mayors of New York and Brooklyn shall appoint two persons, who together with Abram H. Daily, Charles Sooysmith and Michael O'Keefe, or their successors, shall be commissioners, who, or a majority of whom, all being present and acting, shall, as soon after their appointment as they may deem expedient, have power to locate said bridge, appurtenances and approaches thereto and stations, which location shall not be changed except by a majority vote of the commissioners or their successors, etc. Nowhere in the bill is the location of the bridge given, and people would like to know where they propose to locate it. It is, of course understood that they will run over at Grand street, but the bill should define the exact location, so that property-owners should know what real estate is to be taken.

The Senate Cities' Committee has favorably reported the bill extending the route of the Fifth Avenue Stage Line; and Senator Ives' bill for the leasing by the Park Department of the buildings within the limits of the new parks in the annexed district.

The Senate Finance Committee made a favorable report on the Husted bill appropriating $200,000 for the Washington inauguration centennial. Of this amount $125,000 is to be for the expenses of the State militia and $75,000 for the use of the civic committees; of the latter amount $20,000 is set apart for the Grand Army organizations.

Men and Things.

People who have been surprised at the Times' articles on land taxes may perhaps find the key to its opinions in the fact that Mr. George Jones is a member of the Rev. Heber Newton's Church. In the report of his sermon of last Sunday it will be noticed that Mr. Newton favored land nationalization. It would not be surprising if all the personal tax dodgers should in time look with favor upon Henry George's nostrum to raise the money needed to carry on the business of the State. He would exempt all improved and productive property from taxation, confining the raising of money to a tax on ground values, putting as heavy an impost on improved as on unimproved real estate.

It is safe to say that the members of the Goethe Club were as much surprised as pleased by the really remarkable paper read by William Winter before that society on Tuesday, January 29th, in answer to certain strictures made by Mr. Dion Boucicault on the relation of the newspapers to dramatic art. Mr. Boucicault himself was not particularly happy in his remarks. Beginning with what was certainly a very inadequate definition of art in general—the pleasure of giving pleasure—he went on to charge the newspapers in a sweeping way of being and of having been at the root of all the evils and shortcomings of the stage. There was a degree of truth in what he said; but his statements were neither sufficiently qualified nor sufficiently elaborated, and it was only occasionally by little flashes of rhetorical splendor that the audience were reminded that it was the author of "London Assurance" they were listening to. Moreover, Mr. Boucicault did not seem to appreciate the fact that, in passing such severe criticisms, he was personally occupying a rather anomalous position; for, as Mr. Winter pointed out, no actor or author on the American stage has received such good treatment from the wicked press as Mr. Boucicault, and hence no one has taken more advantage of its baleful methods and influence. Altogether, Mr. Boucicault's paper seemed to be ill-prepared and ill-digested. Mr. Winter, on the contrary, was, if anything, too elaborate. If fault must be found, his lecture was rather long. He dwelt unnecessarily on minor points, and entered into discussions that were to a degree irrevelant. But, putting aside such excusable defects as these, Mr. Winter's discussion was a continued source of pleasure and instruction. His prose was always smooth and lucid, and at times he rose even to eloquence. His anecdotes and illustrations were amazingly well selected and charmingly told, while throughout the whole of his discourse there were scattered suggestions that were deep, suggestive and eminently human. It was the sweet, ripe product of a mind that was full to overflowing.

There has been a project suggested recently that will delight enthusiasts who love to dwell on stupendous schemes, that sound very big and important, without really meaning much. The project is to connect New York and London by rail. The plan, according to experts, presents no engineering impossibilities, although, of course, it involves some difficulties. Behring Straits can be bridged and the English Channel tunneled. The total distance would be 14,000 miles, and the time to take the journey twenty-three days. This is all very nice, but who on earth, except curiosity-seekers and people with a morbid horror of sea-sickness, would take this means of communication from New York to London. A road from New York to the Straits might in time have its uses, and a road from the Straits to the Ural Mountains would be sure to aid Russia commercially and politically. But there is nothing in the plan to get from New York to London by rail except the name of the thing; and that, perhaps, the world can do without. The project is decidedly useful in piecemeal, but equally useless in totality.

An English writer has been commenting on the change that has taken place of late years in the character of the stage villain. He is no longer a great big brawny, bull-dog of man, with a face that would make a detective shudder. His hands are no longer dirty, his linen is no longer soiled, and his home is no longer in the slums. We are no longer allowed to see the base metal of which he is made—it is covered with a veneer of social silver. He still, indeed, affects pistols and knives, but they are not displayed in company, He commits his murders and thefts between the intervals of his cigarettes, and his black heart is covered by a shirt of spotless white surmounted by an irreproachable necktie, and set off by a button-hole bouquet. He seldom is so crude in his methods as to use force. He accompliehes his ends by means of other men's passions, but seldom by his own. In short, though he is still Satan, he puts his horns and hoofs in his pocket, where they can be found only by diligent search, generally extending through five acts. Not unfrequently, the sympathies of the audience are aroused in his favor, simply because he is no longer repulsive and is often something of a wit. Theatre-goers should be glad of the change. Heaven help us from the roaring, ranting, bellowing knave, who is a fool as well as a villain. We can forgive a great deal to a clever man

There seems to be among the low fellows who are interested in pugilism, a sense of fairness of which they have not been suspected. When Sullivan, the Boston slugger, broke his arm, Kilrain challenged him to fight for a champion belt contributed by a sporting paper for sake of advertisement. Of course, Sullivan could not respond, and Kilrain took the belt and proclaimed himself the champion of the world. He went to England and fought a drawn battle with Jem Smith under circumstances which suggested suspiciously a hippodrome. An English pugilist had a drawn fight shortly afterwards with Sullivan, whereupon Kilrain and Mitchell joined forces and came to this country to give sparring exhibitions; but the roughs who frequent such places would not tolerate them. They were hissed, rotton-egged and almost mobbed in every city in which they appeared. The crowds insisted that Kilrain should fight a real battle with Sullivan before claiming the championship, and this it seems he has been forced to agree to do. As for Mitchell he has had to leave the country. But the newest development in the pugilistic world is the appearance of a colored man from Australia, named Jackson, who whipped with the greatest ease one of the most formidable fighters in the country. He is believed to be more than a match for any white man in the United States.

St. Elizabeth Church.

The church illustrated below has been the subject of considerable attention in Philadelphia, and I have thought that a brief description of the building may interest those in New York city who care for architecture enough to follow its development elsewhere. This structure stands at the corner of Berk street and 23d street, the congregation for whom it is intended being under the charge of the Reverend Father Dornhege. The building is now nearing completion, and it is generally thought that the architects, Messrs. Herter Bros., of New York, have given us one of the finest ecclesiastical edifices in the city. Only the interior decorations and the stained glass work have to be added.

The building is 175 feet long by 65 feet wide. As the illustration shows, the design is Romanesque. The material used in construction is Lipperville stone with Indiana limestone, the latter being used in the decorative parts. The stone has been very carefully chosen and the color effect is excellent. The total height of the tower is 185 feet, and it is calculated that the building will accommodate 1,700 persons, 1,300 of which will be on the auditory floor and 400 in the spacious gallery. A mention of the cost will perhaps not be out of place; it amounts to $150,000, which is not a common amount for expenditure among Philadelphia congregations.

Great attention has been given to the decorations. For both the exterior and interior they will be most elaborate. The ceiling is supported by 12-inch polished granite columns, and is to be covered with frescoes illustrating the life of Christ and those of the Virgin Mary and St. Elizabeth. They will all be painted by some of the best artists in the country. The stained glass windows also are to be very elaborate. Thirteen of them will be devoted to subjects taken from the history of St. Elizabeth, the patron saint of the church. The remaining windows will deal with the lives of other saints. The walls behind the main altar will be covered with three large panels, in which, in figures more than life-size, the Crucifixion of Christ will be represented. Behind the side altars will be a picture of the Assumption of the Virgin Mary and scenes from the life of St. Joseph. Fourteen angels, over life size, holding the symbols of martyrology, will be placed on the top of the capitals of the granite columns in the central nave supporting the ceiling of the building.

The lighting and ventilating of the structure are points which were especially taken into consideration when the plans were drawn, and the arrangements for opening and closing the sky lights in the ceiling of the building insure perfect ventilation. It is said that the effect of the stained glass windows is one of the most admirable in the country.

It should be said that this church was erected under the most difficult circumstances, and at present it stands on the basement walls which a Philadelphia architect had erected. When completed it will be one of the handsomest in the city, and the prospect is that it will be opened to the public either in October of this year, or in May, 1890. I learn that the Rev. Father Dornhege, who, by the way, is a great admirer of art in its different branches, intends shortly to build a parsonage, a club-house and a convent. These will take in the four corners of the block, the church being on one corner, the parsonage on the second and the club-house on the third, while the fourth will serve as the grounds for the convent.

The fact that New York architects had been called in to build upon the foundations laid by a Philadelphian, naturally made the building an object of even more interest than might otherwise have been; but it is now frankly admitted that from both the artistic and constructive results the choice was a good one. The building has been most carefully planned the arrangements are good, the utilization of space admirable and the acoustic qualities of the structure excellent.

Messrs. Herter Bros. deserve great credit for the work they have done.

The Mutual Life's Annual Report.

About a year ago we spoke in these columns of the great progress made during the twelve months by the Mutual Life Insurance Company. The progress made during the past year, however, has been even more remarkable. The new business written amounted to $103,214,261.23, an increase of $33,756,792.95 over the new risks assumed in 1887, and a gain of $46,381,542 over the business of 1886—a really wonderful increase. The financial strength of this company is of the surest kind. Since 1843, the year of organization, it has paid to policy-holders $272,481,339; its assets are now $126,082,153.56, the amount of insurance in force $482,125,184.36, its income in 1888 $26,215,932.52, and its surplus (4 per cent.) $7,940,063.63. The assets of the company are invested with commendable conservativism in only first-class securities; $49,617,874.02 being in bonds and mortgages, $48,616,704.14 in United States and other securities, and $21,786,125.34 in real estate and loans on collateral. The success of this company is attributed to its generous and simple policy and the advantages which it has had by the able management of its directive officers, who are all men of wealth and the highest standing in the commercial world.

An informal private conference took place in the Mayor's office the other day between several heads of departments, in reference to the removal of the city records and other instruments affecting real estate, in view of the expectation that the Register's office will be torn down to make way for a new fire-proof Hall of Records. The Corporation Counsel suggested that a suitable suite of offices should be rented by the city in a fire-proof building, to which to have the records removed, and to serve as a temporary headquarters till the new building is finished. A lease of at least a year will be involved, and the Register, as well as the Mayor, will no doubt be glad to receive offers from agents and owners accordingly.

Preparations are being made by the city authorities in the matter of printing the new forms and indices for the new block system of indexing the records which is to go into effect.

Benner and Protection.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

I inclose you my printed views upon the cause of panics, in answer to Mr. Samuel Benner. I agree with him as to our country's prosperity up to 1891 under a protective administration, which causes our people as a whole to produce more at home and buy less abroad, which economy enriches in time when applied to a nation and cannot, so long as merchandise exports exceeds import expenses, create a business panic. Mr. Benner fails to show the true cause of the former panics of either 1837, 1857 and 1873, which panies were wholly caused by excessive foreign costs for imports over our country's earnings from merchandise exports, by only a reduction of duties upon imports, which in turn increased our country's expenses and taxation for competing imports and diminished our country's earnings, production and gold wealth at home. No country with greater earnings from those exports of merchandise over expense for imports can be other than a prosperous nation—like the man Astor, with a greater income than his expense account, who is yearly growing richer. Our former great panics were wholly caused by our government administration changing and encouraging our people to spend their money abroad by lowering duties upon our country's greatest impoverishing tax, that of foreign products, that they, the foreign, may undersell American products in our markets.

G. W. DEAN.

The annual meeting of the Real Estate Owners' and Builders' Association was held on Monday evening at the Grand Union Hotel, when the following board of directors was elected for the ensuing year: Messrs. Charles Buek, Thomas Graham, Cornelius O'Reilly, Geo. N. Williams, James McKnight, Aaron C. Allen, Geo. Vassar, Jr., Wm. S. Miller and B. Muldoon. A standing committee of five, in addition to the president and secretary, was appointed, with full power to act for the association, to watch rapid transit, water supply and all other important matters relating to the prosperity of real estate. The five names include Messrs. O'Reilly, Williams, Allen, Miller and Robert McCafferty. A collation followed and speeches were delivered on the growth and progress of the Empire City.

Municipal Government.

Our readers will remember that last week we printed some facts derived from an interview, in the Pall Mall Gazette, with Mr. Albert Shaw, editor of the Minneapolis Tribune. We give below extracts from the interview, which has been printed in pamphlet form and distributed among the subscribers to the John Hopkins University Studies in Historical and Political Science. Mr. Shaw says, respecting the superiority of the English municipal system, that it is better in three things:

It is simpler, it is more efficient, and there is much more trust shown in the people; for instance, to begin at the beginning, the simplicity of your system. A British municipality is one of the simplest forms of democracy. All your householders elect your council; a certain proportion of Aldermen are elected, and this is the governing body of the town. The Mayor, who is elected annually, is the creature of the council, and simply the ornamental head and temporary chairman of the local governing body. With us we have a far more complicated system; our municipal body has very restricted authority, neither does it elect the Mayor, who is the executive. The Mayor is elected by plebiscite of the citizens and stands in no organic relation to the municipal assembly, his position being analogous to that of the President and the State Governors. That, however, is not all. The municipality is itself subject to the State Legislature to such an extent that whenever any important subject comes up it is the habit of the Legislature to appoint a special commission to relieve the municipal body of all duties and responsibilities relating thereto. In many cities, for instance, at the present time, the ordinary police administration is in the hands of commissions appointed by the State governments, and various other interferences restrict and dissipate municipal responsibility. So much for simplicity. Secondly, as to efficiency. In America the local authority, not having the same large range of power which belongs to your municipalities, does not attract to itself the best kind of men. Second and third rate men, many of whom are not free from suspicion of corruption, are elected, the more influential citizens feeling that it pays them better to submit to a little cheating and slovenliness in local administration rather than waste valuable time in looking after the small share of local business which falls to a member of the municipal body. Then, again, many of our municipalities are dominated by the liquor question. Elections turn solely upon high license or low license, prohibition or regulation. In presence of these issues, very few people think of administrative efficiency. Then, again, it is very seldom that we maintain our officials for so many years in office as is the case here. It is not at all unusual to find a British municipal officer with fifty years' experience behind him. Thirdly, there is much more power entrusted to your municipalities than is the case with us. I have seen nothing like Glasgow, for instance, in the whole of the United States. The extent and multiplicity of the powers vested in your corporation, the absolute freedom from any outside influences possessed by your municipalities, have no counterpart on our side of the Atlantic; with you the municipal Home Rule is carried to much greater lengths than it is with us.

Moreover, the city takes the greatest care of its poor.

Most of the population of Glasgow living in the rooms of tenemented buildings, they enter them by passages and corridors which are often of very considerable extent. All these staircases and corridors within tenemented property are lighted by the city corporation just as they light the public streets. Part of this is recouped to the town by a charge to the owners of the property, but the lighting of these passages and staircases and corridors is recognized as part of the public duty of a public authority. The advantages are enormous. A gas-lamp is worth a policeman any day, and it is true economy and sound policy which have led to this extension of the lighting area of the town. Another admirable institution of Glasgow are the municipal lodging-houses. These will accommodate some thousands of men and women every night. Each person has a separate room and the use of a common room in which he can read and play draughts or chess, and of a kitchen in which he can cook whatever he likes as he likes for the sum of 4d. per day! It can be done at that figure and a profit made out of it, the proof of which is that one of the superintendents of the municipal lodging-houses started a similar lodging-house of his own as a private venture in which he accommodates 600 persons nightly. Take another instance. The public washhouses in Glasgow are of simply unexampled excellence. They are all the property of the corporation, and established for the use of the people. Any workman's wife can take the dirty linen of the household to the public laundry, and for the charge of 2d. an hour can secure the use of a small apartment, with hot and cold water laid on, with a boiler in which her washing can be boiled by steam. She must supply her own soap, but after she has washed the clothes all the moisture is removed from them by a patent wringer, and then they are thoroughly dried in a hot-air chamber. After that they are ironed by being passed through heated steel rollers and can be taken home, cleaned, and done up in less than an hour after entering the laundry to do a week's washing for 2d. This is a convenience which must be seen to be believed. Another excellent institution attached to the laundry is the public bath. Admirable swimming baths for both men and women exist, in which the clear Loch Katrine water is maintained at the right temperature, and in these you can swim as long as you like for 2d. But I might go on for an hour describing all the arrangements that are made for the convenience and health of the community.

But most important and practical to us of all Mr. Shaw's facts are those concerning the tramways:

The arrangement by which the tramways of Glasgow are worked is very interesting and suggestive. The line was laid down by the corporation and leased to a company under an arrangement by which the company had to pay interest and sinking fund on the capital expended by the corporation in laying down the tramway, so that by the time the lease expires they will have repaid the whole cost of the construction as well as the interest upon the amount expended. They also have to pay a rental of £150 a mile per annum and to relay the line at the conclusion of their lease, so that they will hand it over to the corporation in a better condition than it was when they entered upon it, for the steel rails (which they are to put down) will replace iron ones. Not only is the tramway company thus put under onerous obligations to the community which leases out the use of its streets, but the interests of the working classes are protected by a series of maximum fares which the tramway company is not allowed to exceed. The fares are very cheap. The distances are not great, and the penny fare is the rule, but it is stipulated that for an hour in the morning and an hour in the evening, when work-people are going to and from their work, they shall be carried at a halfpenny.

"But how, in the name of wonder, does the tramway company survive under such conditions?"

"It not only survives, but pays an average dividend of 10 per cent., besides providing for the sinking fund to defray £150,000 bonus which they paid to the original lessees to secure possession of the lease. Herein it seems to me that Glasgow teaches the cities in England and America a lesson, for they have literally chucked away, as if it were not worth having, the right to use the streets, on which they might have raised a very handsome revenue, although I could name a number of interesting and creditable exceptions in England."

THE MONOPOLIES OF SERVICE.

"I suppose Glasgow owns its gas and water?"

"Certainly; and so ought every municipality. All the monopolies of service, such as gas, water, trams, and the like, should belong to the community, and experience has shown that they can be administered with quite as much freedom from assumption as when they were left in the hands of private adventurers. The great difficulty of municipal finance hitherto has been that it has relied far too much upon rates, and a rate is always an unpopular means of raising money. If, on the other hand, the community kept the monopolies of service in its own hands it would be able in many cases ultimately to raise a magnificent revenue without laying on a rate at all."

"Did you find much trace of a tendency to municipalize the land in Englishmen?"

"No, very little. That is a question of the future, not of the present."

"How many people do you think that the Glasgow corporation employ."

"I would hesitate at answering that question; but if you reckon those who are employed by contractors who are doing work for the corporation, those who are employed upon the Clyde Navigation Trust (which is practically a branch of the municipal administration of Glasgow, although other bodies are joined with it), you will find that there must be upwards of 10,000 persons constantly employed in the service of the city. I would not like to pin myself to those figures, but they are not far out."

Mr Shaw sums up his impressions as follows:

First, simplify your administration; secondly, trust your people; thirdly, give your municipality plenty to do, so as to bring the best men to the work; fourthly, keep all the monopolies of service in the hands of the municipality—regard the supply of gas and water, and the letting of the use of the streets as very promising sources of revenue; and lastly, use the authority and influence of the municipality, in order to secure for the poorest advantages in the shape of cheap trains, healthy and clean lodging, baths, wash-houses, hospitals, reading-rooms, etc., to such an extent, at least, as in a given case private enterprise shows itself inadequate to do what the welfare of the community requires should be done. I say this with no ardent bias towards socialism, and with due regard for the financial aspects of these questions.

Real Estate Exchange Affairs.

The Committee on Legislation held their usual weekly meeting on Tuesday. Thomas F. Murtha was voted to the chair, and there was a large attendance of members.

The Committee on City Improvements reported adversely on Mr. Creamer's bill, proposing to permit an elevated railway on Broadway. The report was adopted. The committee also reported progress on the question of the location of the new municipal buildings.

The Committee on Pending Legislation reported adversely on the bill to reduce the legal rate of interest in this State to 5 per cent. The report was adopted.

The subject of the abolition of taxes on mortgages was discussed, and was referred to a Sub-committee on Taxation and Assessment. The feeling was strongly against such taxation.

Mr. Jayne offered a motion to the effect that all resolutions declaring the attitude of this committee on matters of public interest shall be submitted at least one week previous to being voted upon, except by unanimous consent. Considerable discussion followed, and the matter was laid over till next week.

Mr. Isaacs, at the request of a member—Mr. Cyrille Carreau—proposed a resolution that the Committee on Building and Mechanics' Lien Law confer with the Board of Health to secure an amendment of the Sanitary Code providing for proceedure against the tenant of part of a tenement house in cases where the violation of the law is due to the negligence of the tenant, and for reserving until a subsequent notice the remedy against the landlord; also that the committee report what changes, if any, are required in existing laws to provide for such action. On discussion several members said that it was not just that the landlords should always be acted against when the violations were generally due to the tenant. The motion was carried, and the meeting adjourned.

OBJECTING TO MORE SIGNS.

The following petition has been sent in by the auctioneers who have signs and stands in the Exchange against the renting of further signs on the walls:

"NEW YORK, January 26, 1889.

"To the Board of Direction of the Real Estate and Auction Room (Limited):

"The undersigned auctioneers and holders of stands in the Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room have learned with surprise that it has been decided by the Exchange and Auction Room Committee 'to rent a limited number of signs on the walls of the Auction Room' in violation of the rights of your petioners and, we believe, of the rules of the Exchange.

"We desire to protest in the strongest possible manner against the grasping policy which, without deigning to consult the persons most interested, would not only deprive us of part of our rights and privileges, but would also degrade the handsome walls of the Auction Room to the level of an advertising medium, and we would most respectfully notify you that if said Committee persists in its course we will be compelled, in self-defence, to take the necessary legal steps to protect our interests.

"And your petitioners will ever pray, etc.

"Signed—Adrian H. Muller & Son, 1 Pine street; E. H. Ludlow & Co.; Smyth & Ryan, 70 Liberty street; John F. B. Smyth, 69 Liberty street; L. J. & I. Phillips, 149 Broadway; Wm. Real Estate Department.

The market continues to show a healthy tone. Brokers report that sales are slower and somewhat more difficult of negotiation than during the first few weeks of the year. There is, however, considerable inquiry and negotiation, and quite a number of properties have changed hands. The table of conveyances for the week fall behind the corresponding period last year, both in number and amount. The building tables, as well as our weekly reports recently, show that the architects are busier than they were a year ago at this time. The auction market has been fairly active during the week, the busiest days being Tuesday and Wednesday, but no very large or important sales took place. Next week some important parcels of improved and vacant property will be offered.

There appears to be more money than ever in the market to loan on bond and mortgage. Capitalists are evidently finding out that less money is being drawn to the West, owing to the prospect of decreased railroad building and the abatement of the land speculative fever. Four per cent. money offered on choice mortgages is quite plentiful just now. One broker stated yesterday that he had $500,000 of it, which he could place. Four per cent. money is now obtainable at 33 to 40 per cent. of the value of property, four and a-half per cent. at from 40 to 50 per cent., five per cent. at from 50 to 60 per cent., and six per cent. at from 60 to 80 per cent. on the value.

There was only one sale on Monday, that of No. 160 East 118th street. The property was sold to the plaintiff and executor.

On Tuesday the Exchange was crowded with a number of investors and brokers who came to see the James D. Fish and other properties disposed of. The three four-story brick buildings at Nos. 180 to 184 6th avenue brought $84,650. The real estate broker who purchased them for the ex-president of the Marine Bank, told a reporter of THE RECORD AND GUIDE that he paid $49,000 for them in 1881. The Association Hall property on the southeast corner of 4th avenue and 129th street was sold to H. Brash for $32,000. A lot about, 20x100, at No. 30 West Houston street, 80 feet east of Greene, with a three-story building on it, brought $24,800; and a six-story tenement at No. 189 Chrystie street, near Rivington, sold for $32,400 to B. Lewis. The two five-story stone front apartment houses Nos. 148 and 150 West 125th street, 25x85x100 each, were purchased by Max Weil for $86,400. A number of properties were also sold under foreclosure, in which the New York Life Insurance Company and others figured as plaintiffs and purchasers.

On Wednesday a number of sales took place, but none of much importance. No. 594 3d avenue, known as "The Lenox," a four-story store and flat was bought by Ferdinand Fish, as broker for another, for $21,650. The southwest corner of 11th avenue and 48th street was knocked down to John Cosgrove for $16,400; No. 324 West 31st street, a private house with extension brought $13,200, and No. 427 West 16th street, a five-story double tenement with stores, 25x71.11x92, sold for $17,000. A parcel of 24th Ward property, comprising six lots and house on Pelham avenue, near the St. John's College grounds, was sold for $9,000 to M. Develin.

On Thursday the sales were less numerous than on the two previous days. Nos. 513 and 515 10th avenue, near 39th street, two five-story tenements and stores on lots 24.6x75, sold for $42,250 to Frederick Haberland. The 20-foot house at No. 123 East 46th street was sold under foreclosure for $16,900 to the plaintiff, the St. Nicholas Bank. The sales of the house on 88th street, near 8th avenue, and of Nos. 301 to 313 East 97th street, were withdrawn.

Yesterday only a few sales were held, the principal one being that of a vacant plot on 93d street east of 10th avenue running through to Apthorp's lane, size 200x83.1x200x91.6, which was bought in by the plaintiff, Francis M. Jencks, at $69,000.

On Tuesday, February 5th, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell, by order of the trustee, two valuable lots on Riverside Drive, between 93d and 94th streets, on which 60 per cent. will be allowed to remain at 5 per cent.; also four lots on the northeast corner of the Grand Boulevard and 155th street with dwelling thereon, on which 75 per cent. can remain at 5 per cent. for one or three years; also on the same day the four-story tenement at No. 421 East 25th street, and two lots on 66th street, east of 9th avenue.

On Wednesday, February 6th, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell the tenement property at Nos. 64 and 66 Monroe street, comprising two lots 121 feet deep with front and rear buildings thereon, and on Thursday, February 7th, the three-story brown stone front dwelling No. 155 West 53d street.

On Tuesday, February 5th, A. H. Muller & Son will conduct the important sale of the Lorillard Spencer estate, comprising the following desirable improved properties: No. 525 Broadway, 104 Worth street, 498 Pearl street, 130 and 132 White street, 534 Greenwich street, 513 Washington street, 136 Prince street, 12 Allen street, 62 Canal street, 60 and 62 Eldridge street, 85 Hester street and 109 Canal street. A large attendance will no doubt be present at this sale, comprising, as it does, an unusually large number of offerings of valuable down-town properties.

On Thursday, February 7th, Scott & Myers will sell the following properties, by order of the Supreme Court, in partition, and under the direction of the referee, Sylvanus T. Cannon: The undivided two-fifths interest in the five-story brick building No. 15 Bowery; the three-story front and rear tenements at No. 135 Eldridge street; the five-story tenement No. 313 East 46th street; the three-story brick store and dwelling No. 348 8th avenue, between 27th and 28th streets; an extra sized vacant lot on the northwest corner of the Boulevard and 122d street, and seven vacant lots on the southeast corner of the Boulevard and 125th streets. These include valuable improved and unimproved properties which will attract the attention of investors.

On Thursday, February 7th, A. H. Muller & Son will sell the valuable down-town properties situated at Nos. 172 Fulton street, 18 Dey street and 142, 144, 146, 148, 174 and 178¼ Water street. These are choice and valuable improved properties which will attract the attention of investors.

On Wednesday, February 13th, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell the four-story tenement at No. 246 East 39th street, by order of the executor, and the five-story tenement at No. 405 East 63d street.

On Thursday, February 14th, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell by order of the executor ten lots on 5th avenue, 88th and 89th streets, taking in the entire front. This will be quite an important sale.

Out Among the Builders.

The Goelet estate intend to tear down the buildings on their property on the southeast corner of Broadway and 32d street, and to erect thereon a first-class apartment house, with studios on the top floors and stores on the ground floor. The frontage covered will be 125 feet on Broadway and 150 feet on the street.

Stephen D. Hatch is preparing plans for extensive alterations to be made in the building at No. 49 Broadway. The United States Express Company has leased this property for a term of twenty years and will remodel the interior for their own accommodation. The cost has not been estimated.

J. C. Cady & Co. have plans for nine five-story model tenements, each 28x90 feet, to be constructed by the East Side Building Association on the north side of 96th street, 175 feet east of 3d avenue, and having a frontage of 252 feet. The fronts are to be of Philadelphia brick and Kentucky limestone and the foundations are to be laid upon piles the tops of which are 35 feet below the curb. Out of Town.

ELLSTON, MD.—Mr. Jacob Tome, a wealthy resident of Port Deposit, has decided to establish a seminary at this place for the free education of boys and girls between the ages of ten and eighteen years.

IRVINGTON-ON-HUDSON.—Mr. Edwin H. Mairs intends to build a handsome residence at this place. It will be two-and-a-half stories in height, 40x80 in size, and in the Colonial style of architecture. The first story and piazza walls will be of pink and buff bricks, the balance above being in frame. The interior will be handsomely decorated in hardwoods, etc., and steam heat, with other modern improvements, will be provided. The house will be built in the midst of some nine acres of ground owned by Mr. Mairs, situated on the bank of the Hudson, on property recently purchased from the Barney estate. The grounds will be laid out partly in lawn, and the cost of the buildings and improvements will be upwards of $30,000. Messrs. Robertson & Manning are the architects.

JAMAICA, L. I.—The bill introduced by Mr. Hawkins in the Senate to establish a normal and training school at this place has created quite a little flurry. The act provides that such an institution shall be built on condition that within a year after the passing of the bill a suitable site shall be presented to the State for the purpose by one or more citizens. The cost of the school shall not exceed $100,000, and it must be built under the direction of a board of managers and approved by the Superintendent of Public Instruction and the Comptroller.

JERSEY CITY, N. J.—A bill is to be introduced at Trenton to add to the Health Department an inspector who has had ten years or more practical experience as a plumber, and who shall have entire supervision of the plumbing of Jersey City.

A representative of THE RECORD AND GUIDE called upon the Health Inspector with the object of ascertaining the condition of plumbing and sewerage in this city. He said: "The general condition is bad. The most frequent cause of complaint is that the house pipes connect with the sewer. The sewer pipes frequently burst owing to the very porous character of the soil in the swampy districts. We find that in these localities there are many earthenware pipes, and that as the ground and the buildings settle these pipes crack. Often they are not properly secured at the joints. The sewage frequently overflows and gets under the cellars, thus causing sickness. Landlords are very backward in informing us of defective sewerage. In one case we found that an old tin plate had been welded with the sewer pipe to cover up a crack. If I had my own way I would have iron piping only. Of course, if the joints are properly cemented and the ground is solid, earthenware pipes will last a thousand years, but it is in the settling of the ground where the damage is done."

"Can you tell me the number of cases of defective plumbing examined during the year?" asked your representative.

"Yes, 147," was the reply, "the largest being in December, when there were twenty-one cases, and the smallest in January, when there were five. Sewer gas was reported in ninety-two cases, the largest number (twenty) being in August, and the smallest in March.

The Mayor informed your representative that the death rate for Jersey City in 1887 was 23.3 per 1,000, and in 1886 22.4. The highest mortality in the last thirteen years was 26.8 per 1,000 in 1876, and the lowest 20.3 in 1879. The death rate for 1888 has not yet been made up.

The condition of many of the streets requires serious overhauling. The Evening Journal recently said:

A row-boat would have been convenient at many of the street crossings on the Heights yesterday. In many localities the slush was more than ankle deep, and pedestrians, especially females, were puzzled how to get from one curb to another.

LEAVENWORTH, KAN.—The competition for the new Congregational Church to be built here has been decided in favor of A. B. Jennings, of New York. The new building, 68x50, is to be built of stone and will have a tower 100 feet high. The Sunday-school room and parlors are to be in the basement, and the church with gallery will seat 500 persons. The Ruttan Smead system of ventilation will be used. Probable cost, $25,000.

PASSAIC, N. J.—Thayer & Robinson, of New York, are arranging plans for some addition which E. N. Frisbie is soon to make to his residence, at a cost of $4,000.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—Architects Heins and La Farge, of New York, are engaged upon plans for the new Catholic Church of the Blessed Sacrament which is to be erected in this city. The church will be a brick and stone edifice on the Basilican plan, with transepts and organ gallery, and an independent campanile, 120 feet high and 16 feet square, is to be erected at the side. The measurements of the church are 156x82.6 across transepts, the nave being 69.6 feet wide. There are to be chapels at the end of each of the side aisles and the nave. Much of the fine carving and the decorating will be done at a later date as the money is subscribed. A residence for the priest is also to be erected near the church. No estimates of the cost have as yet been made.

RUTHERFORD, N. J.—T. T. Reinhardt is soon to erect a three-story brick and terra cotta apartment house, 25x45, with store and basement, from plans designed by D. T. Atwood, New York. Cost, $5,500.

WATERTOWN, N. Y.—Plans by W. P. Wentworth, of Boston, will be used in the construction of the new church which Roswell P. Flower and Anson R. Flower have offered to build for Trinity parish in this city. The church, 150x117, will be built of native limestone with terra cotta trimmings, and will have a spire 156 feet high. The plans provide for a separate baptistry and organ chamber, and the cost, exclusive of furniture, will be $55,000.

WOODSIDE, N. J.—J. B. Snook & Sons have plans for three two-and-a-half-story frame cottages, 18x30, with cellars, which P. Weiler will build at a cost of $3,000 each.

Special Notices.

Henry T. Bartlett, whose mahogany saw mills are situated at the foot of 5th and 6th streets, East River, has a large selection of foreign and domestic cabinet woods always on hand. He also supplies veneers. Mr. Bartlett can be communicated with at his yards or at No. 200 Lewis street.

In another column will be found an illustration of two handsome private residences, offered by the well-known artistic grate and fender firm, Wm. H. Jackson & Co., of No. 31 East 17th street. The houses are situated in one of the choices and most fashionable quarters of the city, within view of the Hudson River, being Nos. 184 and 186 West End avenue, between 73d and 74th streets. They were specially designed for first-class "homes," and were built by day's work in the most careful manner, with iron beams, special elevators, and all the modern improvements belonging to a fashionable residence. Our readers should inspect them. A watchman is always on the premises.

Louis H. Hallen & Co. have just fitted up a handsome suite of offices on the ground floor of the handsome new building of the Young Men's Christian Association at No. 7 West 125th street. Mr. Hallen has had considerable experience in the real estate business, and is one of the most energetic amongst the younger brokers and agents in Harlem. He announces his intention to keep open evenings and to pay particular attention to renting, collecting and insurance. He also takes entire charge of estates.

Much of the inconvenience attending the cleaning and repairing of windows may be obviated by using the excellent and convenient "Hitt Removable Windows," a full-size working model of which may be seen at the offices of the agents, Messrs. A. C. Fairchild & Co., at 24 Park place, in this city. The inventor of this window has taken every precaution to render it weather-tight and noiseless, and the ease with which it may be removed from the sash and cleaned without in any way disturbing the woodwork of the frame is highly appreciated by housewives and owners wherever they have been introduced. Attention is called to the advertising card of Messrs. Fairchild & Co. in another column, where a cut may be seen of the window in operation.

Among the most durable and satisfactory of the many laundry tubs and sinks sold in this city are those manufactured by the Empire Granite Co., whose offices may be found on 15th street, between Avenues B and C. This company has every facility for producing tubs of the highest quality and grade of strength and durability, and intending purchasers will do well to inspect their stock and illustrated circular. These tubs are very hard and are finished with great care, and always keep clean and smooth. They are made of one solid piece of stone, and are cheap and durable.

Any architect or builder who has not seen the Giant Metal Sash Chains manufactured by the well-known Smith & Egge Manufacturing Co., of Bridgeport, Conn., should send to them for a sample, which will be sent free to any address on application. These chains are very simple and strong in their construction and are giving the utmost satisfaction wherever used. They are found to have great tensile strength and neither corrode nor lose their vitality by exposure. As will be seen in another column they have been introduced into many of the large structures of this and other cities, notably the Boreel building and the Florence flats, as well as in the new State, War and Navy Department buildings at Washington, D. C.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—The market commences to show something like winter characteristics. There has been no actual close of navigation to be sure, and the moderate amount of ice in the river could hardly be called an impediment, between this point and Haverstraw Bay at least, but a great many barges have been taken off and the few running deliver their supply in a somewhat uncertain manner. Arrivals, however, have generally found waiting custom and the demand gathering force enough since our last to act as a stimulus to value and further advance the rate with $8.00 per M established on actual sales and still asked in some cases on orders from manufacturers to hold for that figure or refuse to sell. It is, however, found that in many cases dealers rather object to submitting quietly to the additional cost, but instead are drawing upon their piles to meet present wants, as the margin is greater, and hence while sellers feel reasonably confident that under existing influences they can maintain their position, they are frank in admitting that only the best of quality will command and faulty goods must be sold at a reasonable shading. Advices from primary sources would seem to indicate a present determination among manufacturers to abstain from seeking a market too freely, though there is a fear that mild weather might act as a temptation to renew shipments in larger quantities. A great deal of work continues possible on account of the absence of extreme frost, and the daily consumption for brick is much above the ordinary average for this season of the year. Sales are in continued good demand and gradually creeping up in price, with $8.75 per M already obtained, and receivers feeling pretty certain that they will soon do even better on the best quality of stock.

LATH.—In a wholesale way there has been practically no market at all since our last report, owing to the absence of material to work with. Everything was sold out last week, no arrivals have since been reported, and there is said to be nothing at present on the way, so that receivers are left without a basis to test affairs. The last actual sales was at $2.20 per M from first hands, but $2.25 immediately thereafter bid, and it is believed still higher could be obtained were stock available, but as matters stand the position is simply nominal.

LIME.—Some odd arrivals have taken place and quickly disappeared, and it is believed that further amounts would meet with the same reception, as many dealers, having distributed with more freedom than expected, are in want of fresh supplies. At primary points Eastward the burning is moderate and shipments few, and this is a matter of necessity owing to scant supply of vessels, and it is believed that manufacturers would very soon place themselves in a position to utilize a reasonable increase in the transportation facilities.

LUMBER—One of the excuses given by some operators for a dull trade is the turn from one month into another, and possibly it is a juncture when business becomes slightly curtailed. It has been mentioned again this week as a factor, in conjunction with weather uncertainties, tending to keep demand within rather narrow compass, and reports have rather a quiet tone, with little or nothing really new suggested regarding the regular yard trade, and the wholesale market also somewhat barren of particularly significant features. Recent clearances have tended to confirm previous reports of increased demand on foreign account, and further export orders at possibly higher rates are said to be under consideration. Coastwise supplies of standard quality command rather prompt attention and have hardened in value, and while representatives of interior manufacturers still find occasion to grumble a little over the difficulty experienced in securing custom, some of them commence to talk about better prospects.

Eastern Spruce cannot be said to have any fixed market, owing to the naturally moderate and uncertain character of arrivals. Recent experiences would rather carry the impression that anything of standard size for local use could be depended upon to sell promptly and command full rates, and some receivers indulge in extra sanguine expectations over the outlook for trade during the balance of winter and early spring. That, however, is a seasonable view, and to some extent is worked up in preparation for negotiation on specials, with a possibility that the active test of cargo offerings may not fully sustain all claims. For the present the seller fairly holds advantage and seems likely to do so for some little time to come.

Piling is without much animation and the market free from any features calling for extended note. The supply remains, under sufficiently good control to give owners an excellent advantage and with continued firm belief that just as soon as weather permits the demand will broaden. Most ideas are of a cheerful character.

Hemlock remains pretty firm. Demand shows considerable of the old desultory character, and buyers evidently do not intend investing until they are compelled to, but holders manifest the old indifference, and predict higher rather than lower rates when trade gets fairly in motion. Stocks in hand are not overabundant, and it is predicted the additions cannot be very large.

White Pine has gone out to some extent on foreign orders, but the regular yard distribution is somewhat erratic and not running up a very liberal total. Dealers, in consequence, fail to afford a very good working field for tenders of stock from the interior, either on early or distant delivery, and the prospects are that not many contracts are now making. If all predictions are realized, there should be a pretty general advance eventually, as the buoyant claim for box boards is reported, shippers, it is now said, are sure to go up, and uppers are again talked of as booked for higher prices than last year. The tariff questions, both domestic and foreign, seem to excite very little comment at the moment among local operators.

Yellow Pine is said to be working into consumptive channels with somewhat greater freedom than usual at this season, and a fair call for cargo lots is also reported. Indeed, the general tenor of view as expressed is in comparatively cheerful form, and the outlook seems to be much more promising than one year ago. A considerable amount of f. o. b. trade goes to book every week, and at some of the southern ports the delivery capacity is said to be under engagement for a long way ahead. The harmony of the associations is said to be undisturbed.

Carolina Pine has not been particularly active of late, and most of the orders given were of a sort of special character, or to meet a call from interior points. There is said to be a pretty good stock of rough boards in hand, but nothing to worry holders who calculate upon a full distribution as soon as trade opens. Some agents are talking about the possibilities for timber, should spruce keep high in value.

Hardwoods differ in no essential particular from the general conditions as last noted. As yet demand lacks sufficient force and volume to make any very pronounced market, but the tendency is to increase the volume of trade and the feeling seems both hopeful and cheerful. Poplar is most talked of and unquestionably considered the leading wood on the list of domestic products. Some irregularities are prevailing on the price of poplar, but the average inclination seems to be upward, and already there is said to be $1.00@2.00 per M more obtainable than one year ago. Cherry is scarce and firm, with the high cost rather tending to check consumption. Ash steady and quartered oak pretty well sustained, but plain oak plenty and dull. Maple is dull. Walnut without much home trade but securing some foreign attention, but in the log and cut. Mahogany has good average demand, with rather a tendency to increase and commands full prices readily.

The exports of lumber, exclusive of hardwoods from the port of New York during the month of January and since January 1st, were as follows:

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

As yet little has been heard at this point of large contracts for logs and lumber for the coming season's trade. A few bargains have been made, but it is likely that there will be less going to the woods and mills for blocks of output than there was last year. Dealers in this city who purchase ahead heavily were not, in all instances, satisfied with their deals. Those who bought on the open cargo market secured lumber on fully as favorable conditions as those who went to stump or mill. The indications now are that there will next season be a renewal of interest in the cargo market.

Within the past ten days the logging conditions has been much more favorable in some of the main districts. Good work is being done throughout Northern Wisconsin, in the upper Michigan peninsula and in the northern counties of lower Michigan. There is nowhere a heavy body of snow, but rains and subsequent cold weather has made fine ice roads, so that heavy loads and quick dispatch is the order of the day in the majority of camps. The lack of deep snows facilitates rapid work. Since Tuesday the weather has tended to moderate, and it is probable that thawing weather at midday has prevailed as far north as Lake Superior; but the nights have been cold enough to freeze, and thus the renewal of ice roads has been possible. There is still a lack of snow on the tributaries of the Saginaw as well as on the Muskegon, with none too much on the Manistee. There has also been a light fall on the upper Mississippi and in the Ashland and Duluth districts of the Lake Superior country. The question now interesting the log jobbers is how long will sleighing last? Will the roads hold out until the logs are all banked, or will the season be cut off before the finish?

The operators in Pennsylvania are complaining of a lack of snow, and their circumstances are rendered more serious than those of operators further Northwest, because in Pennsylvania the prospect for hard winter weather after this time is small. It is probable that there will be a considerable falling behind the intended input of logs in that State, which should have some influence on the price of lumber.

Just now the time of Canadian lumbermen is pretty well occupied in kicking. They have lately been projecting their feet at a bill to come up in the Ontario Legislature, affecting the interests of Dominion and American lumbermen. The complaint is that the choice pine peculiar to the Algoma districts is sold by the government in such large tracts that no one but American capitalists can successfully compete for its acquisition. It is claimed that during 1887 the government realized $1,500,000 from the sale of Algoma lands. A law will be petitioned for that will have the effect of keeping out American capital.

The Dominion government, inspired by an afterthought, has undertaken to relieve the recent elevation of export log duty from an appearance of abruptness and arbitrary unfairness. The late order in council has been changed so as to provide that logs which were cut and ready for shipment at the date of issuance may be shipped at the old rate of $2. Thus all logs cut after that date will be subject to the $8 duty.

If the protests of Canadian lumbermen are considered of any account, the Dominion government will discover, if it has not already done so, that it put its foot in it, when as a retaliatory measure it increased the export duty on logs. Canada has a surplus of lumber on hand, the market for which is on this side of the line. An increased import duty would tend to cause the big piles to remain right where they are. If the Dominion government has any regard for the welfare of the lumber industry of Canada, it will take back steps, and that speedily.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman says:

The journals which have condoled with the loggers because of the open winter and the lack of snow have been too quick. The past two weeks have offered ideal conditions for putting logs on the bank, with the exception, perhaps, that a little more snow might have been welcome in some localities. But the general conditions have been above the average. The steam log hauler is not proving, however, all the success that was promised for it, particularly in the localities where the snow is light. One or two instances are recorded where the attempt to utilize it have been abandoned. It is evident that plenty of snow is one of the first requirements necessary to the operation of the steam log hauler, and that it is easier to make a road for the old-fashioned bunk drawn by four or six horses than the behemoth of the logging camp.

The Timberman as follows:

With so many traveling men on the road representing the interests of Chicago wholesalers, the wonder is that prices have not been tampered with. However, it seems that the salesmen have chosen other methods of persuasion. No open cuts have been discovered, although the movements of these men have been watched with vigilance. Collections have been good and there is no excuse for sacrificing lumber. With yard expenses lower perhaps than at any other time of year, no must-sell-below-list-to-get-ready-money-sort of subterfuge will be considered good and sufficient reason for parting with stock at less than the generally accepted standard of values. There is not a great deal of trading between yards, but the little telephone talk that floats round about the lumber districts shows that 12-inch boards and 12 feet and No. 2 boards 12 inches wide, and 10, 12, 16 and 20 feet long are selling at even list—the price that wholesalers are supposed to get from retail dealers. Surely those dealers who have to buy this stock are getting an advance on these prices when the lumber is sold to consumers. Good strips are really in demand, and it is felt that there is but a moderate supply. Six-inch clear 12, 14 and 16 feet long is worth $39 per M. "A" siding is sold at $36 and "B" at $32 per M. The increase in demand for siding is undoubtedly due to the revival of trade East. "A" box is also considered scarce.

The wholesale dealers in hardwoods are gathering strength from association. A better feeling exists between members of the trade just now than has been noticed in some time. Business is improving each succeeding day, and the immediate future is even full of promise. Not much trade is expected during January, and that being done now is in the nature of an agreeable surprise. Although the high piles have not been much diminished in altitude, they are not nearly such a weight on the shoulders of a few weak-kneed, as they were earlier in the season. Extended interviews with nearly all the different members of the trade did not result in the discovery of any one who thought there was an overstock of hardwood lumber at this market. Such was not the case two months ago. Grave fears were expressed when the season closed and the stocks were found to be so large. But now when the logging season is so far advanced, and undisputable evidence is at hand concerning the shortage of the log crop, the wholesale dealers are happy in proportion as their piles of hardwood lumber tower aloft.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Timber Trades Journal as follows:

LONDON.

American Black Walnut.—In logs there is a fair business doing, but the demand for these is not so active as for good stuff, which is moving steadily at firm prices. We notice there is now landing at the West India docks a parcel of logs, but many of these are of a very poor character. We are told that 1¼ in. planks are much wanted, and would command a quick sale here.

American Whitewood.—A decided improvement is reported in this business, there being a sound and healthy trade doing, and though supplies are wanted, these must not be excessive or the market will be injuriously affected. Yardkeepers and large consumers are desirous of keeping their stocks well up when they can buy at old rates, but of course higher quotations tend to check business. There have been several arrivals lately of good, useful 3 to 7 in. plank stuff, which will be found in the sheds at the East Wood wharf.

American Oak.—In both logs and lumber prices are fairly steady, but the amount of business done lately has not been large, and we notice that a fresh parcel of lumber is now landing at the West India docks.

American Hickory.—Holders of stock in this are able to make only poor progress in the way of sales; the demand is very restricted and prices weak. There is a large amount of stock on sale, generally of a good useful character, but we notice that there are some logs of very small sizes.

Sequoia.—The once dull aspect of this market has at last become greatly relieved, and brighter hopes have been raised; we hear that a much more satisfactory trade has been done of late, and that importers are determined to hold firm in consequence.

LIVERPOOL.

American Walnutwood logs have come forward very freely, but, though a good quantity has been sold from the ship's side when landed, there has been some difficulty in getting the stiff prices required in many cases, and therefore stocks have accumulated. The demand appears to have somewhat fallen away, and shippers should refrain from sending further supplies until the market rights itself.

METALS.—COPPER—Ingot has met with only a moderately active sort of demand, indeed there was no regular open market business doing, and apparently not much secretly, though the regular manipulators have endeavored to have it so appear. About the only feature of interest is a rumor of trouble in the syndicate, though the story cannot be confirmed. We quote at about 16¼@17c. for Lake. Manufactured Copper is meeting with a little more attention on regular outlets, but the market without positively new features worthy of extended notice. We quote as follows: Sheets, not above 30x72 in., 16 oz. and over, 25c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 26c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 23c.; do, 10 to 12 oz, 28c.; do, 8 to 10 oz, 38c.; do, under 8 oz, 28@33c. Sheets longer than 72 inches add 1c. for 12@14 oz, 2c. for 10@12 oz, and 3c. for 8@10 oz. Sheets, not above 36x96 in., 16 oz and over, 25c.; do, 16 to 32 oz, 25c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 27c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 29c.; do, 10 to 12 oz, 33c.; do, 8 to 10 oz, 36c. Sheets longer than 96 inches add 1c. for under 16 oz; and 2c. for 8 to 10 oz. Sheets, not above 48x96, 32 to 64 oz, 22@25c.; do, 16 to 32 oz, 27@30c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 32c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 37c. Sheets 60x93 and over, 25@26c.; for 33 to 64 oz. and over, 30@31c.; for 16 to 32 oz. —@—. All bath tub sheets, per lb., 16 oz, 28c.; 4 oz, 30c.; 12 oz, 32c.; and 10 oz, 35c. Bolt copper, ⅝ inch diameter and over, 25c. Circles, 60 diameter and less, 3c. above price of sheets of same thickness; circles, 60 to 96 do do, 5c. do; circles, 96 do and over, 6c. do. Segment and pattern sheets, 3c. above price of sheets required to cut them from. Cold or hard rolled copper, 1c. per lb. above the foregoing prices. Copper bottom, 26@31c. per lb. IRON—Scotch Pig moves but in small quantities only, and buyers evidently cannot be hurried. Offerings generally seem fair enough in quantity and assortment for all present wants, with owners making no objections to former cost. We quote at $19.00@20.50 per ton, according to brand, delivery, etc. American Pig has a pretty steady call and many of the standard brands are said to receive orders well up to the average of former years. Medium and poorer makes, however, run quite irregular, not only in the matter of business accomplished, but on price, with a general tendency to favor the buyer, as offerings of stock are pretty free. We quote at $18.00@18.50 per ton for No. 1 X foundry; $17.00@17.50 for No. 2 X do.; and $16.00@16.50 for Gray Forge. Old material of all kinds has continued in slow, uncertain demand, and buyers seem to have no anxiety whatever regarding the future. Supplies and offerings do not appear to be particularly large or oppressive, yet there is a constant impression that an effort to realize is about to be made, and that has a weakening effect upon values. We quote at about $23.00 @24.50 for old rails; $20.00@20.50 for No. 1 wrought scrap; $27.50@28.00 for crop ends, and $17.50@18.50 for car wheels. Steel rails have again failed to secure a demand fully in accord with hopes and expectations, and in one way or another there is considerable grumbling upon the conditions of the market. Buyers do not appear to stand off for effect, but simply because there is no basis for contracts at the moment. At $28.00 for standard section at the mills the highest rate is named, and it might be shaded upon occasion. Manufactured iron has an average trade, and without new features or change in value so far as could be learned. We quote Common Merchant Bar, ordinary sizes, at 2.00@2.10c. from store, and refined at 2.20@2.50c.; Rods, round and square, 2.30@2.40c.; Bands, 2.40@2.50c.; Norway Nail Rods, 4@5c., and domestic sheet on the basis of 2.75@2.80c. for common Nos. 10@16. Other descriptions at corresponding prices, with 1-10c. less on large lots from cars. LEAD—Domestic Pig finds no spirit in the demand from consumers and the market drags along with a slow and more or less unsatisfactory tone. Some little speculative trading has taken place, however, at moderately fluctuating rates and no special advantage to either buyer or seller. We quote at 3.75@3.80c., as to quality. The manufactures of lead are quoted: Bar, 5½c.; pipe, 6½c.; sheet, 7¼c., less the usual discount to the trade; and tin-lined pipe, 15c.; block tin pipe, 45c., on same terms. TIN—Pig has been a little more active, but the movement not important and the fluctuations in value moderate. We quote at about 21¼@21⅜c. for round lots and 21⅜@21½c. for jobbing parcels. Tin plates do not meet with much demand and the slowness of trade is attributed in the main to nervousness over the tariff question, though, as a matter of fact, no one believes a law will be enacted at this session of Congress. We quote prices as follows: 1, C. Charcoal, ⅛ cross assortment, Melyn grades, $5.40@5.45, each additional X add $1.50; I. C. Charcoal, ⅛ cross assortment, Allaway grade, $4.75 @4.80, each additional X add $1; Charcoal terne, M. F. grade, 14x20, $6.62½@6.65; M. F. grade, 20x 28, $13.25@13.30; Worcester, 14x20, $4.60@4.62½; Worcester, 20x28, $9.20@9.25; Deane grade, 14x20, $4.22½@ 4.25; Dean grade, 20x28, $8.40@8.50; Allaway grade, 14x20, $4.05@4.07½; Allaway grade, 20x28, $8.10@8.20; I. C. Coke, B. V. grade, $4.20@4.25; J. B. grade, 14x20, $4.30@4.35; I. C. Bessemer steel, squares,

$4.65 basis; I. C. Siemens steel, squares, $4.70 basis. Spelter shows no important change, the demand running light and easily met from available supplies. We quote at 4½@5¼c., according to quality.

NAILS.—On most regular outlets about former rates are sustained, and business moves along without particularly new features. Sellers keep up the complaint about narrow and unsatisfactory margins, but appear to possess no power to apply a remedy at the moment. We quote at $1.80@1.90 for car lots, and $1.95@2.00 from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—For standard and seasonable goods the inquiry is running along fairly, and promises to make a natural increase, no evidence of a positively complaining mood being shown upon the market. Indeed, operators quite generally take rather a hopeful view of the situation, and calculate upon a better spring trade than last year. Supplies are now pretty well filled out and adjusted in first hands against all early contingencies, and can be kept so for some time, it is thought, while on prices a steady tone is maintained. Linseed Oil meets with an average movement, and is steady at 57@57½c. for Western and 58@59c. for City. Spirits Turpentine continues slow of sale, and without important change in value, the quotation ranging at 45½@46½c. per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—Supplies do not appear to be over-abundant, yet quite enough for the present demand, and generally the market is slow. Holders, however, are in most cases asking former rates. We quote Pitch at $1.25@1.50 per bbl.; Tar at $2.00@2.20, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

VOL. XLIII. FEBRUARY 9, 1889. No. 1,091

In at least two cities the new year has opened propitiously in both the real estate and the building markets. It will be seen that the statistics published in another column, of the conveyances, mortgages and buildings projected during the month just closed in this city and Brooklyn are most encouraging. So great an increase in the transfers and new buildings may fairly be taken to indicate a resumption of the activity which terminated in New York a year ago, unless it should be that the remarkably mild winter has unduly hastened operations and urged forward a great deal of the work that otherwise would not be commenced for a month or two to come. There is evidence, however, in other quarters that real estate is only sharing the benefit of a general improvement of trade conditions. Since the first of the year there has been a very decided activity in the stock market. There has been a remarkable demand for the better class of all railroad bonds, notwithstanding the weakness of the Granger system of railroads, which is owing largely to adverse legislation and the continual rate-wars in which they have been engaged. The course of prices on the Stock Exchange since the publication of the predictions of Mr. Benner in these columns seems to bear out everything he said. It deserves to be remarked, however, that in the little boom which New York is now enjoying she is leading instead of following the rest of the country, which, while reporting general trade good, scarcely indicates anything that looks like a boom.

There are several great deals on the tapis which may affect the stock market favorably. The express companies, it may be noticed, have come to an agreement as to a division of territory which will put a stop to the competition heretofore existing. This step may lead to a consolidation of the interests of the great express companies. In other words, what may be called a great express trust will perhaps be organized. This matter has been under discussion for nearly a year past, but it is understood Mr. John Hoey, president of the Adams Express, has been reluctant to have any closer affiliations with the other organizations. Among those who favored a union were Thos. C. Platt and Calvin S. Brice, who have been using the United States Express Co. to worry the Adams Express and Mr. Hoey into an agreement with their plans. It is claimed that a saving of over a million dollars per annum could be effected were all the express companies to be managed as one organization. This is another instance of the fact that all the business tendencies of the age favor the formation of trusts.

Last spring the readers of this journal were notified of the fact that this great express company deal was under way; we also announced that the Richmond & West Point Terminal would absorb and work all the railroads in Tennessee and Georgia, so as to have an unbroken line between the Mississippi and Atlantic Ocean. Then it was further predicted that there would be some sort of a combination with the Missouri Pacific that would carry the Richmond & Terminal system to the City of Mexico and the Pacific Ocean. A good deal of this has been accomplished since we made the first announcement. The East Tennessee has been leased, the Georgia Railroad absorbed, and now comes the news of a combination with the Missouri Pacific. As yet there has been no consolidation of interests or unification of the bonds or stocks of this enormous series of railroad systems—but this will come in time. The Richmond Terminal is practically the longest, if not the most important of the transportation lines in the country. It is understood that the Jay Gould interest is not to be supreme in this new combination. As a matter of fact, Mr. Gould is closing up his railroad interest, and is thinking more of enhancing the values of securities he has got than of taking on new speculative burdens. Those mainly responsible for the formation of this great transcontinental system are men like Gen. Samuel Thomas, John G. Moore, Calvin S. Brice, John H. Inman and their well-known associates.

The bill introduced recently into the Assembly by Mr. Hamilton to provide for recording and indexing conveyances and mortgages, according to city blocks or other limited areas, does not differ essentially from the bill introduced in 1887 to effect the same purpose. It simply insures the more prompt execution of the provisions of the act, and removes the difficulties occasioned by the large number of indexing records which the former measure necessitated. It is a pity that disputes over immaterial details have postponed for so long a reform so vital to the real estate interests of the city. Aside from any question as to the comparative desirability of the lot and block systems to bring about the needed improvement, its necessity was so urgent that something ought to have been done long before this. It is to be noted that the New Jersey Legislature has passed an act very similar to Mr. Hamilton's bill which insures progress in the right direction.

The Times berates Assemblyman Hamilton for favoring a cable system which would embrace all parts of the city; but as the cables have to come anyway, would it not be better in the shape of a unified system than for a few of the large horse-car companies to be allowed to run separate systems? The cable rapid transit scheme, which was killed by the opposition of the horse-car companies and the denunciations of papers like the Times, provided for a cable service and a system of transfer checks by which a passenger could ride from any one part of the city to any other part for five cents. The kind of surface travel we are now working into will force some local travelers to pay fifteen and even twenty cents to reach their destination within the city limits. Of course, somebody makes money when these great public improvements are effected; but then, is not the first consideration the interest of the public. It is very hard when faithful public servants are abused by respectable papers for trying to forward the interests of our local traveling public.

The principal objections urged against this cable scheme are that its contribution of 5 per cent. to the city treasury is too small, and that while it does not furnish rapid transit in any real sense, it pre-empts too many of the public thoroughfares to the uses of a corporation. To a certain extent these objections have force, for the total contribution of the Broadway road amounts to more than 5 per cent., and it would not be good policy to grant franchises that would block the future development of rapid transit. The attitude, however, which should be adopted towards this scheme should not be a negative one. The necessity that exists for providing every possible improved method of transportation is too imperative—too intimately connected with the growth and prosperity of the city to admit of a policy which merely criticises and rejects all schemes that are not wholly unobjectionable. If 5 per cent. is not sufficient, let it be known what is. If it is deemed wise not to give up certain thoroughfares to a cable road, let these be known. Let us have some sort of a constructive policy instead of a policy which hitherto has given nothing but objections towards the solution of our difficulties.

In the matter of the horse-car tie-up, in this city and Brooklyn, organized capital has again got the best of ignorant and only partially organized labor. Years ago we pointed out that this would generally be the result, if the employing class took a leaf out of the methods of the trades unions and work together. The press and the business public in this recent strike promptly took sides against the strikers, yet there is doubtless something to be said on their behalf. They wanted to make use of the State Board of Arbitrators, which could have settled the matter in a few hours; but the officers of the car companies would not arbitrate and refused to recognize the labor organizations. The men certainly had one real grievance—the law limiting the hours of their labor was generally disregarded by the companies. This was a bad example to set, even though the limitation of the law might have borne unjustly upon the companies.

We have always believed in fair wages for workingmen. If $2 or $3 per week could be added to the wages of all unskilled workmen it would be an unmixed benefit to the building interests of New York city. The extra money would have been spent in higher rents for better apartments and a larger patronage of the retail stores. The extra money per week distributed among the conductors and car-drivers would eventually find its way into the pockets of landlords, and a similar increased compensation in other employments would add marvellously to the prosperity and growth of the city. It seems utterly impossible for the employing class to take this obvious view of the matter. Each boss realizes that he is the better off the less money he pays out for labor; but he cannot grasp the larger truth that the higher the wages the greater the demand for goods, stores and dwelling houses. A strike which fails, therefore, not only wastes money, but, if it is followed by lower wages, it is a direct detriment to trade.

But these tie-ups and interferences with every-day traffic should never be heard of again. Matters should be so arranged that the business community should not suffer because of any misunderstanding between the horse-car companies and their employés. Our particular remedy for this trouble is to make all railroad employés a part of the national or municipal police force. Every engineer, fireman, brakeman on the elevated roads, as well as the conductors and drivers on the horse-car lines, should be required to take out a license which they would forfeit in the event of a strike; but they should be protected from the greed of their employers by having their hours of labor and pay settled by a city ordinance. This would give the municipality a hold on a body of men who could be relied on at times of riot or disorder. If it could be done constitutionally, soldiers, sailors, policemen, car-conductors and switchmen should not be permitted to vote for members of any legislative bodies which had the fixing of their rates of compensation; but, unfortunately, such a limitation of the suffrage probably would be pronouneed illegal by the Courts. There is, however, no protection against railroad strikes or horse-car tie-ups until the general, State or local government has some control over the employés.

The commonly accepted belief is that the speedy and complete defeat of the recent car strike was due principally to the energy and vigor of the police. No doubt if it had not been for the vigorous action of the authorities in suppressing all attempts at violence and intimidation the strike would not have been ended to-day; but the defeat of the strikers this time was really due more to the present condition of the labor market than to any other factor, and what the police did was to permit this condition to have full effect. All that the police did or can do in such a case is to preserve order. They cannot create a supply of drivers and conductors, which is the essential matter, and the promptness with which the strikers saw their places filled had a more discouraging effect than clubs, and demonstrated more convincingly than anything else could the mistake of the step they had taken. As a matter of fact, the press and other observers agree that the strikers were not directly responsible for all the disturbance that occurred. A great deal of it was due to the drunken and lawless element that lies hidden in all large cities until such an occasion as that just put an end to gives them an opportunity to make trouble. The wonder really is that about 6,000 idle men with their bread and butter at stake kept the peace as well as they did.

A very interesting chapter in a history of sanitation might be written upon unsanitary sanitary improvements. A thorough investigation would show, we believe, that they are more numerous than is commonly supposed. Notorious examples at once come to mind, as, for instance, when at an enormous cost a system of sewage into the Chicago River was constructed in Chicago which contaminated the whole water supply of the city, and the case of the drains in Edinburgh, which spread typhoid fever into every district of the Scotch capital through which they ran while the other districts were uninfected, or the case of Dublin, which for years had the highest death-rate of any city in Northern Europe, due to the pollution of the River Liffey by the sanitary authorities. It is, however, of the smaller unsanitary sanitary improvements that the public know little, and the letter which we publish in another column, describing the danger to health arising from the use of the running or disconnecting trap, the fresh-air inlet to which may be seen on the sidewalks of streets near the gutter, will be interesting if not instructive. Indeed, the probability is very strong that at least nine out of every ten persons are profoundly ignorant of even the existence of this supposed safeguard to health, and know as little of its form and nature as of a pterodactyl. That these traps are not regarded as essential to-day even by the Health Department is clearly proved by the fact that when the plumbing code was last revised the question whether they should not be abandoned was considered, with the result that it was decided that they might be omitted by request. The opening sentence in the Koran, "there is no doubt in this book," should preface all the provisions of Sanitary Codes and other legal instruments restraining the action of the individual. The prescriptions made should embody no doubtful practices; no enactions, the wisdom or the adequacy of which admit of rational dispute.

It is very evident that questions connected with municipal governments will hereafter be discussed very earnestly by the American people. We are just discovering that foreign nations are solving problems connected with local self-government, and we must study what they are doing. It is shown to be above all peradventure that in the great cities of Europe the very best men are selected to fill the local offices. In this country it is the worst class of citizens who occupy these local positions of trust and honor. We cannot afford to have this state of things exist permanently. We must learn how it is that Berlin, Paris, London, Birmingham, Manchester and Glasgow all have honest and efficient local administration, while our local governing class hail from a low type of saloonkeepers and trading politicians. THE RECORD AND GUIDE is making preparations to have its readers enlightened on these very important subjects.

Some of the behind-the-age newspapers are objecting to agriculture being recognized by a Secretaryship in the Cabinet. But what greater interest has the nation? Our governmental departments and bureaus should represent all our larger industrial pursuits, as the brain does the greater functions of our physical life. As communities grow, the head enlarges with the body politic. Compare a tribal or purely autocratic community with a highly civilized modern nation, and the striking peculiarity is the complexity of the one compared with the simplicity of the other. A modern Cabinet necessarily represents functions unthought of in the older councils of kings. War is not a steady business with us, while agriculture is. Yet fighting is represented by Departments of War and the Navy, while, so far, agriculture has had to do without government recognition.

In a normally organized government it would be the larger interests of the State, moral and material, which would be first considered. The time may come when our Cabinet will represent, not only agriculture, but commerce, manufactures, transportation, labor, education, mining—in short, everything typical of the national life. A department of public defense might be tolerated which should have two subdivisions, the army and the navy. The new department of agriculture has been organized to satisfy a real want, and the time must come when the other great interests of the country must have a similar recognition.

It will be noticed that in all the Cabinets made up for General Harrison, the Secretaries of the Treasury mentioned are invariably Western men. The East has had the Treasury Department for many long years and Wall street has always controlled the fiscal policy of the government. President-elect Harrison evidently contemplates a new departure. The war on silver will cease after the 4th of March next, and for the first time since the passage of the silver coinage act the bi-metallist theory will get a fair show at the hands of the national government. We doubt whether this will help speculation in Wall street, but it may induce more active business markets. The money now wasted upon the bondholders will be diverted to other uses, and will probably stimulate the iron, textile and miscellaneous industries of the country. Then if the Senate Tariff Bill should become a law, while it might eventually be prejudicial to the country, its immediate effect would probably be stimulating to our manufacturing industries. The almost prohibitive duties might force foreign manufacturers to start branches in this country to escape duties. This would create a demand for labor and give, at least, an appearance of prosperity. We do not think that the Harrison administration will be long troubled with the surplus.

The Future Prices of Bonds and Stocks.

The vigorous bond buying during the month of January was naturally followed by better prices in the stock market, but the question arises—will prices generally of first-class bonds and stocks be higher in the future than they are now? Certain financial writers think they will, and quote the shares, debentures and preferential stocks of the leading English railroad companies to show that over the water investors are well satisfied to receive 3 per cent. It will be noticed by all who study our Stock Exchange list that the dividend rate of American roads has been steadily diminishing for the last twelve years. The well-located companies which formerly paid 7 to 10 per cent. on their stocks now find it difficult to distribute more than 4 or 5 per cent. Bonds were good for 7 per cent. at par, while 3½ and 4 per cent. is all that you can get now on first-class security. We fail to see as yet any change likely to add to the dividend-paying value of any of our railroad securities. Investors are at their wits' ends to get a sure 5 per cent. for their money.

This state of things seems to us unnatural in a country which has so many resources to develop as the United States. It has been due we have thought very largely to the bond-purchasing policy of the government, which has kept up a constant corner on our national obligations and has reduced unnaturally the standard rate of interest. Thus the fires of speculation have been fed in Wall street and the prices of stocks and bonds stimulated. As the rate of dividend and interest declined, our securities became more attractive to European investors—for the motto over the water is "the lower the interest the better the security."

May we not expect a change when the government stops its bond purchases. We know that in the summer of 1887, after the 3 per cents. were all taken up, that a change of temper in the money market showed itself at once. A check was given to Wall street speculation, the rate of interest rose, and a panic in the price of securities seemed imminent—indeed, there was no recovery in prices until bond buying was resumed in the fall. A dull time followed, but a new speculative era was started by the declared policy of the Treasury Department in its circular of April 17, 1888.

Since then we have liquidated over one hundred millions government obligations, which money had to be reinvested, thereby advancing the price of all gilt-edged securities; but the general result has been that there are no bargains in bonds or first-class stocks. The real money has been in the non-dividend payers and specialties which increase in value with the marvelous growth of the country.

We are clearly approaching a time when this wasteful government bond purchasing must stop. With the experience of the summer of 1887 before us we should expect a rise in the rate of interest which will naturally make high-priced railway securities look less attractive than they do now; in other words, the business of the country will bid higher rates for money than will the operators in the stock market The 3½ and 4 per cents., so prized now, will look dear when the nation's industries call for supplies of needed funds. We have passed through periods when the capitalist who kept his funds in hand did better than those who invested largely in securities, and we think it very probable that the time may again come when those who have money in hand will do far better than those whose investments are in bonds and stocks which pay low dividends. All who deal in money or securities would do well to watch the developments of the financial policy of the incoming administration. A disturbance of some kind is due when the unnatural bond-purchasing policy is abandoned.

The doings at Albany impress one with the hope that the session will close without any great scandals and with an attempt to really benefit the State and city. Thanks to the Speaker, to Assemblymen Crosby, Hamilton and Saxton, the subjects to be discussed are generally worthy ones, and there is a hope of some high-class legislation. The bill reforming our election methods will certainly pass both Houses, and, if again vetoed by the Governor, it will damage him irretrievably, for this ballot reform movement has taken hold of the whole country, and in one form or another will be thoroughly tested in all the States. Then an honest license law will undoubtedly be indorsed. It may be vetoed, but the owners of realty in this State will not pay all the taxes and allow the great liquor interest, the cause of so much expense, to go entirely clear of all fiscal burdens. There are other matters on the tapis of signal importance to our citizens and which will be discussed fully before the people of this State.

Real Estate in January.

The improvement in the real estate situation is clearly demonstrated in the January tables of conveyances, mortgages and projected buildings given below. While the amount in value of the conveyances in 1887 and 1888 was about the same, the increase in 1889 was about $3,000,000 over either year. The number of transfers in which the consideration is given as nominal has largely increased, so that if the actual total could be obtained the inference is that the increase would be very much more than appears on the surface. The 23d and 24th Wards also make a better showing, being considerably ahead of last year. There has been an increase of over 47 per cent. over last year in the total value represented by the mortgage papers recorded during the month, and as though to emphasize the statement made in THE RECORD AND GUIDE last week about the cheapness of money, the amount of mortgages recorded at less than 5 per cent. interest was 116 per cent. more than during January of last year. The buildings projected make a splendid showing as compared with last year. There has been an improvement, both in number and amount, in every section excepting one. The total increase in number has been 113 per cent. and the total increase in their estimated cost about 107 per cent. The section which shows the greatest improvement in the number of buildings projected is that north of 125th street, in which there has been an unusual development during the past six months, largely owing to the improvements made on the blocks purchased on behalf of the Equitable Life Assurance Society. There was only one building in that section contemplated in January 1888, while in the same month this year plans were filed for 46. The cost of the former was $3,000 and of the latter $499,230. The section in which the estimated cost of projected buildings has been largest has been between 59th and 125th streets, west of 8th avenue, where the increase has been from $447,800 to $1,448,000, over $1,000,000 more than for last year. South of 14th street there is an increase of 9 in number and $442,800 in amount; between 59th and 125th streets, east of 5th avenue, there is an advance of 14 in number and $223,100 in cost. The 23d and 24th Wards show a very large improvement, having increased 38 in number and from $46,550 to $219,360 in cost. The only section showing a decrease is that between 110th and 125th streets, between 5th and 8th avenues.

The great improvement manifested in the figures for New York city is also displayed in those for Kings County. The conveyances show an increase of 513 in number and $2,509,731 in amount, while the number of properties conveyed for nominal considerations increased from 250 to 405. The mortgages recorded are 556 larger in number and $2,713,885 in amount. That money is being obtained at lower rates on bond and mortgage in Brooklyn as well as New York is apparent from the number of mortgages recorded at 5 per cent. interest or less, which increased from 485 to 919 in number, and from $1,693,142 to $3,715,458 in amount.

On the whole it will be seen from a comparison of the tables that this year has commenced more auspiciously than last, both in real estate and building circles. The healthy tone of the market, to which reference has been made in these columns several times of late, is forcibly shown in the unusually large increase of the transfers as compared with January last year. The building material interests also are assured of better times ahead, and the increased building for last month alone will give them more business to the extent of $2,000,000 than they had for the same period last year. The tables are worth studying:

Our Prophetic Department.

MEDICUS—In your book, Sir Oracle, you have something to say about anæsthetics and new hypnotics. Some facts have come to my knowledge recently which may be of interest to those who read your conversations. You stated that chemists and medical experts were discovering new methods of producing unconsciousness, of inducing sleep. It is on this point I wish to speak.

SIR ORACLE—Time was when the almost sole dependence of physicians was some form of opium to overcome insomnia; now opium was objectionable in a great many ways. Oftentimes it induced wakefulness rather than sleep. Its only certain effect was in relieving pain. Then those who used it were troubled with constipation, and one direful result often followed—the opium habit, which has inflicted such terrible evils in the past upon members of the human family.

M.—It is to tell you of substitutes for opium for inducing sleep that I have entered upon this conversation. Ingenious chemists and physicians have been at work testing various compounds, and they really think they have secured certain hypnotics which will induce sleep without any subsequent dangerous reaction. Certain bromides have been tested, but not always with assured results. Indeed, they often have a depressing effect. When chloral was first discovered, physicians thought they had a perfect hypnotic. It gave what seemed to be a natural sleep, there was no reaction, and the medical faculty was really deceived as to its value. It was soon found, however, that it was a dangerous drug in many ways. A dose that would give one man an apparently healthful sleep would kill another patient. Then those who took it were apt to acquire a habit like the opium habit.

SIR O.—I understand that Herbert Spencer is a slave to chloral. The late Prof. Youmans told me in a somewhat pronounced way that Spencer had taken it by the cartload. It has ruined his nervous system. It is surprising that so cautious a philosopher, who has written so much about the nerves, should have been betrayed into a habit which will cause him to end his life in misery.

M.—No conscientious physician will now give either opium or chloral to induce sleep, as they know the bad results which are certain to follow. Among the hypnotics which have come into play recently are (1) paraldehyde, (2) urethan, (3) amylen-hydrate, (4) sulfonal. The two last are most in favor with physicians. It is claimed they have been thoroughly tested, especially by medical students in the great schools of Europe, and that no bad results have as yet been observed. I can testify that I have given the amylen-hydrate and the sulfonal to my patients and they have declared that while as previously they could not sleep, by the use of this drug they got an apparently wholesome slumber.

SIR O.—But is it not common sense to suppose that any artificial sleep must have some bad effect? Will not the habit of requiring drugs grow on the patients?

M.—That certainly has been our experience in opium and chloral; but, after all, is not the absence of sleep the unnatural condition, and may not these new hypnotics merely overcome some personal difficulty?

SIR O.—What is the composition of these new sleeping potions?

M.—Their chemical names are quite long and show them to be compounded of many ingredients. Chemistry, as you yourself have stated in these conversations, was once analytic; it is now synthetic. The elder chemists took the materials of the world apart to see of what it was composed. The modern chemist is recombining what may be called these primeval atoms with the most surprising results. Look at the marvelous explosives recently discovered. Fortunately chemistry is at work at other problems than those involving destruction; and these new sleep-producing drugs may be of immense value. The getting rid of the necessity of using opiates is one great advantage.

SIR O.—You speak as a medical man; but my advice to nervous and sleepless people would be to use all natural means of inducing sleep before resorting to drugs, however harmless People who avoid excitements, who eat wholesome food, who abstain from late meals and who exercise in the open air are much more likely to have healthful slumbers than those who depend on any artificial means of getting sleep.

M.—My only object in presenting this matter to your readers is to show what conquests chemistry is making in agents intended to affect man's life and health. There is scarcely a limit to what science may not do for us when it attacks problems affecting the life of man on this planet

Now that Mr. Cleveland's retirement to private life will take place in a few weeks there is the usual newspaper discussion of the question: What shall we do with our ex-Presidents? Governor Hill's suggestion that they should be given a permanent seat in the Senate seems to have fallen flat; nor is this strange, for its adoption would mean the abrogation of the principles upon which that body is constituted—equal representation from every State. The other proposition is to pension off a retiring chief magistrate. It is a serious question how far this would be desirable. In most cases such assistance is certainly not necessary. If, like Mr. Cleveland, he is still comparatively young, he would have no trouble in supporting himself; and even if the retiring President were so well advanced in years that he would prefer to take life easy on the ground that he had earned a rest, there would be no trouble in his getting some figurehead position which would give him ample salary whereon to live. In most cases, of course, he would already possess a competence, and any such honorary position would be unnecessary; yet, the very danger that it might be necessary might seem to constitute good grounds for the bestowal of a pension. A man who has sat in the Presidential chair should never be dependent upon any corporation for support; hence it is only just that a retiring executive should have a right to a pension if he wanted it, but it should not be forced on him.

We often have had occasion in the editorial columns of this paper to criticise the opinions of Mr. Edward Atkinson, and have accused him of, at times, founding his facts on his theories, rather than his theories on his facts. Hence we are very glad to mention his name in connection with what seems to us to be some really useful suggestions and statistics. In the February number of the Century he has given figures showing the growth of fire insurance companies, in this country. In 1859 the risks taken by the companies amounted to very nearly $1,500,000,000, while in 1887 this amount had increased in round numbers to $12,250,000,000. The proportion of loss to the value of the property insured has slowly diminished, so that at present the former amounts to from $100,000,000 to $130,000,000 per annum. Further, the cost of maintaining these companies, whose functions, as Mr. Atkinson says, is simply to distribute the necessary loss over a wider field, is $65,000,000 a year, to which must be added the cost of sustaining expensive fire departments—an annual outlay which may be placed at $25,000,000. This brings the fire tax of the community up to from $180,000,000 to $200,000,000 per annum. Is not this a terrible price to pay for the negligence which usually causes fires? When one sees in New York the immense number of offices and employés engaged in fire-insurance, does it not seem that some of the expenditure which this implies might be saved to the community? Why should business encumber itself with so enormous a load when a little more care in the construction and maintenance of buildings might materially reduce it?

Curiously enough the worst examples of combustible architecture are to be found among our prisons, hospitals, asylums, almshouses, college buildings, libraries and school-houses. One would think that such structures, because of the very purposes for which they are used, would be built so as to prevent even the possibility of fire. Mr. Atkinson more particularly takes the case of factories. When water-power was used, or when the buildings were placed in large cities, it was necessary to economize the area covered; and so they were built many stories in height. Now that steam has come into use this necessity no longer exists outside of large cities; yet the custom still continues. It is only in New England that low one or two-story factories have come generally into use. Yet obviously fire spreads far less rapidly along a surface than it does up in the air. According to Mr. Atkinson a slow-burning construction consists "simply in consolidating the wooden material in frame, floor and roof in such a way that a fire can be held long enough in any room in which it may originate for a fairly competent fire department, public or private, to get it under control." Yet, easy as this principle is to understand, it is very greatly neglected; and factory owners continue unnecessarily to pay heavy rates of insurance. What is true of factories is true of all buildings that can be located in places where land is not too valuable.

The play produced on Tuesday night by Mr. Daly differs in some ways from any similar production for some time. For one thing it is at times undeniably dull; then it is too long, and in places too broad. Miss Doris is too much of an ingenue; the old diplomat is too much of a fool. But in spite of this over-drawing of the characters and over-lengthening of the play it is, as usual, entertaining. In what way this is so the daily papers have shown well enough. It is only the admirable skill with which the German original has been adapted and interpreted that makes it bearable. Played by any other company it would have been a failure. As it is, it is almost impossible for Mr. Daly to fail in any of his undertakings.

We doubt not that if New York theatre-goers were asked what modern play-house in the city was associated with their most pleasant evenings and entertaining recollections most of them would answer Daly's. A person may go there with a certain serene confidence. He will be sure to see something that will please the eye and hear something that will make him laugh. Miss Rehan's smiling eyes and sympathetic acting; Mr. Drew's frank, open manliness and cheery humors; pleasant Mrs. Gilbert; merry Mr. Lewis—all these are to be remembered tenderly; neither should there be forgotten the background of pretty soubrettes, which Mr. Daly's taste in faces never fails to provide for the audience. Taken all in all the organization is one which, in regard to smoothness of working, it would be almost impossible to surpass. Mr. Daly's company possesses all the virtues and some of the faults of a perfect working machine. We always are amused, but it is generally in much the same way every time. Miss Rehan is always good, but there is monotony to her style of acting and sameness in her devices to express a young lover's confusion. So it is with John Drew; so it is with the rest of the company; so it is with every adaptation produced in the theatre. These last all have a New York, 1889, flavor; they are all amusing and witty, but nothing more. None of them will last, because they are not high comedies; they are simply farces. It is a pity that Mr. Daly does not try to get a really American play, of a really higher type. These hybrids he continually gives us are becoming tiresome. Then his company ought to have more of a chance. An organization that could give the performance of the "Taming of the Shrew" that Daly's did should get an opportunity to do better things. Smooth as his present rut is, Mr. Daly should get out of it.

The Lakewood (N. J.) hotels and boarding-houses have had a sore disappointment this year. In view of the yellow fever in Florida they expected a large addition to those who are attracted to this popular winter sanitarium. These expectations would have been fully verified had this winter been similar to those of previous years. Usually Lakewood fills up before the holidays, and is crowded during January, February and March, but the open winter and the delightful weather of December and January have led people to stay at home and not to go to Lakewood or any of the usual winter health resorts. Still, an old-fashioned February or March would soon fill up the accommodations of this really healthful winter sanitarium.

Apropos of newspaper enterprise, that of Mr. James Gordon Bennett in London does not seem to have met with a very favorable reception. According to the correspondent of the Evening Post, half the preachers in England denounced the innovation of Sunday editions as pregnant with evil results. It seems a little difficult for us to appreciate the intense feeling aroused over this matter. If there is anything an American of the present generation considers to be part of the order of nature it is his Sunday morning journal. Surely the simple appearance of Mr. Bennett's sheet cannot change the Sabbath from a day of peace and rest to a day of discord and unrest. In this country a man can read even the Sunday World and still be a good man. We fear this is but another manifestation of the way England sticks to the old Puritan idea of Sunday as a day of gloom, on which a person can go to church, go to table, and go to bed. Not, indeed, that the Sunday Herald would be likely to bring much light and joyousness in its columns, for, so far as we know, such qualities are not those most prominent in the American edition of that journal. Still it seems a pity that English prejudice and hatred of anything new should frown so severely on Mr. Bennett's innocent attempt to render the English home a little livelier and his own bank account a little heavier.

Mr. Joseph Pullitzer is a man very much to be pitied. At the present time he is practically blind. It is true that with the aid of a powerful glass he can see and even read; but his eyes are so weak that the doctor will not allow him to use even such means. Meanwhile, his brain is as active as ever. This check on Mr. Pullitzer's future usefulness to himself and to the public is a matter for regret. While it is true that his newspaper is not altogether a credit to American journalism, yet one is forced to admire the energy and skill with which its circulation has been run up, and its advertisements increased. Mr. Pullitzer has shown a clear appreciation of what the public wanted, and he has had no scruples in giving it to them. Even, however, with this curtailment of Mr. Pullitzer's powers it is not likely that the World will lose any of the kind of energy for which it is characteristic. Col. Cockerill has been the owner's right hand man in all that has been done for the journal, and he will be able to continue it triumphantly on its present course.

Let anyone who wishes to understand to what a small degree any real sense of good or bad acting and authorship enters into the judgment of the general public on a given play listen to the comments made by the audience during or at the end of the performance. It is surprising what a lack of discrimination and knowledge such comments betray. The ordinary playgoer is simply passive. He laughs at what seems funny, without any thought as to the quality of the fun, and he applauds and wipes his eyes at what seems heroic or pathetic without any attempt to distinguish the former from bombast or the latter from weak sentimentality. Hence it is that trash like Hoyt's "Tin Soldier" can draw good houses and the silly horse-play of De Wolf Hopper and Fred. Leslie can command good salaries. These actors are capable of better work, and it is a pity that there is any demand for the kind of stuff they play. It is said they would prefer to do better things, but that business is business, and as long as the public makes fools of them, they will make fools of the public. Be that as it may, it is certain there ought be placed above the doors of half of the theatres in New York the legend: "Let all who enter leave their wits behind." Mr. Winter has given a curious example of the current ignorance respecting stage history. As he was leaving Niblo's Garden one night, after a performance of "Hamlet," he overheard the following bit of dialogue between an elderly man and a fashionably-dressed young woman. Said he: "The last time I saw "Hamlet" was when Macready played in it years ago." "And what part did Macready play?" asked the young lady.

The great World's Fair at Melbourne, it seems, is to be closed at once. Its projectors are said to have lost $7,000,000. Melbourne took pride in doing everything on a scale of magnificence unequaled by other exhibitions of the kind, and consequently a proportionally large sum of money has been expended to little purpose. People were not going to travel to Australia to see such attractions, however lavishly provided, and as the population of the country itself could not make it pay the exhibition has been even a greater failure than ours was at New Orleans. The almost universal failure of such enterprises ought to teach the people who get them up that, for one thing, they should not be too numerous; for another, they ought to commemorate some great historical event, and for a third, the return for the outlay does not take the form of cash. It is only natural the French, for instance, should wish to have some kind of a national jubilee in the centennial year of the meeting of the Constituent Assembly. Visitors who intend to go to Paris some time might readily take such an occasion for their journey. Paris is the centre of a densely-populated district, and national enthusiasm might well make Frenchmen wish to render the affair a successful show, if nothing more. France will have its good time, will be talked about, and the country can afford to pay for it. So our country could make a similar success of the Centennial exhibition. But there is no occasion for smaller nations at less important times endeavoring to attract a crowd. Such an exhibition is an affair of sentiment, not of business. Where no sentiment is aroused there can be no success.

The Dangers from the Disconnecting Trap.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

I would like to call your attention and that of the readers of your paper to what I regard as an evil of some magnitude. The running or disconnecting trap at the cellar wall, with its so-called fresh-air inlet, has been and is very extensively used, and in many cities its use is made obligatory, but there is a growing sentiment of distrust as to its utility. It came into requisition as a kind of check or additional safeguard, when little or no reliance could be placed upon the devices and methods of plumbing then in common use. With an unvented or imperfectly vented system of drainage, with pipes leaking at every joint, and traps liable to syphonage, there may have been some possible advantage in its use. It is a serious question, however, whether the evils resulting from its use are not greater even with defective plumbing than would result from its omission.

Experts generally agree that the air in the pipes on the house side of this trap is more impure and poisonous than that of the main sewer. If this is true, then nothing is gained by its use, even when the plumbing is defective. It adds materially to the cost of plumbing, and establishes a cesspool to contaminate any fresh air that may enter through the so-called fresh-air inlet. This trap gradually fills with accumulations of filth that must be periodically removed at considerable cost. The inlet for air has its external termination in the sidewalk, near the gutter, and is protected by a small grating in the flag. By an actual inspection, it will be found that a large proportion of these openings are entirely closed with dirt and filth. The moment this occurs, the entire system is sealed up like a very deep bottle, with only its mouth open above the roof of the house. All air circulation is thus cut off as completely as in an unvented system with the running trap omitted, but with much greater danger of air-bound conditions, and the consequent forcing of the seals of traps that frequently happens under such circumstances during rain storms.

But all these evils sink into insignificance in comparison with the disease-spreading capabilities of this trap and its so-called fresh-air inlet. For example, take the dwellings in a tenement house district; in mild weather the sidewalk and curb are usually covered with children. Suppose scarlet fever, diphtheria or typhoid fever occurs in one of these houses, the waste and sewage swarming with disease germs are carried down the soil pipe into the mass of filth usually found in these traps. The subsequent flushes drive before them the foul and contaminated air through these gratings directly into the nostrils of the children that happen to be over them.

These facts are not novel. They are well known and understood by intelligent men who have given the subject thoughtful study, but extreme conservatism frequently causes adherence to established customs or usage long after the utility of better methods has been clearly demonstrated. This is well illustrated in the action of the New York Board of Health in regard to this matter. When the plumbing code was revised a year or two ago, it was a subject of serious consideration whether the further use of this trap and air inlet should not be abandoned. But conservatism so far prevailed as to retain their requirement, except that they might be omitted by request. This is virtually an official admission that at least as good sanitary results will follow their omission as their use. If this is true, why should they be required at all? Why should the house builder be required to incur the expense of this worse than useless complication to his drainage system simply because he may not be sufficiently familiar with sanitary science to know its utter worthlessness?

It is understood that President Bayles has always been in favor of their omission, but, as opinions were divided, the present form of the code was adopted as a compromise.

There is still another feature the evil of which seems not to have attracted the notice it deserves. It is the condition of the branch sewer or drain pipe extending from the main sewer to the cellar wall. These pipes usually have but little fall and a rough and irregular inner surface. They are never adequately flushed except during heavy rain storms, while the small stream of waste and sewerage flowing through them is continually depositing its load of filth for the production of offensive and disease-producing gases. Thus it will be seen that this entire system of branches between the main sewers and the houses is a system of "dead ends" (having no circulation) that all practical sanitarians profess to abhor as nature abhors a vacuum. These gases will inevitably find escape into the open air on the street level to offend the nostrils and impair the health of those who breathe them. It is true that if this trap is omitted there will be a continuous flow of sewer air directly through the house drainage system; but if a direct circulation from the main sewer to the top of each house were established all gases would be so rapidly carried high up above human habitation that the air of the sewers and house drains would be much purer than that now found in the house pipes. Instead of the escape of foul air from the manholes of the sewers that now occurs, the strong upward draught through such a system of ventilation would establish a continuous inflow of air to the sewer at the manholes and at every other available point. This would entirely obviate the belching forth of the pestiferous odors that now frequently gives much annoyance.

MEDICUS.

About the Long Island Bridge.

The efforts which are being made by the company which has the Long Island Bridge plan under way have been redoubled recently, and there seems at this moment a possibility that the scheme may ripen more quickly than has been supposed. The application which has just been made by the company to the Supreme Court for powers to acquire title to that piece of property on Blackwell's Island, belonging to the city, required for towers to support the bridge in its spans over to Long Island, together with the efforts made to induce the Board of Street Opening to give them the power needed so that they may be able to proceed with the work, shows that the company has some backing which makes its officers, and especially its representative, Dr. Thomas Rainey, confident of being able financially to carry out the scheme. In view of the importance of this contemplated bridge, both from a rapid transit and real estate point of view, it is important that property-owners who will be specially affected by it should know exactly what the building of the bridge means, if the present plans are to be carried out.

According to the plans filed, which a reporter of THE RECORD AND GUIDE saw at the Comptroller's office, the bridge commences at the Grand Central depot, and then runs over the New York Central tracks along 4th avenue at an elevation of 20 to 30 feet above the ground, till it comes to near 63d street. Here it branches off on a radius of 500 feet in a curve through the block till it comes to a point in the block between 64th and 65th streets, 4th and Lexington avenues. It then runs through the southern part of the blocks between that point to the East River; that is, along the north side of 64th street, all along to the East River. It then runs at a height of about 150 feet across the East River at right angles, crossing Blackwell's Island north of the wall on that island, and thence to a point on Long Island opposite 64th street, New York. It then runs eastward about a mile and a quarter through about thirty blocks, mostly vacant, to Rawson street, and then takes a southerly curve through many blocks to the western corner of Calvary Cemetery and crossing Newtown Creek to Brooklyn, going as far as Palmer's Dock, so as to connect with all the railroad wharves and warehouses at that point. The line also connects with the "L" road that runs down south to the Navy Yard and within half a mile of the Brooklyn City Hall, thus bringing that site within sixteen minutes from the Grand Central depot, so Dr. Rainey says. It also connects with the Long Island Railroad depot. It should be mentioned that on the New York side there is a curve which branches northward to 67th street, similar to that branching from between 62d and 63d streets to between 64th and 65th streets.

It will at once be seen that to many New York property-owners this contemplated bridge is of great interest. The effect of the carrying out of this plan will be to condemn every private house and other building on the north side of 64th street, between 4th and 3d avenues. It will also damage in value the property along the entire south side of 65th street, between 4th avenue and the East River, as well as the south side of 64th street, along that entire distance, on account of its proximity thereto.

The charter of the company authorizes it to build from 4th avenue to the East River without consulting any city authority, except for the usual permits of the Commissioner of Public Works to excavate for any post foundations at the curb of the streets, and for any temporary encumbrance of the streets in the prosecution of their work. The law says further that the bridge shall "not obstruct any public road, street or avenue which it shall cross, but such public street, road or avenue shall be spanned by a suitable arch or suspended platform as shall give a suitable height for the passage under the same for all purposes of public travel and transportation."

The law says that the bridge shall not obstruct the free and common navigation of the East River, or the construction of any pier in the said river beyond the pier line established by law. It shall not be less than 150 feet above average mean tide at the middle of each channel of the river, and shall be built for railway, carriage and foot travel. It shall be lighted through all hours of the day and night. If the company shall be unable to agree with the owners of real estate required for its purposes it shall have the right to take proceedings to acquire title to it under the act of 1850.

The changes which will be involved on various streets and avenues of the city by the proposed connecting of the contemplated Long Island Bridge with the Grand Central Depot, will include the following:

I.—One small shaft in the roadway on each side of 4th avenue, and one heading north of 67th street, but one at a time, so as not to inconvenience public travel.

II.—One heading for the tunnel below, and close 67th street at 4th avenue, where the road commences a descent to the Harlem tracks below at 70th street, making a semi-circular turnout south of 67th street, halfway down to 66th street under the bridge approach, for carriages and pedestrians, thus closing the noisy tunnel opening in front of the Seventh Regiment Armory, at the same time widening the open space in front into a plaza.

III.—Fourteen foundations for the posts on the centre walls of the Harlem Railroad and four on the eastern sidewalk at curbstone for about 300 feet until the structure reaches the property to be purchased by the company east of 4th avenue.

IV.—Eighteen similar foundations for the curves going southward, between 62d and 63d streets, and twenty-eight for posts only, between 50th and 53d streets, where the elevated structure will run over a strip of the street about 12 feet wide on each side of 4th avenue, but not close or occupy any part of the street except for these posts.

From 50th street to 49th street, where the tracks descend to the yard grade, the company say they will require about 12 feet on each side of 4th avenue, which they will close by a wall, diminishing from about 8 feet to 2 feet in height. This space, 12 feet wide and 200 feet long on each side, is the only part of the avenue they wish to close and occupy.

The Commissioner of Public Works informed the company that they would be responsible for damage to abutting property-owners. They give the answer that any reasonable money damages will be promptly paid, and that they will give the city guarantees to that effect.

The company's petition to the Board of Street Opening is still under consideration. In it they say that if they get the Board's sanction to their plans they will give guarantees to the city as to their financial responsibility, and are willing to give a bond named by the city to commence work in six months and to complete the Bridge connections with the Harlem Railroad twelve months thereafter.

Of course, considerable opposition has been manifested towards the project. A number of property-owners and residents in the immediate neighborhood petitioned against the bridge, and the Colonel of the Seventh Regiment and the Arion Club opposed it.

"Are the railroad companies at the Grand Central Depot willing to give you the necessary connections?" asked the reporter.

"Yes, sir," said Dr. Rainey. "Mr. Chauncey M. Depew has personally assured me of the support of his company. Indeed, the New York Central Board of Directors on October 26, 1886, passed the following resolution: 'That this company would regard the establishment of direct rail communication with the city of Brooklyn and other parts of Long Island as of great importance to its interests, and upon the construction of the proposed bridge over Blackwell's Island of the New York and Long Island Bridge Company, will cordially co-operate with that company in facilitating its connection with the lines of this company and the Grand Central Depot in the form which may appear most practicable, and will give to the said company, upon equitable terms, the passenger and freight business, which may be worked over the bridge advantageously.' The Manhattan Railway Company passed a similar resolution on September 28, 1886, stating that in view of the great importance to its interests to grow out of the bridge, it gives the company an assurance of its co-operation in respect of connections and running arrangements." Similar letters were received from the Long Island Railroad Company, and even from the New York & Northern Road, which connects with the 'L' roads and brings its cargo by the Harlem River to the East River docks and Brooklyn."

"What disposition do you propose to make with the houses on the north side of 64th street, when you acquire title?" asked the reporter, "and what kind of a structure will you put up?"

"We will not tear down the houses. It would be sheer waste to do so. We will rent them out. Our bridge will run over them and be of solid ironwork, making as little noise as possible. We will make the construction as little of an eyesore as possible to the residents on the south side of 65th street. Our idea is to run heavy iron columns along the rear of the houses, possibly embedding them in the houses themselves, rebuilding the brick work around them, so that the substructure shall not be visible. The height of the trains from the ground will range from 30 feet at 4th avenue to 140 feet at the East River. The houses are from 30 to 50 feet high. The property on 64th street, between 3d avenue and the East River, is nearly all vacant, and we have a plan under consideration to utilize the space under the bridge from 3d avenue to the East river as a mammoth market where fruits, vegetables, fish, meats, etc., may be obtained via rail and water. So far from hurting property on 64th street we will make it one of the most valuable of the streets in the central upper section of the east side."

"Should the Supreme Court give you authority to acquire title to the land you want on Blackwell's Island," asked the reporter, "how soon would you commence work?"

"At once," was the reply, "and we will engage to spend in cash $100,000 to $200,000 for material and work, so as to comply with the law. We wil spend that money anyway, and will build two coffer-dams and float them down to the site of the bridge on the East River to await the necessary authority from the Board of Street Opening. Our charter says that we must spend at least $100,000 on the work by May 30, 1889; $200,000 or more by May 30, 1890, and $300,000 or more by May 30, 1891. We are prepared to comply with the charter."

The reporter called at the Mayor's office to ascertain what the Board of Street Opening was likely to do in the matter of granting the necessary permission to start the work at 4th avenue.

"What obstacle is there," he asked of Secretary Mercer, "in the way of the Board of Street Opening granting the necessary permission for the company to go ahead?"

"None that I know of except the press of other business," was the reply. "The law is quite clear, and if the bridge people are willing to give the necessary bonds and guarantees, as they say they are prepared to do, they have the right to proceed, I should say."

"Has the opposition of property owners and residents influenced the Board in delaying the granting of the necessary permission?"

"By no means, I think," said the Secretary; "the law is clear, and if all public improvements were killed by the objections of property-owners none would be undertaken. The charter granted to the company by the Legislature provides for due compensation to be paid by them to the city and property-owners for any property taken by them for the purposes of their bridge, as well as real estate which may be reduced in value in consequence of its construction."

Legislation Affecting New York City.

ALBANY, February 8, 1889.

Probably the most important bill affecting New York city property introduced in the Legislature this week has been the Cable Railroad bill, which, as put into the Assembly by Mr. Hamilton, is almost identical with the measure fathered by Mr. Pierce in the Senate a few days earlier. In explaining his bill, Mr. Hamilton said it came to the Legislature without concealment, and he was confident that when it was thoroughly understood, the Legislature and the people would accept it. The bill provides for the payment to the city of 5 per cent. of the gross receipts, which is more than is paid by any railroad corporation except one now in the city. Mr. Hamilton added that he was authorized to say that the cable company is ready and willing to abandon its routes on Madison avenue above 42d street, and also east of Madison avenue on that street, upon 59th street, upon 22d street, upon East Broadway from Chambers street to the East River, upon the exterior line from Barrow street to 72d street and the route from Kingsbridge to Yonkers, but no route is to be abandoned without the consent of the Commissioners. The bill has been referred to the Railroad Committee, and soon a hearing will be given by the joint committee of Senate and Assembly to all friends and opponents of the bill.

The Cable people have a strong and influential sponsor in Mr. Hamilton, who, during the past two or three sessions, was one of the most bitter opponents of the scheme. In explaining his change of attitude, Mr. Hamilton said:

The Cable Company is organized under the provisions of the act of 1875 by commissioners duly appointed, who laid out its routes as by law required. Ten per cent. of its stock has been paid in in cash. If the technical defect in its charter is remedied, it will give three north and south routes above 23d street—the Boulevard route, the Lexington avenue route and the 1st avenue route. The last two of these make their way to the Battery by partly-elavated structures on streets east of Broadway. At distances varying from a half mile to a mile or more apart are lateral branches, fourteen in number, to accommodate cross-town travel, with transfers for a single fare.

To those who have examined the cable system in Chicago or in the upper part of New York, it must be evident how superior they are to horse-cars. It is no substitute for rapid transit that is offered, but a subsidiary system that for cheapness, speed and cleanliness surpasses all others yet devised. The advantage which this company enjoys is that, its charter having been thoroughly discussed in the courts, it can proceed at once to build its roads, which can be constructed in a single season, while any rapid transit scheme would require years of litigation before it is commenced and further years for its construction.

In abandoning the route on Madison avenue the Vanderbilt opposition is withdrawn, the most serious obstacle the promoters of the cable scheme have had to encounter thus far—an opposition which was to be expected from the fact that, in addition to enjoying a franchise to operate a road on Madison avenue, the Vanderbilt interest have recently acquired the right from the local authorities to propel cars on that thoroughfare on the Storage electric system.

Next in importance is the bill introduced in the Senate by Senator Pierce, naming John N. Drohe, William H. Duchworth, Edward S. Fowler, James Barber, David Hunt, William H. Simonson, Henry R. Heath, Robert J. Dean, John Pullman, Lewis F. Dodd, William J. Tate, George Hillobrand

Richard A. Springs, Jones Johnston, Walter E. Field and their successors as incorporators of the New York and Brooklyn Tunnel Company. The capital stock is $12,000,000 in shares of $100 each. When 5,000 shares have been subscribed the incorporators shall meet and choose fifteen directors. The tunnel is to extend from Whitehall street, New York, to Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn. The work is to begin within two years after the passage of the act and is to be completed within five years thereafter. The shares shall be regarded as personal estate and be exempt from taxation. Passengers and freight are to be transported through the tunnel, but the tolls and rates of freight shall not exceed those now charged by the Union Ferry Company and the East River Bridge for like service in crossing the river.

There was a lively debate in the Senate over Senator Ives' bill authorizing the appropriation of $400,000 by the Board of Estimate and Apportionments for the completion of the building occupied by the American Museum of Natural History, which indicated that the measure will meet with decided opposition on the part of New York city representatives when it comes up on its final passage, unless assurance be given that the institution will be thrown open to the people on Sunday.

The Assembly Cities Committee has favorably reported Mr. Crosby's Municipal Building bill ; and Mr. Kerrigan's, providing 10,000 commissioners of deeds in New York city.

Among the more important bills pending in both Houses this week in addition to those referred to above are these :

By Mr. Gorder.—Amending the act to facilitate the reorganization of railroads sold under mortgage by providing that a corporation organized under the act shall not be compelled to extend its road beyond the portion thereof constructed at the time said corporation acquired the title to such railroad property and franchise, provided the Railroad Commissioners shall certify that public interests do not require such extension.

By Mr. Bush.—Appropriating $25,000 for the purchase of the Creedmore Rifle Range for the use of the National Guard.

Assemblyman Van Gorder (No. 158)—To amend the assessment and tax-laws (printed in full in another column).

Assemblyman Connolly (No. 175)—To create two additional State assessors, making five in all. One of the new assessors and each of his successors must have resided five years before his appointment in the County paying the largest amount of the taxes of the State into the State Treasury. The assessors are to be appointed by the Governor and Senate.

Assemblyman Miley (No. 176)—Provides that the services of notices of sales of land made by the Register of Arrears shall be made by the Corporation Counsel instead of the Comproller, the cost of service to be paid from the proceeds of said sales.

Assemblyman Hornidge (No. 199)—Authorizes executors, administrators, guardians, trustees and others holding trust funds for investment to invest them in trust in bonds or stocks of New York city.

Assemblyman Graham (No. 224)—Adds from the centre of Sutton avenue, from the northwest corner of Flatlands, to the line between the late town of New Lots and Flatbush, to the town of Flatlands, taking it from the City of Brooklyn, and thus altering the maps of both the town and city.

Assemblyman Hamilton (No. 236)—Amends section 1561 of the Code of Civil Procedure in relation to searches in actions for partition. It is in the interest of the title insurance companies, and provides that a search guaranteed by them, exclusive of the Register, shall be held good in such actions.

Assemblyman Larmon (No. 238)—For the assessment and taxation of real and personal property, and for equalizing taxation thereon. Sections 13 and 14 are principally worth quoting. Section 13 says, that "all indebtedness which is a lien upon real estate shall be deducted from its actual value and the remainder assessed to the owners. Section 14 says, "that the owners of real property on which there are mortgages or judgment liens, shall pay the taxes levied upon the assessment of such mortgages or judgments, and deduct the amount of taxes from the interest or principal due the owners of such mortgages or judgments."

Senator Ives has introduced bill No. 182, authorizing the sale or leasing of land excluded from the boundaries of the public places and parkways in the 23d and 24th Wards, and in the adjacent districts in Westchester County. Under its provisions, the Department of Public Parks, with the concurrence of a majority of the Sinking Fund Commissioners, will have the power to revise the boundaries of the parks in the annexed district by excluding lands they deem undesirable; whereupon the Sinking Fund Commissioners will be authorized to lease the excluded lands.

The following is the full text of bills No. 128 and 158 referred to above:

No. 128.

IN ASSEMBLY.

Any person or persons, firm or firms, corporation or assoication, performing any labor or services or furnishing any material for any of the purposes specified in the first section of this act, to and for the owner, or his authorized agent, or for any person other than the owner, may at any time demand of such owner or his authorized agent the terms of the contract or agreement by which said house, building or building lot, and the amount due or unpaid the person or persons, firm, corporation or association erecting, altering, repairing or improving the same, or demand from said owner or his authorized agent immediately after entering upon the performance of any labor and service for any of the purposes mentioned in the first section of this act; or after furnishing any material for the same purpose, that the owner or his authorized agent pay said person or persons for the value of said labor and service performed or thereafter to be performed, or for the materials furnished or thereafter to be furnished, instead of paying for them to the contractor or to any of his sub-contractors; and that the owner or his authorized agent deduct the amount so paid, after said demand, from the original contract price; and if such owner or his said agent at any time of said demand shall neglect or refuse to inform the person making such demand of the contract or agreement therefor, or shall intentionally and knowingly falsely state the terms of said contract or agreement under which the same are being erected, altered, repaired or made, and the amount due and unpaid upon such contract or agreement therefor, or shall intentionally and knowingly falsely state the terms of said contract or agreement, or the amount due and unpaid thereon; or, after said demand, refuse to pay to the person or persons, firm or firms, corporation and association, for the labor and services performed, or to be performed by them, or materials furnished or to be furnished by them, and instead shall pay for the same to the contractor or any sub-contractor; and if the person or persons, firm or firms, corporation or association furnishing such materials or performing such labor and services shall sustain loss by reason of such refusal or neglect, or false statement, or by any reason of such refusal or neglect to pay for such labor and services rendered or to be rendered, or materials furnished or to be furnished, after payment to them therefor shall have been demanded, the said owner shall be liable to them in an action therefor, and the return unsatisfied of an execution against the party to whom such materials were furnished, or for whom such labors and services were performed in an action for the collection of the value thereof shall be presumptive proof of such loss, and the person or persons, firm or firms, corporation or association furnishing such materials, or performing such labor and services, or making such improvement, shall, by filing within the time and in the manner the notice of lien prescribed by this act, have a lien upon the house, wharf, vault, pier, bridge, bulkhead, building or appurtenances, and upon the lot, premises, parcel or farm of land upon which the same may stand, or be intended to stand, or improvement is made, as in this act provided, for all materials furnished and labor and services performed, after such neglect, refusal or false statement, or after such refusal and neglect to pay therefor after a demand to that effect shall have been made. It shall, however, be lawful for the owner or his authorized agent to retain a reasonable amount of the contract price for a period not exceeding three months after the completion of any such work, repairs, alteration or construction, for the purpose of paying any legal just demands which may be made for work, labor and services performed, or materials furnished on any such work, repairs or alteration or construction.

No. 158.

IN ASSEMBLY.

The same rule of deduction for indebtedness that now applies to personal property shall hereafter apply to real estate, and all indebtedness on real estate shall be deducted from its true value and the remainder assessed to the owner or owners of such real estate.

The owner or owners of real estate upon which there is a mortgage or judgment lien shall pay the taxes levied upon the assessment of such mortgage or judgment and may deduct the amount of taxes so paid from the interest or principal on such mortgage or judgment.

If any assessor or tax-commissioner shall knowingly undervalue any property under the rule now prescribed by law, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be punished by imprisonment of not more than six months in the county jail or by a fine not to exceed $500, or by both fine and imprisonment, as the Court may determine.

Nothing in this act shall in any manner change or affect present laws providing for the assessment and taxation of any railroad, telegraph or telephone company.

Property Owners and Assembly Bill 78.

A call has been issued to property owners whose interests are affected by Mr. Hamilton's Assembly bill No. 78, to meet at the offices of the Title Guarantee and Trust Co., No. 55 Liberty street, at 1.30 P. M., on Saturday the 16th inst.

A synopsis of the object of this bill was published in our last issue, which affects about 10,000 city lots by enforcing certain covenants contained in water grants derived from the Mayor, Aldermen, and Commonalty of the city. It is contended, in the interest of property holders, that the covenants should be removed entirely, and the streets in question should be put on the same footing as to pavement, repairs, etc., as other streets in the city ; and that in any case, it is unwise to leave the settlement of the amount to be paid by property owners to the city authorities because they are one of the parties to the covenant.

Real Estate Exchange Affairs.

COMMITTEE ON LEGISLATION.

The weekly meeting of this committee took place on Tuesday, Constant A. Andrews in the chair. Among those present were: Messrs. E. A Chruikshank, Clifford Coddington, G. S. Lespinasse, Richard Deeves, Garrett Nagle, Sinclair Myers, Geo. De Forest Barton, A. J. Robinson, Beverly Ward and others.

Mr. Coddington, as chairman of the Sub-committee on City Improvements, reported in favor of the erection of the new municipal building on the northeast corner of the City Hall Park. Mr . Thomas C. Smith, on behalf of the minority, reported against the erection of any further buildings in the City Hall Park. Considerable discussion ensued, in which a number of members took part. The feeling evidently was in favor of concentrating all the public offices in one building within a stone's-throw of the Mayor's office, instead of their being scattered in different buildings, but that the new structure should face the City Hall Park, and not be in the Park itself. An argument used by some of the speakers was that the city could purchase property and build thereon for a sum the interest on which, if 3 per cent. bonds are issued therefor, will not exceed the cost of the rents of the offices for a number of Departments now paid by the city.

Mr. Lespinasse moved an amendment, and a counter amendment was also proposed, but the report of the minority of the sub-committee was eventually passed, which merely objects to the further encroachment of any buildings on the park. The object of the report evidently was to withhold support from any more ground being occupied in the park with buildings than is now covered.

The Sub-committee on Taxation and Assessment reported adversely on Assembly bill No. 158, for the reason that "taxation on mortgages should be abolished, and this bill confirms the present tax condition and simply suggests another mode of collecting it." The report is signed by Messrs. Myers, Ward and Barton.

The following bills were referred: Assembly bill No. 175, creating five State Assessors, vice three, to the Taxation and Assessment Committee; Mr. Larmon's bill, to equalize the taxation and assessment of real estate, to the same committee; Mr. King's act, to amend the parks in the 23d and 24th Wards, to the Committee on Drafting and Amending Laws, and Mr. Coon's bill, No. 182, to enforce payment of unpaid personal taxes, to the Taxation and Assessment Committee. Senate bill No. 136, referring to the transfer of real estate; No. 137, as to deeds and instruments affecting title of realty, and No. 138, as to judgment liens on real property, were referred to the Committee on Drafting and Amending Laws.

Owing to the numerous bills referred to the Committees on City Improvements, Pending Legislation, and Taxation and Assessment, the first two were, by resolution, increased in membership from five to eleven, and the last from five to nine. This will relieve these committees from the onerous work which has heretofore devolved upon them and distribute it amongst a larger number of workers. The difficulty of getting prompt reports experienced in the past will thereby be obviated. The president of the Exchange has made considerable effort to get members of high standing to serve, and has asked for the names of prominent and able stockholders to be sent in to him who may be willing to act, and who have not hitherto taken an active interest in the affairs of the Legislative Committee.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

The directors met on Tuesday, President E. A. Cruikshank in the chair. Messrs. Harnett, Cammann, Johnson, Jr., Warren, Fromme, Luyster, Scott and Isaacs were also present.

The president suggested the formation of a library for the brokers' room. He would be happy to initiate contributions thereto.

The petition from the auctioneers to the Board, published in last week's RECORD AND GUIDE, was read. Mr. Fromme moved "that the recommendation of the Auction Room Committee, to the effect that the same be not acquiesced in, be adopted by this Board." The motion was carried unanimously.

The Committee on Rapid Transit then presented the following report as the result of their deliberations at several sittings:

The question of rapid transit so intimately affects the interests of real estate owners that the Exchange is constrained to assist in the solution of the problem by every means in its power. Two radical necessities are admitted. First, "rapid transit" must imply a rate of transport of at least twenty miles an hour from the Harlem River to the down-town business centres. To provide for such a speed the trains must run in open cuts or tunnels or upon substantial viaducts. Second, the system adopted must be adequate not only to the present but also the future growth of the city, and must provide accommodation for both the east and west sides, including at least two main lines, and upon each line facilities for through and local traffic.

The Real Estate Exchange can hasten the accomplishment of this great improvement, destined to exert a lasting effect upon property within the area of our city. While abstaining from the recommendation or the condemnation of any particular plan, the Exchange may promote the prompt and effectual consideration of this subject and may contribute its influence and co-operation in aid of the projects which shall prove practical and adequate.

And to this end the committee recommend:

1. That the Mayor of New York be requested to name a commission, including representatives of the Exchanges and Boards of Trade, together with engineers detailed from the Departments of Public Works and Parks and otherwise selected, to recommend railway routes within the city limits and a rapid transit system applicable to the entire city.

2. That the Corporation Counsel should be requested by the Mayor to prepare legislation amending general laws providing for railways in cities in such respects as experience has proven necessary, and so as to permit of prompt official action upon the work of such commission.

3. That a public meeting be convened by the Exchange, at which the report of such commission shall be presented and action had thereon, and such other steps be taken as shall be deemed judicious to secure the co-operation of the people of New York.

Signed—M. S. Isaacs, H. H. Cammann, Ira D. Warren, E. A. Cruikshank, George R. Read.

A COUNTER PETITION.

The following petition has been sent in to the Board of Directors:

To the Exchange and Auction Room Committee, Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room (Limited).

GENTLEMEN—The undersigned auctioneers and brokers, members of the Real Estate Exchange, respectfully petition your committee to rent such sign space on the walls of the Exchange Salesroom as may be available, to such auctioneers and brokers as may be applicants therefor.

The desirability of such accommodation being granted to such members of the Exchange as are auctioneers and who do not lease stands because there are none for them to lease, we believe, has been apparent to your committee for a considerable time. A number have been and are now willing to pay liberally for stand accommodation, an accommodation that will be forever denied them if the claims of some of the present lessees to absolute ownership of the stands are correct.

We desire to place ourselves on record as denying the claim of the occupants, that they have perpetual rights to the stands they now occupy, or that they are not subject to the rules of the Exchange and to the jurisdiction of your committee.

We respectfully submit that the exclusion of non-standholding members who are auctioneers from displaying their business signs on the walls of the Exchange Salesroom, while stand lessees have that privilege, is not only a serious drawback to them in their business, but an infringement on their rights as members.

As members of this Exchange in good standing, we believe we are entitled to the same rights and the same privileges—be they what they may—that are possessed by others, and that the officers of the Exchange do not recognize and will not tolerate the assumption of pretended rights and exclusive privileges as set forth in the communication above referred to.

We respectfully request and demand that your committee will take favorable action on the resolution with reference to rental of sign privileges, believing it will be a benefit to the Exchange and to us, and will not infringe on the rights and privileges of any member.—Brown & Leviness, T. A. McGowan, Thos. C. Smith, J. Romaine Brown & Co., Andrew Powell, W. W. Fogg, John M. Gibson, J. Jay Smith, Thos. C. Higgins, Thos. Monaghan, W. C. Lesster, Wm. Mulry, N. Cowen, M. Littman, D. Phœnix Ingraham & Co., Fairchild & Yoran.

The following are some of the members who have applied to rent signs: E. A. Cruikshank, Leonard J. Carpenter, Geo. R. Read, D. Phœnix Ingraham & Co., D. F. Porter, Fairchild & Yoran, Hausling & Stonebridge, Folsom Brothers, Thomas C. Smith, J. Romaine Brown & Co., V. K. Stevenson & Co., Phillips & Wells, Seton & Weissman, Martin B. Brown, John R. Foley, M. S. Anderson.

We are in receipt of the regular annual published by the Financial Chronicle. It covers with its usual completeness the doings of the financial and business world during 1888. Investors wishing any information as to the fluctuations of bonds and stocks, railroad earnings, etc., would do well to refer to it.

The Supreme Court will, on Monday, hear the case of the property owners who have for years been making efforts to have Lexington avenue opened between 97th and 102d streets.

Real Estate Department.

The healthy tone of the market noted for a month or more past continues to be the feature. The large increase during the past month in the volume of conveyances, shows that the movement in real estate is very active. The considerable increase in the amount of the mortgage deeds recorded is an evidence that money is plenteous, and the larger sums loaned at less than five per cent. shows that mortgagors are willing to accept a smaller interest on first-class realty to a greater extent than in previous years. Vacant lots have been most active of late, and this is seen in the increased number of plans in the architects offices lately, and in the unusually large figures of the projected buildings.

The sales at auction have been quite numerous, the properties sold being mainly improved. Some of the parcels with small rentals brought very high figures, but the prices paid in these cases represented the value of the lots and not the income producing capacity of the old or small structures on them. As an instance of this the property at No. 136 Prince street may be quoted. This comprises a lot, 24.11½x101, with a three-and-a-half-story building thereon, renting for $900 per annum. It is situate between Wooster street and South 5th avenue, within a few blocks of Broadway, and brought $19,000. The price paid would have been phenomenally large if $900 rental represented the capacity of the property for bearing income. In reality the purchaser bought it on account of the lot, which is fully worth the money for the purpose of erecting a store, factory or other building.

On Monday there were no auction sales.

On Tuesday there were a number of important sales, including property belonging to the Lorillard Spencer estate. The latter drew together a large audience of interested bidders, and the prices obtained were considered good, on the whole. The principal parcels offered were No. 525 Broadway, comprising a lot 24.10x75, with a five-story building thereon, which was knocked down at $92,500 to M. Sternberger, to whom the property is valuable, as he owns the building in the rear on Spring street. One of the heirs, Lorillard Spencer, purchased No. 104 Worth street, a lot 25x80.2 with a five-story iron front building thereon, for $84,000. Ex-Comptroller E. V. Loew bought No. 109 Canal street, containing a three-story building on about a quarter of a full lot, for $12,900, and Henry Waters paid $15,000 for a lot 21.2x62.10 and 63.1 at No. 85 Hester street, a figure which caused great surprise to Amos R. Eno, who watched the sale intently. No. 136 Prince, between Wooster street and South 5th avenue, a lot with three-and-a-half-story building, brought $19,000, George Schuster being the purchaser. Amongst the other parcels offered were two Riverside Drive lots near 95th street, which were bid in at $6,000 each, and a plot of four lots on the northeast corner of 155th street and the Grand Boulevard, which went to T. A. Disbrow for $28,000. Several properties were withdrawn.

On Wednesday no sales of importance took place. Several parcels were withdrawn, and the principal sale made was the property at Nos. 64 and 66 Monroe street, which brought $35,900, R. A. Gould being the purchaser.

On Thursday the properties announced to be sold were very numerous. The Betsey A. Hart property attracted some attention, and amongst the parcels was No 18 Dey street, which was purchased for $55,000 by L. J. & I. Phillips for a customer. Few people realize what the aggregate annual search bill of New York real estate owners has been. The reports for 1888 show that these disbursements, which are added as extras to the bills for lawyers' services, reached the enormous sum of $284,452. Just think of it! More than a quarter of a million dollars annually! No wonder that the community is turning for relief to the system that has abolished these unpleasant extras, and makes its own searches at its own expense.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—It appears to be a small market, yet nevertheless a firm one, and the moderate changes since our last have been principally in sellers' favor. Consumption has proven irregular, according to the weather, and during the severity of the cold was materially curtailed; but the supply was also small and well under control, with owners refusing to negotiate except upon a full basis of valuation which was on the average about $8 per M, though $8.25 has been made and is a quotation with $7.50 as the other extreme on faulty quality, though we understand some badly worked stock did sell as low as $7.25 per M. At the present writing buyers are talking about a lessened demand and their ability to meet it from accumulations in hand; but there is no anxiety to sell the few cargoes here, as the ice in the river is becoming annoying to quite a serious extent, and will in all probability check shipments. Jersey is sending in a little stock and some marked lots are spoken of from Long Island, but the latter source of supply is apparently not yet ready to forward fine grades, although the price is about where manufacturers seemed to want it. Pales have remained steady and in fair demand, but receivers were not successful in obtaining any positive advance in the line of value.

CEMENT.—There is a very good general deal and the market rules pretty firm. The domestic stock available has found ready enough custom and commanded full rates, while of foreign the sale was such as to clean out closely the supply coming to hand and somewhat enhance values. Importers, too, are looking for more money on parcels to arrive, as manufacturers have put up their price, and the shipping contracts under cheap rates have about all run out. The prospect for consumption this year is said to be excellent.

GLASS.—Cylinder is meeting with about usual seasonable demand, and remains in a steady position at former discounts. Plate also sells fairly, and is steady. The recent attempt to form a combination among American manufacturers did not prove a success, and a press dispatch received from Pittsburg says as follows:

"The window-glass trust has fallen through. One of the manufacturers said to-day that the discussion on the subject, just before the Washington meeting, developed the fact that it was an impossibility. The importers of Belgian window-glass will not join any association of the kind proposed. With the present tariff the trust could not succeed without them.

"One-half the window-glass now used in this country is imported from Belgium. It can be brought in here, the tariff paid and sold just as cheap as American glass. Another serious objection is that the interests of the Eastern and Western window-glass manufacturers are so conflicting that it would be almost an impossibility to get them to agree on any trust or syndicate scheme."

LATH.—The position remains much the same as a week ago, the absence of arrivals preventing any chance to test the market, and values are really not quotable except from a guess-work basis. Receivers, however, seem to feel very certain that when they do have anything to offer it will sell very promptly and command a high figure, with $2.50 per M by some considered a modest suggestion.

LIME.—The arrivals have been rather moderate and come to hand irregularly, yet there was demand awaiting each cargo, and business proved quick with prices well sustained. The output has been fair and manufacturers, it is understood, will send it along as fast as facilities permit.

LUMBER.—A certain amount of grumbling seems inherent with some operators, and we find about the usual proportions this week under various pretexts, the weather, as usual, getting its due share, as that element was never known to secure the unanimous approval of any ordinary number of people who might be called upon to criticise it. We do find, however, as a good balance, a great many dealers, representing various localities in this or adjacent cities, who report a pretty full trade accomplished last month, with the encouragement of present dealing such as to lead them to hope for a continuation, though now and then a suggestion is made that a "dull spell" next month would be only in accord with precedent, and not unlikely to follow free deliveries during the first sixty days of the year. No one calculates upon more than a temporary lull, however, and faith in a comparatively healthy spring trade seems quite as general as ever. In the meanwhile stocks are settling off and breaking up, and the skirmishing salesmen from the interior who have had any experience on this market, are watching the situation closely and locating the points at which the attack seems most likely to meet with success when the time for more aggressive action, looking to the placing of supplies, is in order. Present indications seem to show that no scarcity of logs will follow this winter's work, nor an abundance sufficient to have any weakening influence upon the position.

Eastern Spruce retains about seasonable features, except that there has been a somewhat better chance to place cargoes this winter than usual. The open weather and absence of ice in the harbor made deliveries comparatively easy at many points, and instead of being compelled to depend upon a narrow line of custom, receivers had a number of buyers to select from, some of whom were really anxious for almost anything of standard quality, owing to the limited stocks laid away in the fall and the freer distribution made than calculated upon. The general condition of the market, in consequence, is a healthy one, and only an extraordinary supply would be likely to exhaust the advantage of sellers.

Piling still gets a little attention now and then, of course, from local stock and commands full rates, the supply remaining under close control and firm valuation, with an evident belief that it will all be wanted before important additions can be made.

Hemlock has not been particularly active, but there is the usual claim of strength for the position, and some operators are talking about an advance as sure to come. Chances are probably quite as good relatively as for any other standard description of lumber, and it is not unlikely that carefully cut and fully seasoned stock may command something in the way of a premium, yet conservative operators, even among those who are likely to have considerable stock to sell, doubt the propriety of much of an addition to value, lest too great competition be stimulated finally to result in an unhealthy reaction.

White Pine seems to be in very good general form, and on the whole the average run of reports are better than at the commencement of the month. In addition to the deliveries made upon shipping orders there has from many yards been quite a full local distribution, and we hear some complaints of broken stocks, though, as might be expected, principally from dealers who failed to put in their usual accumulation. Some of these dealers have been coquetting with representatives of manufacturers, and it is believed have closed contracts, though no intimation of terms are given. Box boards certainly are very firm, with claims that $16.00 is an inside rate, while good shipping stock is also stiffening, and uppers still talked of as sure to improve before the season progresses far.

Yellow Pine gives evidence of retaining a good position. Operators in many cases pretend they do not care to have much written about this market, and they act that way too, but this is probably more the force of habit than because there is anything unpleasant to conceal, as all the conditions appear to be healthy. The yard dealers are said to be adhering closely to the advances they have recently made in values without the loss of trade, and the offerings from primary points are now so guarded that while nothing unreasonable is exacted from buyers, it is simply a loss of time to stand off in expectation of securing important concessions through the competition of sellers.

Carolina Pine has no general or active demand at the moment, yet now and then a pretty good order is spoken of, mostly for future delivery, and this shows that all the chances are promising. This section of the market seems to be troubled more with competitive sellers than any other, and that creates an irregularity on values, though on a broad range quotations remain uniform.

Hardwoods are doing very well owing to the general character of consumption, and also to the fact that many dependent points offer a better outlet for stock than had been calculated upon. This, of course, is reducing stocks and paving the way for bigger sales to dealers later on, with, of course, the selling side talking firmly on prices. Poplar promises particularly well apparently, and sellers are, in pretty much all cases, adhering to a good, solid line of valuation and maintaining all previous advances. Walnut outside the export trade, has uncertain custom and more or less irregular value. Cherry continues in small supply and readily salable. All other woods are securing their usual relative proportions of current demand and ruling about steady in the line of price.

Shingles do not undergo much change. Home demand is light and somewhat uncertain, but quite a little export trade can be picked up at about former rates either from spot stock or on f. o. b. orders. There has been some comparatively full arrivals coastwise since first of year.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Timberman of Chicago says:

The past week has been splendid hauling weather, and logs have gone in at a very rapid rate at Wisconsin points. Every team that can be picked up or hired has been sent up to the camps to assist in the work. Hired teams have been secured at as high as $80 per month and expenses one way. Loggers recognize the fact that what is to be done must be without loss of time, and are loading the sleds with all the logs that the binding chain will hold.

There is plenty of snow in the upper peninsula and logs are being put in at less expense than ever before, and more of them are going in. At Saginaw Valley points north of Midland and among the timber lands in Northern Michigan they have deep snow. Logs are being hauled at all the camps, and with freezing nights prospects are that the snow will wear until we get some more.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

Nothing especially noteworthy has developed in the lumber trade at large during the week, except some sign of reviving demand at a few of the leading wholesale markets. The winter continues remarkably mild all over the north, and the result is a more than ordinary consumption and movement of stock for midwinter. In this city it is the unanimous opinion that distribution during January was unusually large, and within ten days past there has been a noticeable increase of sales and shipment.

It is yet too early to determine the full outcome of the logging season. Throughout the larger area of the white pine districts of Michigan and Wisconsin good work is being done, and every effort is being put forth to get to bank all the logs that were placed on skidways. In the lower pine counties of Michigan, in the St. Croix valley of Wisconsin, and in Minnesota there is still a lack of snow, and the prospect of getting a full stock of logs is poor. It is thought that this will have some effect toward the advance of the price of logs at the mills on the Mississippi, and consequently on next season's value of lumber.

On the whole there is likely to be no overwhelming input of logs this season, such as sometimes menaces lumber values and induces softness of prices. Even in the Menominee district, where logging conditions have been favorable, there has been concerted effort on the part of operators to limit the input to a certain amount.

The outlook for poplar continues favorable. Reports from Eastern and Western markets admit that the larger manufacturers in Tennessee, Kentucky and West Virginia are holding for association prices, and are realizing them in the majority of sales. They are aided in this by the moderate stocks that are found at all points.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman says:

The conditions surrounding the operations in the woods are probably all that could be desired. The weather has been uniformly cold enough throughout Minnesota and Wisconsin to prevent logging roads from going to pieces, and local snow storms have improved the roads to some extent. It is neither too cold nor too warm, and there is snow enough without there being too much. It is probably that as many logs are being banked as were ever banked by the same force, and that logs are being put in as cheaply as they were ever put upon the bank. It is therefore true that the probabilities are that the market conditions will not be very materially affected by what may be accomplished in the woods. How much and how little may be accomplished is now wholly dependent upon how early the break-up in the spring may occur. The conditions are all favorable, however, for an early cessation of work. There is not now enough snow on the ground to protract sleighing after the first good thaw in March. There is comparatively little frost in the ground, and the conditions are otherwise favorable for an early spring. The fact that the whole winter has been exceptionally mild also encourages the belief that there will be an early break-up. With this prospect in view the loggers are gauging their operations.

THE SOUTH.

The Southern Lumberman, of Nashville, Tenn., is rapidly growing in excellence of contents and general make-up and stands in the front rank among the few lumber trade journals of the interior that have attained the success of being considered authorities in the interests they represent. We find the following in its issue of 1st inst.:

"There yet remains a vast amount of merchantable timber within reach of the Cumberland and its logging tributaries, but a good deal of it will not stand the rigid inspection of Nashville buyers, and while prices for high-class logs are entirely satisfactory, the prices paid for common and low-grade logs does not pay the logmen a profit. The Nashville inspection rules demand a high grade of lumber for shipment, and the mill men are forced to insist upon a high grade of logs from their up-river buyers. The best timber has been cut back from the river and logging streams till it requires a haul over bad roads for an average distance of at least five miles. To haul such logs as the Nashville mills require, with farm teams and farms wagons, such as are and have been in use in that section, is no small job. Some of the logmen have sought to lessen this difficulty by utilizing the creeks or small streams, and have banked a number of logs on them. But the difficulty is that the creeks where the best timber grows are regular torrents after a heavy rain. It is impossible to drive logs out of them on a "head rise," consequently the logman who banks his logs on one of these creeks to save a long haul over bad roads with a weak team and an unsuitable wagon has to wait until there is a 40 foot rise in the Cumberland to back still water up to his logs. There has been no tide sufficient to enable the loggers to float their logs out of these creeks this season, and, as a consequence, many logs that are needed and would bring good prices in this market are lying on the banks awaiting a tide of water that may not come this season."

CANADA.

The Canadian Journal of Commerce in reviewing the year, has the following:

The shipments of Ottawa pine deals are now largely made from Montreal, and figure up for the year 51,000 Petersburg standard hundred, against 44,000 Petersburg standard hundred in 1887. Shipments from ports between Montreal and Quebec, i. e., Pierreville, Three Rivers, Batiscan, etc., are estimated at about 10,000 Petersburg standard hundred, spruce and pine, chiefly spruce; shipments from lower St. Lawrence and Saguenay, from 15,000 to 20,000 Petersburg standard hundred; shipments to River Plate have been—from Montreal and other ports—Pine, 7,500 Petersburg standard hundred; on the St. Lawrence, lower down—spruce, 1,750 Petersburg standard hundred; in all, 9,250 Petersburg standard hundred—against the year previous, 17,000 Petersburg hundred. The falling off was caused, not by the lessened demand, but from the difficulty in getting tonnage. Large shipments will go forward by rail during the winter for shipment at Portland, Boston and New York, as the South American markets are short and prices very high. There is much future growth possible in the trade.

* * * * * * *

Our market here was affected by the extraordinary rise in freights which took place all the world over. Early in the year chartering was done at 52s. 6d.@55s. In the course of May they were down to 40s.@42s. 6d.; towards end of June and beginning July they began to rise gradually, increasing to 80s.@90s. towards end of the season, with finally no vessels, sail or steam, to be had even at these rates. We see some chartering has been done already for next spring by steam at 60s., and sail at 57s. 6d., and for Saguenay and lower St. Lawrence some sail tonnage has been taken up at 52s. 6d.@55s. Under the new Quebec regulations steamers are now allowed to use their own steam winches in loading deals and timber, and quite a number of steamers loaded here with timber the past season.

* * * * * * *

A large portion of the new production, both in deals and timber, has been contracted for by exporters, and as near as possible at these prices:

Timber.—Oak	50c@52c.
Ash	30c@ 35c.
Elm	35c@ 38c.
White Pine	30c@40c.*
White Board Pine	43c@44c.†
Red Pine	30c@35c.

Deals. Pine.—Ottawa, St. Lawrence, Three Rivers, etc.:	1st.	2d.	3d.	4th.
	$112	$77	$37	$27
	1st.	2d.	3d.	4th.
Spruce, Quebec	$42@44	$26@28	$25	$21
" Lower St. Lawrence	$42	$28	$25	$20

* According to average and quality.

all per Quebec standard hundred. Quebec prices for deals are subject to shipping charges and bateau hire. Lower St. Lawrence spruce deals are free alongside ship. Quite a demand has sprung up for white birch spool wood for the large thread manufacturers in Great Britain and Ireland, and several important orders were given last fall for 1889 delivery. Prices range from $22@25 per thousand feet, board measure.

Reports from the Upper Ottawa lumber district, says the Ottawa Journal, are very favorable for a large output of logs and timber, the heavy frosts having rendered the ice on the smaller lakes strong enough to allow the passing of teams.

NAILS.—The movement has ordinary volume only, and gives no evidence of immediate increase, with nothing new in the general conditions of the market. Offerings equal all calls with something to spare, and former rates are, as a rule, quite promptly accepted. We quote at $1.80@1.90 for car lots, and $1.95@2.00 per keg from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—There has not been must general animation this week, but the volume of trade is about holding its own, and operators seem to be reasonably satisfied. Indeed over the prospects there is now and then evidence of some little enthusiasm manifested, and calculations are made that the distribution will be fuller than last season in all staple lines of stock. A good business will naturally make steady values, but no special buoyancy is suggested as the speculative spirit is passive. Linseed Oil remains about steady, as the position is under fair control, and quotations range at 57@57½c for Western, and 58@59c. for City. Spirits Turpentine has been in better demand at higher rates, closing firm at 47@47½c. per gallon according to quantity, delivery, etc.

PLASTER PARIS.—There has been a good demand for calcined from all natural local outlets, and also some first-rate export orders booked, the Australian trade in particular making a good customer, and values secured first-rate support at full former figures. Land plaster is also doing well, the demand rapidly exhausting supply and another advance taking place that brings the price up to $8 per ton.

TAR AND PITCH.—Demand is moderately active and mainly in the way of regular trade orders, with little or nothing really new developed in the general character of the market. Holders, as a rule, appear willing to part with stock at former figures. We quote Pitch $1.25@1.50 per bbl.; Tar at $2.00@2.20, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

A lien filed against us on property Nos. 206 to 212 69th street, last week, by James Gillis & Sons, stone dealers, for $5,000, is not correct. Our original contract with them was for $9,000, of which we have paid them $7,000. We are ready and willing to pay the balance according to agreement when the work is completed, but not until then.

VOL. XLIII. FEBRUARY 16, 1889. No. 1,092

Steel rails sold at $25 per ton during the past week, the lowest price ever recorded in this country. There does not seem to be any prospect of recovery in value because of the general stoppage of new railway construction. The depression in the iron and steel business is a bad sign. General trade is reported as large and active for the season, but profits have been cut down to a minimum. Merchants and traders are not over-sanguine as to the future, in view of the change in the administration. The stock market has been feverish, but it seems to reflect the honest judgment of investors and traders. Certain groups of securities decline in value and others advance. Those that have been on the down track, such as Illinois Central, Burlington & Quincy and Rock Island, have heretofore been firmly held by the most conservative investors, while the stocks which are advancing are those roads east of the Mississippi River, several of them non-dividend affairs, a class of securities never in favor with cautious business men. Yet the "street" shows real judgment in discriminating as it does. In the olden times this peculiarity of the market would have been attributed to Jay Gould's manipulations, but it is generally conceded that beyond strengthening his position in the South and Southwest, he is not concerning himself in the general market. There are two parties in the "street," both well organized. The bulls have had their innings and the bears will have theirs before the season goes much further.

It is worth noting that after any unusual period of activity in railroad building or speculation, a number of railroad magnates fall into discredit when pay-day comes. Just at present the officers of the Rock Island, Atchison, B. & Q., and Illinois Central are being roundly denounced by the press as persons who ought to be in prison for their misdeeds, yet these gentlemen represent the most powerful railroad combinations in the country, and their bond and stockholders belong to the very cream of the business community. Still, liquidation is going on in all these roads, based on the theory that the presidents and managing directors are flagrantly dishonest. Just at present they cannot defend themselves, for the public will not listen to them; but perhaps there may be another side to the story.

The cattle-raisers of the West have induced the leading legislators and executive officers of eleven States to meet in convention to see what can be done to protect them from the exactions of the great slaughtering firms which monopolize the dressed beef and the pork packing business in Chicago. These latter concerns stand between the cattle-growers and the meat consumers, and fix the price for both. The Senate of the United States appointed a committee, of which Mr. Vest was chairman, to investigate this matter; but it is one of the defects of our great legislative machine, that it cannot act quickly or efficiently. "Hence came this appeal of the ranchman to the authorities of the Western States." That there is an abuse to be corrected is evident by the readiness by which the States responded. It is understood that Pennsylvania has asked permission to enter into the forthcoming convention. Altogether this shows an anomalous state of affairs. The State authorities are asked to take sides in a purely business matter, and they seem disposed to do so.

There is general complaint that the Western farmers are keeping back their corn which, at this season of the year, should be moving to market very freely. This seems the more surprising in view of the phenomenally large crop of last year. But it should be remembered that there was a deficiency in previous crops, not only of corn, but of hay, which had to be made good; then it should also be recalled that not more than 7 per cent. of the whole crop is moved to market as corn. It is in the shape of pork, lard, cattle, whisky and glucose, that corn enters into the consumption of the country. Practically, therefore, the enormous crop of this cereal is consumed within the townships or counties where it grows. Indeed, were the whole two billions bushels, of last year's crop, to be moved by railroad, it would require double the railroad capacity of the whole country to do it, to the exclusion of all other freight. The good effects of the great corn yield of the past year will be felt, later on, by the additions it will make to the animal crop of the country. Another good corn crop this year would be a splendid thing, not only for the West, but for the whole nation.

The disposition for States to act separately or in groups apart from other States may set a precedent that will have far-reaching consequences. As the country grows the different sections will have diverse interests, and some constitutional machinery should be provided under which these groups of States could work together, provided that in so doing they did not interfere with other syndicates of States, if that term may be used. For example, the Pacific coast States may have matters vitally affecting them but of little or no interest to the rest of the country, and so with the manufacturing or cotton-growing States. By acting together they can direct the attention of Congress to specific remedies which they think would do them good. This would give flexibility to our institutions and perhaps prevent the disruption of the Union at some future time. Some day the United States will include all the country to the north as well as the islands to the south. Under our present working Constitution Congress cannot deal wisely with all our widely varied interests. Hence encouragement should be given to groups of Sates acting together for any common object.

In the last General Assembly in Illinois a bill was introduced prohibiting the sale of doctored liquor. As a correspondent puts it, "it fell by the wayside." Such measures usually do. Presumably it was slain by the liquor interest. This session the same bill has reappeared in the Senate, but in a very attenuated form; whisky having been removed from the operation of the act. Of course this cheats the very purpose of the measure, and renders it of very little value; for the quantity of whisky consumed is many times greater than that of the total of all other spirituous liquors. The probability is, however, that this bill, too, will be of more benefit to politicians than the public; but this should not prevent people recognizing what a valuable contribution the enactment of such a measure would be towards minimizing the liquor evil.

The total suppression of the liquor evil which many well intentioned persons are trying to compass means, of course, the extinction of one of the strongest of human appetites. It is little short of superstition, due to the pious belief in the efficacy of wax and parchment so prevalent nowadays, to suppose that this can be accomplished summarily by legislation. Legislation, indeed, may close certain avenues to the evil, but, like a dammed stream, it at once flows into other channels. Proof of this is furnished by Maine. All things considered, drunkenness in that State, to-day, in spite of total prohibition, is not much less than elsewhere. As to high license, the chief results are to make drink dearer and reduce the number of saloons, thus lessening temptation. This, no doubt, curtails drinking, though to what extent it is not easy to say. There can be no question, however, that a very great deal of the evil of drinking is due to the vile doctored stuff that passes for whisky, brandy and so forth. This is something within the experience of every one, and perhaps it would not be too much to say that the mental and physical harm done by bad drink is the greater part of all the evil done by liquor. It is not generally known that a heavy percentage of the spirits consumed in this country is almost tasteless, alcohol distilled from corn, the flavor and color of which are due solely to doctoring. The same stuff is made to represent whisky, brandy, gin, rum, or whatever may be required. We all know that spirits may be distilled from nearly everything in the vegetable world, but the true whisky flavor is natural only to the distillate obtained from barley. The spirit of rye also has a flavor specially its own, and the aim of the "compounder" is to give either of these flavors to the alcohol obtained from corn and cheaper grains. The odor, flavor and mellowness of the real article are thus obtained wholly by adulteration. There can be no doubt that it would conduce greatly to the moral and physical welfare of Society if the sale of a very great deal of this "doctored" drink was prohibited. A bill to this effect has as little chance of being adopted at once in this State as in Illinois; but this should not deter the friends of temperance from action. A practical reform measure of this kind would receive the support of a large class who will have nothing to do with prohibition or extreme measures of any sort.

One of the first things that would have to be decided in any movement against adulterated liquor is, what is adulteration? As a rule the materials used for "doctoring" are harmless enough, being burnt sugar, prune juice and substances of a like nature. The really objectionable article is the spirit itself, which usually contains much fusil oil, varying in amount according to the care taken in the distillation. This, as is well known, is the most obnoxious element to health in all spirituous drink; but how can a constituent part of an article be an adulteration? With true whisky, which improves with age and thus becomes more valuable the fusil oil is eliminated by keeping. It does not pay, however, to keep cologne spirits, and in the best quality the percentage of fusil oil is reduced by double distillation. Age is so important an element in the healthfulness of spirituous drink that immense benefit would accrue from a law prohibiting the sale of any liquor less than, say, three years old. Something might also be gained by compelling all spirits to be labelled and sold for what they are. Under pressure from the dairy interest we have an oleomargarine law; but we fancy it will require some agitation before legislators will see that the extension of the same principle to whisky is desirable.

According to Bradstreet's the strikes during the year 1888 were not so numerous as during 1887, and they involved fewer people. Last year there were, as reported, 697 strikes and lockouts, in which 211,841 employés were concerned, the average being 312 persons to each strike. In the year before last 884 strikes were recorded, with 345,584 employés, or an average of 390 men to each. This decrease, however, is not a subject for very great congratulation. When we find a cause existing which annually produces such suffering to the employés, loss to capitalists and inconvenience to the public, the important fact is, not that less suffering or inconvenience is a quarter more or a quarter less in amount, but that it exists at all. No good means have yet been found materially to reduce these evils. If they are more emphasized in one year than another it is a matter of accident, not of design. So long as employers are selfish, and employés foolish and reckless, strikes will continue to exist. No legislation can blot out either selfishness or recklessness, it can only protect the public against their effects. The most frequent device has been to establish State Boards of Arbitration. In Massachusetts, last year, such a board settled controversies in which were involved $1,000,000 in wages. The success of our New York State Board has not, however, been such as to place much confidence in this method of smoothing over the difficulty. Perhaps it might be better if the board were given a little more power. If the companies and the men could have been forced to submit the matter to arbitration a good many broken heads and good round dollars might have been saved.

Municipal Government Abroad.

Students of the history of the Constitutional Convention will remember the anecdote with which Benjamin Franklin began a letter, read at the close of the convention. A French lady, he said, once wrote to a friend, that curiously enough she had never found anybody who was always right about everything, except herself. The state of mind exemplified by the naive confession of this woman is by no means uncommon. We find it not only in persons, but in nations. The English have been and are still sadly afflicted with it; and in this respect the people of the United States are no better off than their progenitors. There is nothing so necessary as a little healthy cosmopolitanism. Independence is a good thing in its way, but not when it is made an excuse for intellectual narrowness. Experiments are being tried everywhere by governments on the people—experiments that all the world should watch and profit by.

Our readers will remember that, a few weeks back, we gave Glasgow as an illustration of what the municipality could do for its citizens by a wise supervision of public affairs. What was then said of Glasgow is largely true of other cities, both in England and on the Continent. The illustration of Birmingham is still more to the point, for in the case of Glasgow we had no information as to the change in the character of the governing body which must have preceded the change in its efficiency—a very important point for New Yorkers, who naturally do not like to put too much power into the hands of a body of politicians, who if not corrupt are, at all events, not over-zealous for the public good.

Eighteen or twenty years ago Birmingham was governed by a set of petty politicians in no way qualified for the offices they held. A number of disinterested young men started a reform movement and they speedily got the power into their own hands, and elaborated a systematic scheme for the improvement of municipal affairs. The city government, as represented by them, did not hesitate to assume functions which by some are thought to be better managed by private citizens. Two gas monopolies, which had supplied the citizens with an inferior and costly article, were bought out and consolidated into a department of the City Council. At present the cost to the consumers is from 58 to 62 cents per thousand feet, whereas in the United States, according to the figures of the American Economic Association, the average price of gas is over $1.75 per thousand. Even at this rate the profits of the department amounted to $96,135. Then the city has secured an unusually fine water supply; and at a cost of $8,000,000, what may be called the "Whitechapel" district of the town has been turned into a comfortable dwelling place by pulling down the old rookeries and erecting small houses for artizans in their place. It is expected that ultimately this will be a commercial as well as philanthropic success. A strict supervision is also exercised over the tramway companies. These corporations lease their tracks from the city and are permitted to run cars only under certain restrictions; such, for instance, as the requirement that everyone who pays for a seat must have one. This requirement, however, is not novel to Birmingham, being in vogue in nearly all the principal cities in Europe. As in NewYork, builders there have to submit to specified conditions regulating the height, strength, safety and sanitary arrangements of all houses; in short, whenever the interests of the public are threatened by the selfishness of man or corporations, the Birmingham municipal authorities step in to protect those interests.

No such effort could, of course, be successful unless its projectors were skillful, energetic, disinterested men. On no other condition could the authority necessary to bring about such reforms be placed in the hands of any body of public officials. Government action is not magical in effect like the sword of Harlequin, working wonders wherever it touches. As everyone must appreciate, its utility is conditioned strictly on the integrity and ability of the men in power. The greatest sore in our political organism is the dirty character of too many of our politicians. Compare our Board of Aldermen, with its plentiful supply of liquor dealers and ward bosses, to the London City Council, composed of such men as Lord Roseberry and Sir John Lubbock, or to the Berlin Assembly, which can number among its members scientists like Professors Virchow and Gueist.

Apropos of Berlin, it would be difficult to find a better example of good city government than that city. A visitor entering its limits cannot fail to be struck with its perfect pavements, fine new bridges and streets, its absolute cleanliness, and the absence of all signs of distress and poverty. The authorities are continually interfering with the private citizens in ways which would seem to be inadmissible to us. Not only do they operate the gas-works, deriving a handsome profit therefrom, but a city fire insurance office has been established, and a mortgage bank to lend money on real estate. Yet, in spite of all that is being and has been done by the municipal officials, and consequently in spite of all the opportunities for peculation and robbery, the debt of the city amounts to only $4,000,000, excluding the $36,000,000 due for water, gas, sewer works and other similar improvements.

Another circumstance that strikes one in looking over the organization of the city government is the large number of men that are required to carry on municipal affairs. Altogether over 10,000 citizens are engaged in this occupation. The Municipal Assembly consists of 126 experienced men. Its members are elected according to a curious system which we cannot explain here, and they in turn elect the Aldermen (corresponding to our city heads of departments) and the Mayor. To take care of the schools there are 87 local committees, upon which something like 1,300 citizens serve. And so it is all the way through. Residents of Berlin do not consider that the municipal authorities interfere, because they themselves are part of the authorities. Individual action is not so much limited as supplemented. The citizens have a proper civic pride, which is very greatly lacking in New Yorkers.

"But," it will be said, "what lesson do you draw from all this? It is very well to show what the foreign municipalities have done for their citizens. Would you have our municipalities attempt to do the same for us? We have no such men as Sir John Lubbock and Prof. Virchow taking part in our city affairs. We take no disinterested sons of prominent citizens to start and carry into effect reform movements. As you say, we lack civic pride. With us politicians are a class and politics a profession. The authorities interfere; they do not supplement."

We draw the following lesson from our examples. Undoubtedly it would not be wise, under the present conditions, to intrust too much power to our authorities. We could not afford to begin any wholesale scheme of reform. Caution must be used. If we have no Virchows or Roseberrys we at all events have plenty of honest men of the Hewitt stanp. Let such men have the power, and the ward politician will to a degree have his claws cut.. We can get good Mayors and consequently good heads of departments. Let them inaugurate the reforms and in all probability they will be efficiently carried out.

Many people are probably disgusted once every four years at the bustle and talk that the selection of a Cabinet calls forth. It seems to be a contradiction of the Democratic maxim that the office should seek the man rather than the man the office, when delegations are constantly stirring up the President-elect in favor of one candidate or another. Yet, undignified as all this appears, it is certainly necessary. An American President, different as he is in many ways from an English Prime Minister, is often a man of little experience in national political life. Grover Cleveland was in that position, and, though to a smaller extent, Harrison is at present. Yet he must select his Cabinet with due regard to the discordant interests and factions which go to make up the party. In order to do this equitably he is obliged to give a hearing to representatives of this candidate or that faction. Information is necessary; his personal friends may be biased, and since it is admitted that practically he must be governed in his choice by the state of party politics, it is right and necessary that this information should be sought and even volunteered. The fault lies, not with the President-elect, nor yet so much with the politicians, but with the tendencies of our system which bring uninformed men to the front, and leave them with nothing to do for four months but to make prominent politicians uneasy and prominent newspapers enterprising.

A great deal of unjust comment has been aroused over John Wanamaker's candidacy for a Cabinet position. It has been objected that the last thing a man ought to be selected to for such a place would be a contribution to the campaign funds. For our part we neither know nor pretend to know anything about the amount or the disposition made of Mr. Wanamaker's contributions. Yet we think it a little hard that because of these contributions attempts should be made to debar him from a position in the Cabinet. Undoubtedly it is a bad precedent to set to select a man merely because of campaign contributions; but, on the other hand, there can be no objection to choosing him in spite of such contributions. Mr. Wanamaker's reputation is that of an upright and honest man. In order to develop and maintain a business so large as his own he must be possessed of considerable executive ability and sound judgment—just what is needed in certain governmental departments, such as the Post-office. It is quite possible he may not have the requisite qualities, but he is far more likely to have them than a mere politician.

The Tower Building.

Such, according to the placard in front of it, is the name and style of a building that no passer on lower Broadway within the last few months can have failed to remark. It is also an accurate description, so far as it goes. In our view it would be a good thing, at least for architecture, if there were an effective prohibition against putting up an elevator building on less than two lots of ground, and even this is inadequate. With the height to which office buildings have now attained, an ordinary block is as short a frontage as a regard for the appearance of the business streets would dictate. The Produce Exchange and the Equitable building illustrates how much more effective a street bordered with buildings that have expanse as well as altitude would be than a street in which the lofty buildings are of small area and narrow frontage. Moreover, such large buildings are both more economical to construct and more economical to maintain than the small ones. The points of support occupy a smaller share of the total area of the building, and the service of a building on one lot is far more costly, in proportion, than that of a building which covers two or three lots. It might be wished that holders of adjoining property down town would consent to "pool their issues" without merging their separate titles, when they come to erect office-buildings. If this be impracticable they might at least provide for some degree of uniformity in the architectural treatment of their several structures.

Of course none of this is directly the affair of the architects, who, we may be sure, would rather have blocks than single lots to cover, and their work must be judged according to the problems actually given them to solve. When, as in the present case, an architect is required to erect, on an inside lot, an eleven-story building of only 20 feet frontage, the problem becomes interesting by reason of its difficulty. With a building five times as high as it is wide, or even more, any attempt to keep it down must necessarily fail. The attempt of the present designer has been quite in the opposite direction, to avow and even to exaggerate the height of the structure, to make the horizontal lines, in comparison with the vertical, of still less account than they must necessarily be, and to treat his structure as the tower it really is.

This view of the problem is entirely legitimate, and might result in a very interesting solution. In the present case the architect has separated his front vertically into three distinct divisions, which are strongly marked by a change of material in one case and by an emphatic horizontal line in the other. The lower division is of brown stone, and is apparently to contain four stories; the next, of brick in two colors, includes five, and the uppermost, also of brick, but in monochrome, contains two.

This general arrangement carries out well enough the motive of a towerlike front, and the division is natural and agreeable enough, though, perhaps, it would have been better to add to the importance of the shaft, the central division, by adding another story to it at the expense of the base. It is in detail that the work fails. The brown stone base is occupied by an archway running through three stories, and the fourth story, if it be the fourth, has two square openings covered with flat arches and entirely unmodelled. The treatment of this basement is meant to be extremely vigorous and massive. Massiveness is really out of the question, for the flanking piers are not visibly adequate to carry the superstructure, much less superabundantly adequate as massiveness would require. This is no fault of the designer, but his misfortune. It is not his misfortune that he has endeavored to make up in coarseness what he lacks in strength. The docile brown stone is rock-faced, as if it were an intractable granite, and laid in big blocks that are meant to look Cyclopean. The piers themselves are roughly hewn into the similitude of pillars, battering and crowned with a rude archaic suggestion of capitals. The arch is of large, rough voussoirs, with a rude molding at the intrados and extrados. The stones are cut and laid with an affected irregularity, which was doubtless meant to be picturesque, but is merely childish. The moldings are entwined at the crown into a huge true lover's knot, or other irrelevant complication, which, besides constituting a most ridiculous object in itself, weakens the arch. In fact the most noticeable thing about this basement, in spite of its vociferation, is its extreme feebleness. The arch has no visible abutment, and would therefore look weaker and not stronger, the bigger it was. But if the affectation of massiveness and the affectation of irregularity had not been indulged, if it had been built of large blocks, only moderately rough-faced and accurately laid, it would have been a respectable object, which it is at present very far from being.

The base is much the worst part of the building, though the superstructure is commendable only in comparison. The shaft of the tower was meant to look extremely solid, and its piers, which are continuous through the five stories, to take the place of the projecting strips that strengthen really solid towers, often with excellent effect, when the tower is monumental, or a mere means of reaching a height. As this is a commercial building and must have real windows, and not stair-lights simply, the piers do not count as strips nor as piers, but merely as elongated mullions. If there had been three openings instead of four in each story, they would have gained in importance and the front in dignity. The number actually used may have been dictated by the interior arrangement, but architecturally it is unfortunate. It was a mistake to build these piers or mullions of one brick and the piers flanking them of another. The effect is to diminish the apparent breadth of these flanking piers, which in any case is none too great, and if the two colors were used they should assuredly have been transposed, so that the stronger tint should frame the weaker.

The heavily moulded string course that marks the top of the division terminates in another knot of mouldings, equally preposterous with those below. The upper division, the belfry stage, continuing our analogy, should clearly have been the lightest and richest of the three. Instead, it is the solidest and the plainest, consisting of a lower story of three openings covered with flat arches, and an upper of four, round arched. This is all, except that at each end of the front there is a metal frame, apparently the nucleus of a tiled pinnacle. Upon the whole the "Tower building" is a good story spoiled in the telling, a motive capable of being effectively worked out rendered ineffective through crude and thoughtless detail.

Our Prophetic Department.

FOREIGN CRITIC—You Americans boast too much. You think you are ahead of the world in everything; but this is not true. Other civilized nations have outstripped you in many things, and instead of being in the van you are in the rear.

SIR ORACLE—I hope you will point out our shortcomings without fear and without favor. Our great material progress, and the certainty of our greatness in the future as a nation, have led to a spirit of self-glorification, in which we credit ourselves with achievements for which we have no real claim. Let us hear of some of our shortcomings.

F. C.—Well, take the matter of education. Once your Common School system was ahead of that of any other nation; now you are surpassed by Germany, Switzerland and other European countries—even France and England are gaining upon you, and will get ahead of you unless you wake up and see your deficiencies. Some sixteen persons in every hundred in the United States cannot read or write, while the number of illiterates in Germany is extremely small. Then nearly all the nations of Europe are ahead of you in technical education. Compare the splendid institutions of that kind across the water with the very few in this country, and the contrast is most discreditable to the great republic.

SIR O.—There is much truth in what you say; and we shall not see much improvement until the nation itself sees to it, that provision is made thoroughly to educate all its future citizens. But the astounding fact faces us, that it is the educated class which opposes the passage of the Blair bill, which aims to supplement the acknowledged defects of our State educational system by the direct intervention of the nation. There can be no thorough teaching of the people unless the whole community assumes the responsibility.

F. C.—Well, there are other matters in which you are behindhand. Take Civil Service Reform. This is an accomplished fact in all the foremost nations of the world; yet your purblind politicians cling to a spoils system of appointments on a par with those of semi-civilized States.

SIR O.—Again I plead guilty in behalf of my country; but the Civil Service Reform will be eventually carried through, and we are, I think, finally to adopt the Australian system of voting.

F. C.—There is another matter in which you are behind Great Britain and the Colonies. The ballot reform has been in vogue in Australia, New Zealand and England for a number of years, and the American public never even heard of it until Henry George called the attention of his followers to its merits about three years ago. From what I see I judge that after a bitter struggle between the machines and the reforms, the latter will win.

SIR O.—Continue your indictment.

F. C.—Well, there are the Torrens' land laws. They originated, as you know, in Australia, and had for their object the transfer of land from one person to another cheaply, expeditiously, and surely. In this country you can transfer stocks and bonds to any amount within a few hours at a trifling cost, and with an absolutely perfect title; but a change of the ownership of realty takes at least a month's time, is very costly, and a hundred things may vitiate your title. Now, while the British Colonies, the Kingdom of Prussia and several of the minor States of Europe have adopted the reformed "land laws," you Americans make no progress, because of the open and secret hostility of your rulers—the lawyers. Yet your exchanges show the value of cheap, expeditious and safe ways of doing business.

SIR O.—What you say is true enough. Do you find any other shortcomings in our institutions?

F. C.—Read Congressman Bryce's article in the North American Review, for February. See what an indictment he draws up against the working of your representative system. Congress does not meet usually until thirteen months after it is elected. In its second session about one-half the members of the House have been rejected at the polls; yet they keep on legislating just the same. Then the rules of the House are intended to stop all legislation. One objector can often kill a bill the whole country is clamoring for. Twenty filibusters can override the wishes of the 300 other members of the House. After a bill has passed the House it may be killed by the veto of one man, the President. Your Congress is not a representative body. If it was you would find among its members some of the prohibition party. The laboring people would have some of their champions among the debaters. Henry George has hundreds of thousands of voters who advocate the single tax ideas, but not a representative in the House. I am only repeating in an offhand way what is set down very forcibly in Congressman Bryce's article. I tell you there is trouble ahead for your country, unless you can in some way bring your political institutions into harmony with existing conditions.

Men and Things.

We are glad to see that Manager A. M. Palmer has, in response to the cabled protest of Mrs. Ward, given up his intention of producing Mr. Gillette's dramatization of "Robert Elsmere." The project was essentially petty and unwise. We should think that managers by this time would have been taught by the little success that the stage adaptations of "The Quick or the Dead" and "As In a Looking Glass" have had, that very few novels can stand the strain of dramatization, and that those that can stand it are not to be selected on grounds of whatever temporary popularity they may have. Very few of the stories of the present day deal with stirring actions and situations, rendered interesting by the emotions of the characters and the peculiar circumstances in which they are placed, and consequently very few of them are fit for stage representation. In a dramatic picture the lines should be few in number, bold in conception, stimulating in effect, whereas the strength of many of our most popular novels lies in the careful filling in and development of the situation. As Mrs. Ward says, a drama on "Robert Elsmere" could be rendered at all acceptable only by bringing into prominence comparatively unimportant circumstances in the development of her hero's character. In "Little Lord Fauntleroy" we have an example of both a good story and a good play, simply because the qualities that make the one interesting make the other equally so. But what can be done in this case cannot be done in all cases, as Miss Estelle Clayton and her manager have had reason to discover.

George Parsons Lathrop is out in a plea for less reserve in treating the passion of love in current literature. He thinks we have heretofore been too prudish, and art, therefore, have been fettered by a false sense of what is proper. It will be remembered that Edgar Fawcett, in defending Mrs. Chandler's "The Quick or the Dead," strongly condemned the conventional sense of propriety which took umbrage at the passionate outpourings of the writers of the realistic school. He predicted a change of front on the part of the popular writers of the age we live in. This will permit much of the license of speech which was permissible in the Elizabethan age and the times of Charles II.

In this connection it is worthy of note that the female writers make the boldest departures into the realms of erotocism. Mrs. Ella Wheeler Wilcox in her poetry, and Mrs. Chandler in her prose, have been far more pronounced than any male contemporary in the English language. We said some time ago that the fame and dollars these ladies had secured by their outspoken utterances would tempt other women into the same field, and so it has proved. A number of works of fiction by women have recently appeared, which deal boldly with the passion of love in its physical phases. A daily paper recently gave three columns to review one of these works. We do not care to give the name, because we do not wish to advertise that kind of literature; still it really seems as if this was to be a revival of nastiness under the name of realistic art. A theatre has just been opened in Paris in which plays are to be produced for "men only." It seems there are works in the Gaelic tongue which under no circumstances could be played to a French mixed audience, so they are performed before audiences from which even abandoned women are banished. Can it be possible that we are again to pass through an age of looseness of expression and lightness of action?

Our Italian Population.

The inquiry into the condition of a large section of the colored population of New York city, the result of which appeared in the RECORD AND GUIDE of the 26th ult., received considerable attention from the press and public men, and from so many of our readers, that it was felt that a similar inquiry into the condition of our Italian population would prove interesting. The main question held in view, though it is here and there diverged from, is—do Italians make good tenants, and is property wholly or largely inhabited by them a desirable purchase for either speculative holding or investment? Of course, several sources of information have been evoked. The views of the agent and banker are given with those of the Italian contractor of labor, and those of the priest with the officers of the Board of Health.

Messrs. James Kenny & Son, of No. 80 East Houston street, who have probably had more experience of Italian tenants than any other real estate agents or brokers in the city, said: "We have been in this neighborhood for nearly twenty years. We recollect the time when there were very few Italians around us. They first came here in large numbers at about the time of the panic in 1873, since when the large Italian immigration to this city has brought swarms of them into this section. Fifteen years ago we scarcely had any Italians in this locality. The "Italian quarter" may be said to be bounded by Chatham and Houston streets, the Bowery and Broadway. Previous to the arrival of the Italians there were a large number of vacant apartments in the tenements in that section. They were occupied by Americans, Germans and Irish. At that time it was difficult for us to rent more than eight or ten apartments out of a sixteen family house. But the influx of Italians created a better demand, and now there is little trouble to fill a tenement house.

"It has been stated that half the population hereabouts is Italian," ventured the reporter.

"Well, that is probably too high an estimate," was the reply. "They are thicker in one locality than they are in another. For instance, St. Patrick's parish is about one-third Italian. It is bounded by Hester, 4th, Eldridge and Wooster streets. From Chatham to 9th street about a third are Italian. On the other hand, let us take the most densely populated Italian district, which is on Mulberry, Mott, Bayard, Baxter and other streets, south of Hester to Chatham square. Here we have fully three-fifths of the population Italian. There are a few of the old New York families of the working and storekeeping class scattered amongst them, with a sprinkling of French, Irish, Germans, Hebrews and others."

"Do they pay their rents promptly?" asked the reporter.

"They make the best paying tenants on our books. They pay promptly, and generally comply with all the demands we make upon them."

"Do they keep their apartments in reasonably good condition?" asked the reporter.

"They do not; that is the only drawback. They are not at all desirable tenants in this regard. They are not clean, and don't use enough soap and water in scrubbing the floors, and they have little regard for sanitary conditions. Our greatest trouble with them is that we have the Board of Health after us all the time where we have Italian tenants, especially in the matter of overcrowding. This is one of their worst offences against the law. They crowd too many people into one bedroom. We prefer German and Irish tenants, for this reason principally: the latter keep their apartments in much better condition, and the Board of Health seldom troubles us on their account."

"From which class of tenants do you derive the greatest income, the Italian or German and Irish?"

"From the Italian," was the reply. "We get about 15 per cent. gross rental more. Many owners of property have been tempted by these higher rentals to turn out the Irish and other tenants in a building and put Italians in their place."

"Can you give me a specific illustration of that fact?" asked the reporter. "Suppose you take a tenement once occupied by the one nationality, and subsequently rented to others, so as to form an accurate judgment."

"Well," said Mr. Kenny, turning to the leaves of a ledger, "here is a five-story double tenement at No. — Mott street, with four families on each floor above the stores. The building was, some years ago, occupied by Irish, German and other families. It is now tenanted by Italians. The rents before and after are as follows:

and under the Italians $2,736, an increase of $408, or a little over 17½ per cent."

"But is your net rental larger under the Italians than under the old tenants?" asked the reporter.

"That is the point," said the agent. "Owners of property who have heard of the larger rents obtained from Italian tenants have been tempted into turning over their properties to them. It is a snare, for the net returns are no better. The Italians deface the walls, break the window sills, allow the sinks and closets to get choked up, break the plastering and do other damage to property to a much greater extent than the others. So that the running expenses, taking three or more years into consideration, are so high as to more than counterbalance, in most cases, the larger rents obtained."

"Can you cite an example of this?" asked the writer.

Here the agent turned to another volume, with the following result:

UNDER IRISH AND GERMANS.		UNDER ITALIANS.
No. — Hester street.	About	No. — Mulberry street.	About
Gross Annual Rents	$2,400	Gross Annual Rents	$2,900

Net Rental	$1,900	Net Rental	$1,800

"These are two tenements of about the same size, and as similar in every respect as any two on our books; yet it will be seen that it pays better by $100 per annum to have the Irish and German tenants, even though the rents from the Italians are $500 a year larger. Of course, this does not show itself the first year. For instance, take two tenements exactly alike, in two streets near each other. Let them be entirely renovated, spick and span. Put Germans and Irish in one and Italians in another. The first year you will get a larger net return on your money from the Italians. But look at your books in four or five years and you will find that the credit side will show in favor of the Germans and Irish, principally due to the item of renovation and repairs. When an Italian tenant moves or is dispossessed, the whole apartment has to be renovated if his family has occupied it for any length of time. You can see that is quite an item of expense. The German tenant, on the other hand, keeps his rooms neat and clean, and little or no expense is involved when a new tenant comes in after he leaves. Owners of property are finding this out, and the result is that almost every month we have orders to clean out the Italians and put in tenants belonging to other nationalities."

Another agent called on, said: "A great many Italians live up in Harlem east of 2d avenue, between 100th and 115th streets. They do this because they can get cheaper rents up that way. They have to pay $7.50 to $8.00 a month for two small rooms down town, where the demand is greater than the supply, while in Harlem they get the same accommodation for $4.50 to $5.50. A great many old buildings have been torn down in the older parts of the city. Between 9th street and Chambers street probably one hundred new factories and other large buildings have been built during the last nine or ten years. There are four or five on every block, and some of them, like the Puck building, occupy a number of lots. The Italians have kept up rents in the down-town tenements. But even if they were not there, the tenements could be rented, as there is a very large demand for living apartments down town anywhere below 23d street, and especially below 9th street, by people who are employed in the stores and factories south of those streets, and to whom it is important, especially where there are several workers in the family, to save the large item of car fares."

The Estate of Jacob Weekes, which has considerable property in the Italian quarter, was next visited: "We don't want any of them," said one of the executors, in a very positive tone. "They are an unclean lot of people, and we never take them unless we are forced to. We are satisfied with a much lower rent from a German or an Irishman. We have a few of them, but as a rule we don't want them at any price. The padrones are a curse to the Italians. There are property owners who lease out their property to these 'bosses,' as they are called by the tenants. They pay a lump sum to the owner, and they squeeze all the people they can in o the buildings they lease, which results in overcrowding and damage to property, with continual notices from the Board of Health and other annoyances."

Dr. Day, one of the Health Board physicians, was seen. He said: "The Italians are the greatest transgressors in the matter of overcrowding, though there are other nationalities who do it. They sleep too many in a room. When we find it out we make them reduce the number who occupy the sleeping apartment. One of the causes of overcrowding is that the Italian immigrants, upon their arrival here, make the houses of their friends and relatives their headquarters till they find something to do, or get a chance to go out West. I think they are generally moral, and our midnight inspections show that the overcrowding with families and lodgers is not of an improper character."

Major Bullard, of the Health Department, who has forty-five sanitary police inspectors in the thirty-nine districts under his charge, said: "The Sanitary Code now establishes 400 feet cubic space per head in sleeping chambers, whereas, under the bad sanitary conditions heretofore prevailing, 600 cubic feet was the minimum. The lodging houses are the most overcrowded, but under the rigorous system of night inspection they have improved. Contagious disease cannot now make much headway without quick discovery. President Bayles, controverting the statements as to the hardship of forcing lodging-house keepers to reduce their means of paying rents by limiting the number of occupants in a room, in his report to the Tenement House Commission, said: 'That overcrowding is not an economical necessity is shown by the fact that many proprietors have hired additional room to accommodate beds that they had been forced to remove. It is believed that the profits of the business are large, and that any lodging-house keeper can maintain his premises in excellent sanitary condition and still receive a fair return for his investment and the labor of superintendence.'"

"Can you give me an instance," asked the reporter, "where less than 400 cubic feet was found to be in a sleeping chamber?"

"Many," was the reply. "Take No. — East 102d street. We found that four adults and a child in one family, and two lodgers, were occupying rooms where there was only 388 cubic feet to each adult and 194 cubic feet for the child. We allow half of the adult space for an infant—that is, 200 feet. In the very same house, however, we found other bedrooms where there was 1,000 and 800 feet per adult, showing how diverse sometimes are the habits and circumstances of families in the same tenement. We have found cases where there were less than 300 cubic feet per adult."

"What is the character of the midnight inspection?" asked the reporter.

"We search the rooms where our officers suspect overcrowding, and in order not to inconvenience the people more than necessary we visit the room next morning and take a measurement. If the proper space is not there we serve a notice on the parties. In ten days we make another search to see if they have complied therewith. If they have not we warn them of arrest. We inspect again five days later, and if they persist in violating the law after the repeated warnings, they are arrested. The fines have varied from $10 to $75. We are more lenient in serving notices on families than we are on lodging-house keepers, as we recognize the harder conditions."

"Are diseases traceable to overcrowding?" asked the writer.

"Yes," said Major Bullard, "we know that diseases are created and diffused by people sleeping close together crowded into a small room."

Dr. Tracey, another official of the Health Board, was seen.

"Have you found more diseases emanate from tenements inhabited by Italians than from others?" asked the reporter.

"We have no definite data on the matter, but I have not noticed it. I think a large proportion of Italian children die of measles. This is due to overcrowding, as the cases are more difficult to isolate. We find a great many Italians engaged on scows that go out to sea to dump garbage, and they can be seen any day returning with their pitchforks on their backs and their boots covered with decomposed matter from these scows with a vile odor, and they are not particular about cleaning their shoes, but walk into the houses as they are."

A storekeeper in the Italian quarter said: "They are honest, industrious people. Have you ever seen an Italian beg? I never have. You never saw a drunken Italian woman yet and you very seldom see a drunken Italian. They drink stale beer sometimes and play cards on Sunday. They may swindle you, but if you trust them they consider it a great crime not to return the article or pay back the money."

Father Kearney, the well-known priest, who has worked among the Italians in St. Patrick's parish for nearly a generation, was seen. Father Kearney is greatly beloved by his people of all nationalities and is highly respected by the members of every religious denomination. The reporter was much impressed with the kindly simplicity of this devoted priest and with his touching allusions to the poor of his parish. "The moral condition of the Italian people," he said, "is undoubtedly good. As to overcrowding in tenements, I can say that this is only to be found amongst the very poor and ignorant amongst them. We have used our influence to stop the overcrowding, but we cannot do everything. We assist the Health authorities wherever we can. The people are very docile, even though they are quick-tempered. It is true they do not beg openly and one of the very few instances I recollect of it is when one night I was accosted for alms by a young man passing near Mulberry Bend. They do, however, accept clothing and other gifts privately or from the parish church. We contemplated purchasing Armory Hall, known as 'Billy McGlory's,' some time ago and turning it into a church, but a band of Italian priests came out here, who now number five, and they have taken up the good work, so that I am undecided whether I shall try to purchase the place or not. It is well adapted for a church, and if we should buy it we would accomplish the double purpose of destroying an evil and creating a good."

Capt. Wm. Meakim, of the Tenth Police Precinct, was seen.

"Does the Italian population in your precinct give you more trouble than the other nationalities under your superveillance," asked the reporter.

"I can't say so," replied the captain. "Once in a while they are troublesome, their greatest offence being in the use of the knife. We rarely have any arrests for drunkenness amongst them. But they are hot tempered, and they use the knife on small provocation. When these "cutting matches" take place we have difficulty in finding the offenders. If they have only five minutes start of the police, they get into friendly quarters where they are harbored, and every effort is made by the Italians to put us off the scent. They stick to each other through thick and thin, and only when the affair has blown over, by the payment of a money compensation to the wounded man or otherwise, do they allow us to know where the culprit is. Still, these stabbing cases don't so often occur, and they are rarer in my precinct than further north or south of it. The children of Italian parents, owing to their attending our public schools, with their better surrounding influences, are growing up a different set of people from their parents, and in time I expect we shall have very little of this knife-cutting business. Still, on the whole, they are no more trouble to us than the other population."

James March, of No. 119 Mulberry street, who is one of the largest and most intelligent of the contractors for Italian labor, was called upon. He has had as many as 2,100 men under his charge at a time, and, having come to this city when a child, is almost American in manner and bears little trace of his ancestry. He is one of the few Italians who has married an American. He said: "I contract for labor on the Erie Road, and on street railways, cellar excavations and other jobs. I supply the labor free of charge and obtain a small percentage from the laborer for obtaining work for him. I guarantee to supply the men with groceries and other necessities, charging them city prices. I give them fuel, kerosene and a few other articles free of charge, and when on railroad work I build shanties for them, about 60x180 in size, in which I house about 100 men, who have mattresses, bedding, etc., to keep them comfortable. They earn from $1.20 to $2.50 a day, and it costs them from $5 to $6 per month for board, their food consisting of bread, cheese, maccaroni, sausages, canned meats, etc. They cook their own meals. It is a peculiar characteristic of these laborers, and indeed of all Italians, that they save money, if ever so little.

They spend almost nothing beyond their necessities, and save anywhere from $20 to $25 a month. Some of them have wives in Italy and bring them over. A few return to their native land, but the majority remain here." Some of the laborers were subsequently questioned about March, and they all spoke very highly of "the boss," as they termed him, and gave the reporter to understand that March treated them well.

Banker A. Cuneo was next seen. Several workmen and storekeepers were standing at the cashier's window waiting to make deposits. The banker has been in New York for thirty-four years. He said: "They save money and deposit it with us in small amounts. Some of the accounts exceed $1,000, but the majority of them run from $10 to $200 and $300. When they save enough they generally go into business on their own account as fruit vendors, etc. They are all very industrious and saving, and many of them send money home to their wives and relatives through us."

Cyrille Carreau, the real estate agent, said: "I only accept Italian tenants of the better class, and I therefore have little trouble from the Board of Health. They are not clean, and I impress upon them when they rent an apartment that their tenancy is only conditional upon their keeping their houses in good sanitary condition. I find that this has a beneficial effect in most cases, But they are scrupulously honest. and very good rent payers." Mr. Carreau was of opinion that the tenants should be made responsible by the law for any violation of the sanitary laws due directly to their own wilfulness or negligence, and not the property-owners, and that if this were the case the sanitary condition of houses occupied by them would be much better, so saving expense to the owner and trouble to the Board of Health. This applies to tenants of every nationality.

The reporter ended up with a tour of inspection, in company with an intelligent young agent, through some of the best and worst kind of tenements in the Italian quarter. The experience was, on the whole, unsatisfactory. The first tenement visited was dark, dirty and unwholesome to the last degree. Every floor was seen, from the top to the bottom, and the living and sleeping rooms were all dark and in wretched condition, and with scarcely any ventilation to speak of. The next place visited had a rag-picking establishment in the rear, and the house was in a dilapidated condition. Another tenement had the closets in the yard in such a filthy condition that they were unfit for human beings to use. The reporter and agent were here accosted by a woman of doubtful reputation, an American, whose language and manner displayed considerable education and better days. She was living with an Italian, and there were several other women in the place. They all occupied the first floor of a rear tenement containing four rooms, for which they paid $10 per month. The rooms were dark and dingy and the walls and floors were filthy in the extreme. Some tenements on each side of the Board of Health's headquarters were inspected, and while they are better than the average, there is very little to be said in their favor. An hour's run through the noted "Mulberry Bend" would make most of our readers sick at heart. Children of tender years, some of them very pretty, were seen in the midst of the worst kind of squalor and in the most delapidated structures, and the writer felt that the destruction of this property and the creation of the new Mulberry Street Park could not come too soon. As an antidote the reporter asked the agent to show him some tenement occupied by Germans. He was taken to No. — Hester street. The contrast was a strong one. Here he found the entrance and halls neatly kept, and everything had an air of cleanliness. Two or three of the apartments were visited and the reporter was surprised and delighted with the order and cleanliness he discovered after the experience he had gone through. He found one occupant of this tenement who had been born there and lived in it all his life. He is now thirty-nine years old. He spoke to the aged mother of this man and to his wife, both of whom are nighly respectable. This family will leave there soon to go to Yonkers, where they say they can get cheaper rents and healthier homes. Another family had lived there thirty-six years. The reporter had heard this from the housekeeper and wanted to see the people personally to verify the story, at the same time being desirous of coming into personal contact with such a phenomenon as a thirty-nine years' tenant.

The Block System of Indexing.

Mr. Dwight H. Olmstead said to a representative of THE RECORD AND GUIDE that the bill authorizing the adoption of the block system of indexing, introduced into the Assembly by Mr. Hamilton, would not come up for consideration in its present form. As it is, the act provides not only for the indexing of future instruments, but also the reindexing of those already on record. The Register and Mayor have expressed a wish that this indexing should be postponed, so the present measure is to be split into two bills—one providing for re-indexing and the other for future indexing. There is some doubt about the former being passed this session, but the chances of the latter are good, because all opposing parties are pretty well agreed as to its desirability.

The Court of Appeals is expected to render an early decision as to the constitutionality of the acts giving the Arcade Railway Company power to construct their road under Broadway. A Special and General Term of the Supreme Court gave decisions in the company's favor, but O. B. Potter and other property owners carried the matter to the Court of Appeals. Melville C. Smith, manager of the company, yesterday said: "If we get a favorable decision we will commence work at once. The amount to complete the first section, $25,000,000, is assured. Levi P. Morton, Cornelius N. Bliss, John Claflin, Geo. S. Coe and other important men who are interested in our project, are sufficient guarantee as to our good faith. Now that the Metropolitan Transit Company's proposed elevated road on Broadway is killed by the recent decision of the Court of Appeals, there is no charter in existence, except that of the Arcade Railway, whereby rapid transit through the great business artery of New York city is possible. The overcrowding on the elevated railroad system, which has become unbearable, now makes our Arcade road an imperative necessity for the public convenience and welfare. We believe our road will, in a few years after it is built, almost double the value of Broadway property." The company has just signed a lease for an extensive suite of offices in the Mutual Life Insurance Company's building on Nassau street.

Real Estate Exchange Matters.

COMMITTEE ON LEGISLATION.

The usual weekly meeting of this committee took place on Tuesday, the attendance being the largest and the business more important than at any meeting this session. Wm. Reynolds Brown, who has just returned from Europe, occupied the chair, and amongst those present were: Messrs. Clifford Coddington, Francis M. Jencks, Charles A. Schermerhorn, Richard V. Harnett, Geo. De Forest Barton, Samuel F. Jayne, Andrew J. Robinson, John D. Crimmins, ex-Judge Myer S. Isaacs, E. T. Young, W. C. Orr, Henry J. Carr, John F. Doyle, Geo. S. Lespinasse, Marx Ottinger and Garrett Nagle.

Mr. Barton rose, in the absence of the chairman of the Committee on Taxation and Assessment, to report progress on Assembly bill No. 182, in regard to the regulation of the collection of unpaid taxes, which was finally referred, after some discussion, to the Committee on Pending Legislation. He also reported, on behalf of that committee, in favor of Assembly bill No. 175, upon the ground that "it would give the city of New York a representation upon the State Board of Assessors, with the Board of Assessors increased from three to five, one of which shall be taken from the county paying the largest amount of taxes."

Mr. Myers reported progress, on behalf of the last-named committee, on Assembly bill No. 238, which his committee will report upon at the next weekly meeting.

Mr. Robinson, on behalf of the Committee on Building and Mechanics' Lien Law, reported progress on the motion of Mr. Isaacs of two weeks ago, in reference to the advisability of making tenants responsible for the unsanitary condition of tenements or houses occupied by them due to their wilfulness or neglect, instead of making the landlord entirely responsible. He said the committee deemed it almost impracticable to make it a misdemeanor on the part of the tenants. The responsibility now rested on a limited number, whereas the change suggested would lead to a dispersion of the responsibility amongst a large number. There was also a doubt as to its constitutionality.

Mr. Isaacs rose to ask if the committee had consulted with the Board of Health on the matter, and asked whether the code of that department could not be amended so as to provide for tenants being made responsible as well as owners.

The committee will consult with the Health Department and report at the next meeting more fully.

Mr. Robinson rose to call attention to the fact that it was difficult to get sufficient members to work on the committees. Several members thereupon suggested that the Committee on Legislation should be added to, and Mr. Barton moved that the committee be increased from sixty to eighty members. The motion was adopted, power being given to the President of the Exchange, with the concurrence of the Board, to appoint the twenty additional members from the Exchange roll of membership.

Mr. Isaacs moved, in view of the importance of the reports of the various committees on legislation pending at Albany, that hereafter all such reports be forwarded to every member of the Senate and Assembly representing New York. Mr. Crimmins seconded this motion, stating that it would carry great weight at the State Capitol. A member suggested that it would be unwise to fritter away the influence of the Exchange by sending all such reports to the city legislators. Messrs. Schermerhorn, Jencks and others also spoke to the motion, which was finally carried.

A resolution was read from W. M. Greve, to the effect that New York and Brooklyn should be represented on the State Board of Assessors. No action was taken on the resolution, which was felt to be covered by the above report on Assembly bill No. 175.

A letter was read from J. C. Levi, calling attention to Assembly bills Nos. 158 and 238, in which he said: "If either of these bills goes on the statute book it will be a severe blow to metropolitan real estate. No money will be obtainable on mortgage loans at less than 6 per cent. and a bonus for A1 loans, and second-class loans will not be obtainable at all. The enormous amount of money that would be withdrawn from the market for mortgage loans would paralyze real estate operations in this city. Permit me to suggest that you keep a sharp eye on these measures."

Mr. Orr said that bill No. 238 was a repetition of the Brundage bill of last session in a worse form, "the Brundage bill out-Brundaged," and moved that a special committee of seven be appointed to go to Albany and oppose the bill at every stage.

Mr. Myers rose to state that the Committee on Taxation and Assessments would see that action of such a nature would be taken, upon which assurance Mr. Orr withdrew his motion.

Mr. Crimmins rose to speak in favor of Senator Ives' bill (No. 165), which amends the boundaries of the new parks beyond the Harlem. During the course of his remarks he took the committee by surprise by hinting that these boundaries had been created, not entirely for the public weal, but partly with a view to private interests. He said: "I speak with a full knowledge of the circumstances when I say that certain particular park boundaries were established within 200 feet of the property of some of the promoters of the bill creating those parks. I was a Commissioner of Parks at the time the movement was under way, and the parties did not take up a map from our department to ascertain what were the boundaries of the streets or roads up that way. Some of the valuations on the properties taken for the parks were given at double and treble the valuations of experts under oath. These cases are known to me, to you, and when they were spoken about it was said that the parties who owned the property contributed to the legislation which created the parks and ought to be benefited accordingly. For every dollar," continued Mr. Crimmins, "that they contributed beyond the bridge in taxes for the parks, we contributed $30 down this way."

Mr. Lespinasse moved that the further consideration of the bill be made a special order at next Tuesday's meeting. Carried.

Mr. Ottinger called attention to the inconvenience of the hour of meeting, so near the bank-closing hour, and moved that in future the committee meet at 3:30 P. M. instead of 3, which was carried. The meeting then adjourned.

The Exchange has rented the long-vacant basement of the Liberty street building at $1,200 per annum, for a dairy and lunch-room.

In view of the great crowd which will certainly attend the second Jones estate sale on Tuesday, would it not be wise for the Exchange to make arrangements for more room, so as to prevent the crush which took place at the last sale of property belonging to this estate? Why not have the auctioneer occupy the main rostrum and remove it to the extreme northern end of the salesroom, so that the crowd of bidders need not have to struggle to get in front of the auctioneer.

Samuel Benner's Predictions.

Samuel Benner's predictions, which attracted so much attention in our issue of January 12th, are now published in book form, together with a more precise prediction as to the prices of stocks, grains, iron, etc. The price of this well-bound and valuable book is $1, and it can be had at this office.

Legislation Affecting New York City.

ALBANY, February 15.

The present week has been the most uneventful one of the session thus far as respects the incubation or progress of legislation affecting the city of New York.

Among the very few bills of interest to New York property-holders introduced this week was one by Charles Smith in the Assembly. It gives the Fire Department authority to adopt, in its discretion, such suitable regulations as will compel owners of tenement houses, factories and other buildings which are more than two stories high, or above 75 feet in height above the curb level, and at any time occupied by more than twenty persons, to protect by closing on each floor interior air shafts and dumb waiter shafts, to prevent the spread of fires thereby.

A bill by Senator O'Connor authorizes the erection of an armory for the Thirteenth Regiment, at a cost to Kings County of not more than $150,000 for the site and $300,000 for the building.

The Assembly Committee on Banks favorably reported the Saturday Holiday bill in an amended form. As originally introduced, the bill provided for whole Saturday holidays in June, July, August and September, instead of the present half holidays. As reported, the bill provides for whole Saturdays in the months of July and August.

Among new bills introduced were these:

By Mr. Creamer—Permitting the Police Board, with the approval of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, to fix the salary of policemen acting as roundsmen at between $1,300 and $1,500.

By Mr. Mullaney—Providing that the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund shall have power to grant permission to do business in the city of New York, or over, under and in the public streets and parks, for the purpose of placing hot water, steam or gas pipes, pneumatic tubes, compressed air pipes, subways, conduits, cables or wires, or to erect poles for electric power wires, to any company. The proposals of persons or companies desiring franchises shall state the percentage of gross receipts which said company shall pay into the sinking fund semi-annually; also, the least sum which such gross receipts shall be guaranteed to be during the first three years, and shall be accompanied by a certified check equal to one-half the year's percentage, which shall in no event be less than $2,500.

Of the extremely limited number of bills of metropolitan character which have passed either House, were Mr. Wiley's, which relates to the service of notice of sale of lands by the Registrar of Arrears in Brooklyn; Mr. Hamilton's, confirming certain conveyances made by the municipal authorities; Mr. Connolly's, extending the jurisdiction of the Department of Parks over West End avenue; Mr. Blumenthal's old Harlem road release bill; and Senator Van Cott's bill, which permits the expenditure of $400,000 by the Parks Department for an addition to the Zoological Museum.

There was a joint hearing of the Railroad Committee on Wednesday on Mr. Hamilton's Cable Railroad bill, when a perfect cloud of lawyers appeared on the scene to favor or oppose the scheme. There are many indications that the bill will be favorably reported.

Mr. Blumenthal introduced into the Assembly a bill amending the law incorporating the New York Real Estate Guaranty Company, which was referred to the Judiciary Committee. The bill is important, as it widely extends the scope of the company's powers. It is given the power to search titles and guarantee their validity, and also the value of mortgages. It is further given power to buy, sell and rent property, and have general care of the same. It may receive money on deposit and make investments as agents on real estate, and receive commissions therefor. It may also act as fiscal or transfer agent of any State, municipality or corporation, and as trustee under any mortgage or bond issued by lawful authority, and to receive payment for such services.

Mr. Crosby put in a very long bill to revise, amend and consolidate the Department of Docks and provide the manner of acquiring private wharf property, and for the improvement of the water front.

A bill by Mr. Sperry prevents the construction of any electric railway on Brooklyn's Ocean Parkway.

Assembly bill No. 285, introduced by Mr. Hamilton, to provide for recording and indexing instruments affecting land in New York city according to city blocks or other limited areas, is very nearly the same as bill No. 180 introduced by the same gentleman early in the session. There are some changes in phraseology and greater liberty is given the commissioners in determining the number of books neccessary.

Mr. Crosby has introduced into the Assembly bill No. 279, which provided for a new municipal building in New York city, to be situated north of the avenue running through the City Hall Park. The Commissioners appointed to carry out the provisions of the bill are: the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, together with the Surrogate, the County Clerk and the Register. All the specific features of the building are left to the discretion of this commission.

Senate bill No. 223, introduced by Mr. Langbein, gives permission to the New York Historical Society to sell the real estate and buildings now held by them, and hold such other property as their book and archæological collections require. But the yearly income from this property must not amount to over $100,000.

Assembly bill No. 311, introduced by Mr. Smith, provides that the members of the Board of Education shall be appointed by the Mayor, so that each Assembly district shall have one representative in the board.

Another bill, introduced by Mr. Clark (No. 341), provides that the Comptroller shall publish, in the City Record, notices of the confirmation of assessments, warning all persons concerned that unless the money is paid within sixty days, interest will be collected on it.

Building Movements in Newark.

Mr. Isaac Townsend, the Superintendent of Buildings in Newark, said, in conversation with a representative of THE RECORD AND GUIDE, that the building trade of that city was never in better condition. In case the present movement should continue, 1889 would probably be the best year in the history of the city. During the month of January of the present year there have been 70 buildings projected, whereas in the same month last year there were only 46 plans filed. Most of the construction was taking place in three or four outer wards, and there were far more two or three-story frame dwellings being put up than any other kind of buildings. The following are figures of the department for the past three years.

The Elm Street Improvement.

The commission for the improvement of Elm street has held two meetings during the past week. At the first meeting a hearing was given to the representatives of the property-holders along the line of the proposed improvement, who seemed to be about equally divided for and against it. The second meeting of the Board was executive in its nature. Nothing of much importance was accomplished. A resolution was passed saying that it was the sense of the Board that at all events the street should not be widened below Broome street, and a committee was appointed to consider the desirability and prepare plans for alterations above that street to Lafayette place. As this meeting was only a preliminary one, it was not expected any action would be taken. Meanwhile the plans are being prepared and estimates made for that part of the improvement already partially decided upon. No meeting of the Board will take place in reference to the Elm street matter until these maps are made, which will take possibly three weeks.

Real Estate Department.

The market continues to show the strength noted last week and for some time past. The sales in the brokers' offices continue good, while the numerous inquiries for investment property show no signs of abatement. The figures of this week's recorded conveyances, as compared with the corresponding period last year, show an increase of 29 in number and $197,520 in amount. The sums of money loaned on bond and mortgage at less than 5 per cent. amounted to $1,122,700 this week, while it was but $227,000 in the same week last year, showing the continued cheapness of money. The prospects for building continue to look encouraging, the number of new structures for which plans were filed this week being 95, as against 52 last year, and their estimated cost $2,582,320, as against $642,600, an increase of over four times in amount. The sales at auction were fairly numerous this week, but on the whole unimportant. Next week, however, the principal sale of the season will take place, the second installment of the Jones estate property, which will draw together an immense crowd, and give the public—Wall street, of course, included—a chance to see how millions of dollars worth of real estate can be slumped upon the market without its budging one inch.

On Monday several sales were announced, but most of the properties were bought under foreclosure, while one was withdrawn and another adjourned.

On Tuesday about thirty parcels were offered by four auctioneers. The three-story residences at Nos. 77-81 West 118th street, with lot 60x100.11, was sold at $54,360 to Chas. S. Kendall. A tenement and small building in rear, on a lot 20.4x80, situate on the southwest corner of 2d avenue and 5th street, was purchased by Geo. S. Adrian for $31,000, which was considered a good figure. A piece of Canal street property, 25 x irregular, with an "L" running through to Orchard street, brought $43,600, M. Glucksman being the purchaser. Four lots on the northeast corner of 10th avenue and 78th street brought $36,350, the corner going for $13,100 and the inside lots at $7,500 each, T. Oliver Carter being the buyer. The same party secured six street lots adjoining at $6,900 each, but they have considerable rock on. Eight lots adjoining, restricted to private dwellings, were bought by Oppenheimer & Metzger at $9,000 each. Two well-known real estate operators considered that these lots sold below their value.

On Wednesday a number of properties were announced to be sold, but some of the offerings were adjourned sine die. The sales made were unimportant.

Thursday was about the busiest day of the week. The properties offered were distributed over the city, and comprised both vacant and improved property. The offerings which attracted most attention were those of the 5th avenue lots, between and on 88th and 89th streets. There were ten in all, and of these the northeast corner of 88th street was purchased by John B. Ireland for $39,000. The balance of the avenue front was secured by Broker V. K. Stevenson for Russell Sage, the well-known railroad magnate, the six inside lots going for $20,000 each, and the southeast corner of 89th street at $27,075. Miss J. Douglas, who was at the stand to bid on her own account, obtained the two street lots adjoining the front for $11,450 each. The prices were considered by an old real estate auctioneer as being very low, his expectation being that the corners would bring $34,000, the inside lots $22,000, and the street lots $15,000 each. Amongst the other parcels offered was the four-story brick building at No. 296 Pearl street, with lot 25x84.10 and 85.8, which was purchased by A. Lazansky for $25,200. Other properties were knocked down to the plaintiffs or adjourned sine die. Among the sales of the day were three flats on 88th street, west of Park avenue, which were knocked down to M. E. Ryan at $59,075.

On Friday little business was done. Six lots on 159th street, east of the Boulevard, were bought by the plaintiff for $30,000, and a tenement and stable (both leasehold) at No. 47 West 42d street and 58 West 43d street were knocked down to the plaintiff at $20,100. Four flats on the northwest corner of the Boulevard and 88th street were knocked down to the plaintiff for $70,000.

On Monday next, the 18th inst., Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell the three-story modern residence No. 131 West 95th street.

On Tuesday, February 19th, Jere. Johnson, Jr., will sell at the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange, No. 393 Fulton street, Brooklyn, 324 lots in the 24th Ward of that city, and other valuable improved property belonging to the estate of the late Henry Parfitt. Easy terms are announced.

On Tuesday next, February 19th, A. H. Muller & Son. will conduct one of the most important sales of the season, another large part of the property to be sold belonging to the estate of the late Joshua Jones. This comprises valuable business and investment properties on Broadway, Bowery, Maiden lane and Coenties slip; Fulton, Chambers, Warren, Hudson, Canal, Franklin, Reade, Thomas, Liberty, Duane, Washington, Water, South, Front, Cherry and Renwick streets, and four vacant lots on the southeast corner of 9th avenue and 75th street, as well as the well-known Jones' suburban mansion and grounds on Richmond Terrace, Staten Island, overlooking the Bay and Narrows. This sale places more down-town business property on the market at one stroke than has taken place for many years. It is a splendid opportunity for investors.

On Wednesday, the 20th inst., Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell, by order of the Supreme Court in partition: The three-story brick warehouse, covering the plot, running through and covering Nos. 311 and 312 West street and 516 and 518 Washington street, and the two brick buildings and lots at Nos. 1 and 1½ Charlton street. On the same day Mr. Harnett will sell the house and lot at No. 82 Forsyth street; the four-story residence at No. 45 West 22d street; the building and lot on the southwest corner of Coenties slip and Water street, and the following Brooklyn properties: The three-story brown stone front houses at Nos. 687 and 689 Greene avenue, and the handsome residence, stable and ground, covering 83.3x100, at No. 139 Keap street, which is to be sold by order of the executors of the late D. K. Hall.

On Wednesday, February 20th, E. H. Ludlow & Co. will sell the following valuable business and residence properties: The four-story brick buildings on a deep plot at Nos. 43, 45 and 47 Broad street, within a stone's throw of the Stock Exchange; the four-story 27-foot front residence at No. 13 West 22d street, and the four-story house with two-story butler's pantry extension, at No. 106 East 61st street, all of which are to be sold by order of the executors of the late Walter F. Brush.

On Thursday, February 21st, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell the five houses on the northeast corner of Madison avenue and 78th street, on which the Equitable Life Assurance Society has 6 per cent. mortgages. The properties will be sold under foreclosure by Supreme Court orders.

On Thursday, February 21st, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell the four-story residence No. 19 East 83d street.

On Thursday, February 21st, V. K. Stevenson & Co. will sell the following valuable properties: The four-story and basement building at No. 114 2d avenue, between 6th and 7th streets; the three four-story stores and apartments at Nos. 713 to 717 Greenwich street; the four-story and basement building No. 122 Pearl street, running through to 86 Water street, and two gores on Worth street, near Chatham square. These properties are to be sold by order of the heirs of Francis T. Luqueer.

On Thursday, February 21st, the well-known property belonging to the Lynch estate will be offered at auction by A. H. Muller & Son. It comprises 105 lots on 8th and Edgecombe avenues, 155th, 156th, 157th, 159th, River and Exterior streets. The property faces the new boundaries of the High Bridge Park and is near the terminus of the 6th and 9th avenue elevated roads at 155th street and 8th avenue. The whole front of the property, as well as the whole of Exterior street, has had new bulkheads built along it, and in connection with the Harlem River Ship Canal, which will soon join the North and East Rivers, the water front will be of great value in the future. The tiles are guaranteed.

On Tuesday, February 26th, A. H. Muller & Son will sell the valuable investment parcels at No. 33 East Broadway, Nos. 343, 343½ and 345 Water street and Nos. 181 and 182 South street. These properties are to be sold by order of the executor of the late Joseph N. Lord, and 60 per cent. may remain on bond and mortgage at 4½ per cent.

On Tuesday, February 26th, Brown and Leviness will sell one of the most valuable down-town properties to be offered at auction during the next two weeks. It consists of Nos. 64 and 66 Wall street, with buildings thereon, nearly opposite the United States Custom House. It is a peremptory sale, and will offer the rare opportunity of obtaining a parcel in the greatest money centre of this continent.

On Thursday, February 28th, Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell the four-story dwelling with extension at No. 117 East 17th street, near Union square, capable of being changed for business uses.

The Tower building, which is now nearly completed, is being rented by Messrs. Folsom Bros. The building is said to be thoroughly fire-proof, and as it has a front on New street (Nos. 41 and 43) as well as at No. 50 Broadway, it is adapted for stock brokers, lawyers and others in business down town. The rents range from $300 upwards, and the offices will be ready for tenancy on May 1st.

They also do carpentering work in all its branches, and are, therefore, well fitted to put in, as well as to supply, the woodwork of houses.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—Trade in a wholesale way is of necessity moderate; first, because the wintry condition of the weather tends to retard consumption somewhat, and second, because the same influence has effectually shut off the main source of supply by closing navigation on the Hudson. The general condition of the market, however, is firm, and advantages remain almost wholly with the seller, who, while not exacting, can now dictate terms with great authority, and on a reasonable basis buyers generally deem it judicious to submit. The supply from the river that was afloat here last week was all sold out, the last at $8.50 per M, and some Long Islands since received brought $8.00 per M, with a little stiffer tone now talked of, and the Jerseys went at relatively proportionate rates. Altogether the situation seems in good form at present, and we find expressions cheerful on the part of both receivers and dealers, with no anticipation that any great break will take place in the demand beyond such as may arise through weather influences, and they can only be temporary, while supplies do not promise to pan out very large until navigation is fully resumed; and even then it is believed the amount available will prove small owing to the open winter and the free shipments that have been made. Latest showings on quality were not over fine. Pales have not stiffened much in value since our last, but there is no excess of offering, and the chances are that a very little addition to the call would compel the payment of higher rates.

LATH.—Deals in first hand lots have again been restricted by the paucity of supply, and the only chance for negotiation was on parcels to arrive. These have commanded very full bids, and indeed realized the suggestion previously made, bringing the rate up to $2.50 per M, and while under certain conditions it was refused temporarily, the chances are that sellers will rest satisfied at that figure. Indeed, the high price has already had the effect predicted and started supplies forward from the interior by rail, with more to come if required.

LIME.—The demand has continued very good and it is a well-preserved market, with the principal receivers taking a firm view of the situation. There is believed to be no danger of arrivals full enough to cause an accumulation so long as nothing interferes with deliveries, as most dealers appear ready to negotiate in stock to fill up the space made vacant by the free winter consumption. A few additional cargoes have come to hand this week.

LUMBER.—There is no great variation in the general line of reports over the conditions of the distributive trade. Business is not uniform in all parts of the city, for that matter it rarely is, but numerous dealers call themselves pretty active and nearly all admit to have done rather more trade since the first of the year than for the corresponding period last season, and there is no abatement in the expressions of belief that in due time a further improvement will be secured. In the matter of values it is as usual a simple impossibility to give any really clear idea of retail figures, but there has been no development of a favorable character for buyers and in many cases the natural tendency would have been upward. Toward first hand offerings the inquiry is not directed with any special force as yet, but nevertheless in one way or another dealers are manifesting an increased measure of interest, especially toward supplies that are likely to be delivered early, though a few contracts have been made for special lots of standard goods that will not be completed until well into the summer months. From pretty much all primary points the accounts at hand indicate a pretty good degree of confidence among holders and an indisposition to hurry business.

Eastern Spruce seems to be considered by most operators as in too well supported position to be readily moved for some little time to come. It is not likely the market would absorb any unusual quantity of stock without causing sellers some difficulty and possibly leading to concessions, but such a contingency is hardly a possibility it is claimed at this season, and even should it arise could only be temporary, for there is scarcely a doubt, according to the reports of most receivers, that yard stocks are much reduced, both across the bridge and in this city, with our local dealers particularly short on large sizes. There are the usual seasonable reports from sources of supply, and they are received and commented upon with what may be considered seasonable indifference.

Piling continues to be held with steadiness and confidence, and owners assert that there will not be much unsold, and probably a considerable amount delivered by the time open season gets here, and as future supplies depend upon sail transportation no danger of an overstock is thought to exist.

Hemlock is certainly looked upon favorably by sellers, but as before noted sufficient conservatism prevails to restrain if possible any tendency to over confidence. Not that there is a basis for anyone to expect a "boom," but those who have by hard work and good management for several years brought this class of wood into more general favor now seem to fear that the status that they have established may be taken advantage of by operators who had no hand in forming it to unduly inflate values, and then deliver undesirable stuff to the detriment of the entire trade.

White Pine appears to be spoken of in quite a cheerful manner by many of the principal operators who handle it in various ways for distribution, and now and then a casual remark from experienced agents who are canvassing the market for pointers leads to the belief that they are favorably impressed with the outlook as compared with last season, and very positively so as regards box boards. It is, however, a little early to be over sanguine, and while no desire is felt to retard improving tendencies in any way, now and then those who are ordinarily careful observers suggest that White Pine does not occupy the same independent position as in former years, and that all calculations upon the future must embody an allowance for competitive woods. The prospects for supply are somewhat uncertain, but no one seems to apprehend a scarcity.

Yellow Pine holds its own very well, and the tone of the market appears to be about as healthy and promising as for some time past. The regular call from dealers keeps up to a fair average, and there is also considerable attention given to f. o. b. orders, as well as specials for later delivery. Indeed, there is reason to believe that of the latter some very nice bills have been placed, but, as usual, particulars are closely and carefully guarded. Advices from primary points continue cheerful and indicate full valuations, with an intimation that the Southern combination inspection rules will be generally insisted upon this season.

Carolina Pine is getting a fair increase of attention naturally, and, with some operators rather inclined to push it, the business is on the whole reasonably full. Those who urge sales of course have to make some sacrifice in the matter of value, but old-established operators not drumming trade adhere to a pretty steady line price on all standard qualities.

Hardwoods show no positive change since our last report. One dealer, with both a local and out-of-town trade, said he was distributing "all kinds" of stock, but, as a rule, operators are very apt to have some sort of special trade that will relieve them of one or two descriptions of wood in preference to others of quite as popular quality. Walnut still fails to receive much encouragement from home sources, and has no natural open domestic market that will move all qualities. Cherry has plenty of friends, but desirable goods are too scarce and costly to be dealt in freely. Both the above-mentioned grades are finding a strong competition in mahogany, which promises well for the present season. Poplar is quite as much in favor as ever, and, while there seems to be a certain amount of irregularity on values, first-class stock tends to harden in price, if anything. Ash seems to be in favor, but there is said to be very fair offerings and only very desirable stock, say 14 and 16-foot is likely to gain in price if there be any gain at all. Most other hardwoods may be considered about steady,

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

Sufficient evidence has come from the different markets this week to show that there has lately been an increased stir in the lumber trade at large. The incoming of February has been marked by a revival of inquiry and movement. Receipts of white pine have augumented at that point lately, the disposition being to put in stocks in the faith that the demand will be heavy. The favorable condition of the poplar market recently noted continues. The demand is good, at higher average prices in the East and West alike. The unfavorable condition of the ground for moving logs in the States north of the Ohio River, on account of the absence of frost, has restricted the input of hardwood logs and the markets are beginning to feel this influence in the strengthening of prices. The hardwood lumber trade has been fair all winter, while the prospects for the months to come is brightening.

AT THE YARDS:—Dealers note the sharp call for 2x4 and 22-foot joists. The scarcity of the last named is a complete flop-about from the condition of previous years. If there was once a length of dimension that the dealers despised it was 22-foot 2x8, 2x10 and 2x12. They would turn up their noses at it on the market, and use it with which to club the commission men. Now they want all they can get of it. The flat building on narrow lots, and the combination store and flats, has brought in a new demand for such lengths of joists.

And the following editorially:

It is worth while to take notice of the relative cut of the mills for 1887 and 1888 in the leading white pine districts, so far as developed by the returns already made to the Lumberman, as well as the comparative stock on hand for the two years. In Saginaw valley there was cut in 1888 876,800,087 feet, and there was on hand at a late date 358,087,861 feet. In 1887 the cut was 766,375,696 feet, and 339,565,951 was carried over into January. Thus, though over 100,000,000 more was cut in 1888 than in 1887, there was nearly 20,000,000 less on hand with which to start this year's trade. This shows well for last season's distribution.

The Huron shore product in 1888 was 621,689,053 as compared to 555,255,730 in 1887, while the excess on hand this year was but about 3,500,000. Thus sales on that shore last year exceeded those of the year previous over 60,000,000 feet. In the Manistee district the mills in 1888 turned out 962,850,261 feet as compared to 758,328,176 in 1887, but here also the demand got away with the surplus and a little more.

In the Ludington district the product and distribution for the two years were so nearly even that the difference is not worth mentioning.

The output on Muskegon Lake in 1887 was 665,149,621 feet and in 1888 it was 626,588,455, while there was less on hand at the close of 1888 by something over 13,000,000 than there was in 1887.

On the Mackinaw division of the Michigan Centra

there was much less on hand at last year's close than in the year previous, and the like was probably true of the other stocks on the railroads of lower Michigan.

Thus it can be seen that, as respects the lower peninsula of the State from which the figures have been derived, the indications are that, though the mill product of 1888 was considerably larger than it was in 1887, the amount carried over was somewhat less. Certainly this representation shows that the actual demand for lumber lest year was large by comparison with that of the previous year, despite the loud and prolonged grumbling that came from Eastern dealers. Some of the causes of the heavy movement of stocks from Eastern and Western Michigan last year was the putting in of large stocks at Tonawanda, the growth of the car load trade in the Saginaw valley, and the enormous filling up of yards, with increased distribution in this city. Verily the white pine trade in the lake districts still shows strapping proportions and exceedingly good health, while there are no signs that it will peter out for years to come.

The Timberman of Chicago says:

With the mercury at ten below zero, and from 4 to 7 inches of fresh snow in the region bounded by the St. Croix River on the west, and by the Tomahawk on the east, and added to this the positive assurances of the veracious and eminently respectable ground-hog, the lumbermen in upper Wisconsin are all having a picnic. The contractors on the Indian reservations, too, are in clover, and are again rushing operations since the expected modification of Commissioner Oberly's order suspending work. While the reservation operators have sustained some loss by the stoppage of work, it does not now appear that any of them will have been seriously embarrassed by the order in the long run.

Reliable figures from all parts of that district indicate that with the close of the present week about 240,000,000 feet will have been banked this logging season on Chippewa waters, the projected cut being about 600,000,000 feet. This, on the face of the returns, shows a net result very much smaller than that accomplished at this date last season, but the scales are balanced by the fact that of the 360,000,000 yet to be banked this season, a very large proportion had been cut and skidded some time ago, while the weather was so unusually favorable for that kind of work, and the bulk of the work of the remainder of the season will be banking.

The St. Croix region, which has been very unfortunate this season, now reports a good fall of snow. The activity throughout the pineries is unprecedented, and a good log crop is now an assured thing. The despondency of the earlier part of the winter has consequently given way to a firmer tone and greater activity in all classes of business.

And as follows on Chicago hardwood trade:

The increase in demand for all grades of hardwood lumber has been a gradual and sure-footed clamber into a very healthy condition. There has not been all through the winter months anything like the usual mid-winter dull spell. The dealers feel that the winter is too near gone for anything of the kind to occur now in the few weeks that interpose between the present date and the usual time for spring trade to begin.

Well manufactured red oak, first and seconds, has the call at from $22 to $24 per M. Choice lots of strictly clear red oak step-planks would sell for $26 per M or thereabouts, but there is evidently but little of this class of lumber to be had, and what the manufacturer might consider clear stock and worth $26 would perhaps fall short of that degree of excellence in the view of the city inspector, so the shipper should be satisfied to get the limit quoted in the subjoined quotations.

Thick ash is in demand, especially the three and four-inch stock. For the best grades of thick ash the wholesalers will pay about $28 per thousand, but the stock must be uncommonly good to bring that much. For the average grade of good ash that is now reaching this market an average of about $27 per thousand is being paid. Firsts and seconds butternut is in good request at from $20 to $32. Cull butternut is quoted at $20 to $22 per thousand, but the wholesalers do not want a stick of it at any price. Birch of a grade suitable for inside finish is not very plenty, and shippers would do well to consign it in liberal quantities. There is no change in the demand for the better grades of walnut and cherry, and not much doing in walnut. Good cherry is always in demand.

Many of the recent consignments of all grades of hardwood lumber show a prodigality and recklessness in the manufacture which should be corrected. Tree owners have evidently "fa med out" their lumber cutting to mill owners at so much per thousand feet of cut lumber. This has resulted in a slashing up of logs in a way which will lose money for all concerned, with the exception of the sawmill man. Logs are cut straight through, when to cant them two or three times, would leave out defects which remaining spoil the grade of each board.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman has issued its annual report of the white pine lumber product of Minnesota, Western Wisconsin and the Mississippi Valley. It covers practically all the lumber producing points west and south of the Wisconsin Valley and the Wisconsin Central Railway, together with the Soo Railroad from its eastern extremity to Minneapolis. The figures show that there was a net increase in the production in the territory covered of 486,965,762 feet of lumber and 203,928,682 shingles. It is not possible to state the relative production of lath, because no previous attempt has been made to keep track of this element in the lumber trade. Nearly one-half, or 190,307,222 feet, of this increase in production occurred at and above Minneapolis. There was an increase of more than 100,000,000 in the St. Croix Valley and in the Ashland district, so that nearly 300,000,000 of the added supply of lumber can be traced to these three named districts.

In its market report the same journal says:

There is a steady increase in the volume of trade in both St. Paul and Minneapolis. The buyers who have been in the market the past week have placed some of their orders, and it has been a long time since February opened up with as good a demand for lumber as has prevailed during the past week.

The stock of lumber in pile in Minneapolis now does not far exceed 220,000,000 feet. This stock will probably be reduced below 200,000,000 by the middle of March, and that is an ordinary supply for that date. But no one anticipates that there will be a very material increase in the price of lumber unless spring should be ushered in earlier than usual and the logging season cut short. If the break up should occur as early as the first of March it would undoubtedly exert a considerable influence upon the market even though stocks are ample at every point. In this market there is a good assortment, and almost any kind of an order can be filled. Some of the dealers with winter mill connections find that there is a good demand for bill stuff.

ENGLAND.

The London Timber Trades Journal as follows:

American Black Walnut.—Nothing was done at the sale on Wednesday, except in the case of the unreserved lots; for these there was plenty of competition at improved prices. We understand some important sales have been made by private contract. Arrivals of both logs and cut stuff have again been coming in pretty freely.

American Whitewood.—In the case of the unreserved lots in Wednesday's catalogue, the logs generally sold well, but the board stuff, which was mostly offered without reserve, at a minimum, did not attract much attention.

American Oak.—Stocks of lumber are accumulating, but there is evidently no disposition on the part of shippers to press sales, as they feel confident that prices will advance. There can be no doubt that for some time past the result of the sales has been unremunerative to the importers.

American Satin Walnut.—There seems to be a little more doing in this if we may judge by the result of the sale this week, when most of the unreserved lots sold well.

Sequoia.—A large quantity of prime planks was offered on Wednesday, but there being no buyers present the broker withdrew the parcel, from which, however, several lots had been sold before the auction.

And also from report of recent auction sale:

After disposing of divers unreserved lots Mr. Sim came to the American red gum or satin walnut, which, although offered as the only parcel in England, failed to raise a bidder beyond 1s. 5d. per foot cube; the price it was held at, and the sequoia or Californian redwood shared the same fate.

METALS.—COPPER—Ingot has an irregular and generally uncertain sort of market, with valuations only nominal. Rumor is busy at first announcing the weakening of the syndicate and then claiming for it greater strength than ever, but there is no tendency to speculate on the stories. As near as can be guessed, about 16½c@17c for Lake are present valuations. Manufactured copper has fair and indeed a slightly improved demand, if anything, and retains steady value for pretty much all grades. We quote as follows: Sheets, not above 30x72 in., 16 oz. and over, 25c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 26c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 23c.; do, 10 to 12 oz, 28c.; do, 8 to 10 oz, 38c.; do, under 8 oz, 28@33c. Sheets longer than 72 inches add 1c. for 12@14 oz, 2c. for 10@12 oz, and 3c. for 8@10 oz. Sheets, not above 36x96 in., 16 oz and over, 25c.; do, 16 to 32 oz, 25c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 27c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 29c.; do, 10 to 12 oz, 33c.; do, 8 to 10 oz, 36c. Sheets longer than 96 inches add 1c. for under 16 oz; and 2c. for 8 to 10 oz. Sheets, not above 48x96, 32 to 64 oz, 22@25c.; do, 16 to 32 oz, 27@30c.; do, 14 to 16 oz, 32c.; do, 12 to 14 oz, 37c. Sheets 60x93 and over, 25@26c.; for 33 to 64 oz. and over, 30@31c.; for 16 to 32 oz. —@—. All bath tub sheets, per lb., 16 oz, 28c.; 4 oz, 30c.; 12 oz, 32c.; and 10 oz, 35c. Bolt copper, ⅜ inch diameter and over, 25c. Circles, 60 diameter and less, 3c. above price of sheets of same thickness; circles, 60 to 96 do do, 5c. do; circles, 96 do and over, 6c. do. Segment and pattern sheets, 3c. above price of sheets required to cut them from. Cold or hard rolled copper, 1c. per lb. above the foregoing prices. Copper bottom, 26@31c. per lb. IRON—Scotch Pig in moderate invoices finds a fair sort of sale, but shows no special degree of animation. Arrivals, however, are not full, and that gives importers an opportunity to maintain pretty steady rates. We quote at $19.00@$20.50 per ton, according to brand, delivery, etc. American Pig has been more active in general demand and slightly easier rates, and one leading company placed 30,000 tons with pipemakers at $15.25 for grey forge, a few outside lots going a fraction lower. There has, however, been no special effort to realize on good brands of iron, and agents generally express themselves as satisfied with present and prospective conditions of the market. We quote at $17.50@18.00 per ton for No. 1 X foundry; $16.50@17.00 for No. 2 X do.; and $15.00@15.50 for Gray Forge. Old material has, in a few instances, met with a little more demand, with one or two pretty good-sized lots of rails changing hands. Prices in consequence ruled about steady, and sellers resorted to no pressure to realize. We quote at about $23.00@24.00 for old rails; $20.00@20.50 for No. 1 wrought scrap; $15.00@16.00 for cast scrap, and $18.50@18.50 for car wheels. Steel rails under a continued slow and uncertain demand have lost somewhat on valuation since our last report, and the market generally presented a dull tone. Most of the leading manufacturers, however, have fair orders and resort to no pressure for the purpose of realizing. Quoted about $26.50@27.00 per ton standard section at the mills. Manufactured iron without much animation, or any new features worthy of special note. Supplies generally appear fair We quote Common Merchant Bar, ordinary sizes, at 2.00@2.10c. from store, and refined at 2.20@2.50c.; Rods, round and square, 2.30@2.40c.; Bands, 2.40@2.50c.; Norway Nail Rods, 4@5c., and domestic sheet on the basis of 2.75@2.80c. for common Nos. 10@16. Other descriptions at corresponding prices, with 1-10c. less on large lots from cars. LEAD—Domestic Pig has been offered in quantity sufficient for all wants of the market and generally kept upon a comparatively easy plane of valuation, especially for actual consumers. One or two good-sized contracts have been made with regular buyers. We quote at 3.75@3.80c., as to quality. The manufactures of lead are quoted: Bar, 5c.; pipe, 6c.; sheet, 6¾c., less the usual discount to the trade; and tin-lined pipe, 15c.; block tin pipe, 45c., on same terms. TIN—Pig sold considerably higher soon after our last report but the demand was not lasting or supporting and a reaction in value followed in consequence. We quote at about 21½@21¼c. for round lots and 21¼@21⅜c. for jobbing parcels. Tin plates have not secured much attention from operators in futures and with regular trade wants light the market was pretty dull. Slight irregularities in price mostly favored the buyer. We quote prices as follows: 1, C. Charcoal, ½ cross assortment, Melyn grades, $5.35@5.40, each additional X add $1.50; I. C. Charcoal, ½ cross assortment, Allaway grade, $4.75@4.80, each additional X add $1; Charcoal terne, M. F. grade, 14x20, $6.60@6.65; M. F. grade, 20x28, $13.25@13.30; Worcester, 14x20, $4.60@4.62½; Worcester, 20x28, $9.20@9.25; Deane grade, 14x20, $4.20@4.25; Dean grade, 20x28, $8.40@8.50; Allaway grade, 14x20, $4.05@4.07½; Allaway grade, 20x28, $8.10@8.20; I. C. Coke, B. V. grade, $4.20@4.22½; J. B. grade, 14x20, $4.30@4.35; I. C. Bessemer steel, squares, $4.65 basis; I. C. Siemens steel, squares, $4.70 Spelter after some unusually heavy deals has quieted down again but the position of the market is stronger and the offerings more careful generally. We quote at $4.95@5.00⅝, according to quality.

NAILS.—Demand keeps within ordinary channels and cannot be said to promise any great increase for the present. There is, however, an impression that more stock will be consumed than last year, and with any important expansion of the outlet is also naturally hoped that values will harden. We quote at $1.80@1.90 per keg for car lots, and $1.95@2.00 do. from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Business is fair, more active if anything, and the tone of the market quite as cheerful and promising as expected. It looks as though, taking a lesson from consumers, importers and manufacturers were adjusting supplies as closely to ordinary average wants as safety would seem to dictate, and, of course, leading to rather small accumulation in first hands, yet there is no scarcity, and only an improbable sudden expansion of the outlet would make it difficult to meet buyers. Prices generally firm. Linseed Oil selling fairly, with closing prices standing at $57@57½c. for Western and 58@59c. for City. Spirits Turpentine has been moderately active and about steady at 47@47½c. per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—Business moves along slowly and without significant feature beyond the ability to holders to maintain a steady valuation, and prevent any apparent surplus of stock. We quote Pitch at $1.25@1.50 per bbl.; Tar at $2.00@2.20, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

VOL. XLIII. FEBRUARY 23, 1889. No. 1,093

The January boom showed itself in the bond market this year and was followed in February by an upward movement in stocks. Not, indeed, along the whole line, but in groups of securities and specialties located in the States east of the Mississippi. Grangers and the Southwestern stocks declined, and have kept back the general market. The past week has been a trying one to the speculators, due to the uncertainty of the presidents of the roads west of the Mississippi coming to a common understanding. Nor is it likely that a complete agreement will soon be reached. There are, however, several factors which ought to help the market. Since the first of January railroad returns show a handsome increase over last year. The lines east of the Mississippi River are in perfect accord and maintain rates without any trouble. Then money is easy, though it is probable that the next five weeks will see a better demand for call and time loans.

The general business of the country is not in very good shape—for coal, iron and steel are depressed. The outlook in the stock market is somewhat dubious. Bonds and good stocks are selling pretty high in view of the dividends they pay. Then money will be in greater demand within the next few weeks, and we shall certainly ship some gold. Fortunately there is no immediate danger of foreign war, and hence Europe will probably continue to purchase our securities. In view of the uncertainties of the situation, we think the prudent capitalist who converts his stocks and bonds into money will find himself better off by June 1st than if he loads up with even good securities at present prices. In other words, we believe the time is not very distant when a lower range of values will be established. Still there may be spurts of activity and higher prices in the interim.

The sale on Tuesday of the balance of the realty belonging to the estate of the late Joshua Jones proved a great success. Exceptionally high prices were realized for the various parcels and the competition was sharp throughout the sale. A total of $2,102,200 was realized, against $1,907,800 realized at the November sale of part of the same estate. There was a great difference, however, in the two sales. On Tuesday there was no great excitement, because it was generally believed that good prices would be realized and the market maintained, whereas in November, when so much vacant property was offered, there was doubt and uncertainty as to how the market would be affected. Both sales have been great successes, and it is a matter for congratulation that such a fine showing was made.

The Lynch estate sale on Thursday did not prove the success anticipated by the owners. A total of over $225,670 was realized for the lots sold, which is about 25 per cent. less than the value placed thereon by experts, and, what is still more astonishing, about the same percentage less than was offered for the lots at private contract. For instance, $69,800 was realized for two 8th avenue fronts, for which $90,000 cash was bid immediately before the sale. These lots seem to have brought as much less as the Jones estate parcels brought more than was expected.

Senate bill No. 182, of which Assembly bill No. 385 is a copy, is about as offensive a piece of legislation as has been proposed at Albany for some time. It authorizes the Department of Public Parks, with the concurrence of the Sinking Fund Commissioners, to exclude from the areas of the parks in the 23d and 24th Wards and the adjacent districts in Westchester County as much land as they may consider proper; while the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund are to sell or lease this excluded property upon whatever terms please them. What is the object of this move? After years of agitation and opposition the city has just acquired these new parks, and to anyone not acquainted with the promoters of the two bills the true reason of their existence must seem obscure. The idea of a city, perhaps the most poorly provided with parks in the world, selling its newly-acquired property, to say the least, is astounding, and requires some more cogent reason than is forthcoming in this case. The fact is, these two bills are simply the renewal of the old opposition that contested the establishment of the parks. These measures are not in the least for the public welfare, and they cannot be too peremptorily put down. The Legislative Committee of the Real Estate Exchange, at the meeting this week, gave its approval to bill No. 231, a measure emanating from the same source as bills 182 and 385; but it is to be hoped that no such mistake will be made when the latter are brought up for consideration next Tuesday.

The recklessness of statements permitted in the daily press these days is disgraceful. Of anything approaching to careful editing there is little trace. A statement, which has been widely copied, appeared lately, throwing doubt on the wisdom of the government in spending large sums of money for making and experimenting in the manufacture of large guns for naval purposes. The writer stated that the life of a big gun is about 200 rounds, and that after that number has been fired the weapon is practically worthless, the rifling being destroyed and accuracy of aim impossible. Common sense alone should have questioned an assertion of this kind. The writer, whoever he was, got hold of the wrong end of a fact. The life of a big gun, far from being ended, has scarcely commenced at the two-hundredth round. There are guns in the French and English naval services ten, fifteen and twenty years old, the efficiency of which is not in the least impaired, though nearer to 2,000 than to 200 shots have been fired from them. So far as the rifling of a gun is concerned it is subject to very little wear, for the shot itself does not move through it as in the case of a small rifle. The weak spot in a big gun is the hardened copper vent which passes vertically through the interior jackets to the chamber and by means of which the powder is ignited. The interior opening of the vent is subject to corrosion; and if this is permitted to go very far it extends between the jackets, and in time destroys the gun. To prevent this a rule exists in most of the navies that the vent shall be tested after a certain number of rounds have been fired. In the English navy the number is one hundred. If the vent is found to be sound, the gun is passed for another hundred rounds; if not, a new vent is put in. This, however, is a small matter of a precautionary nature, and only crass ignorance could construe it as meaning the ruin of the weapon. After twenty years of inactivity, during which millions upon millions have been shamefully squandered without any visible return, a serious effort is now being made to give us a navy competent to at least protect our enormous and rapidly growing interests at home and abroad. It is only fair to demand that, as this effort is of such importance, any criticism the authorities are subjected to should be well grounded and reasonable. The new armored and unarmored war vessels now building or recently completed are to be armed with six, eight, ten and twelve-inch guns, the last named being about forty-eight tons, and adverse criticism might have such an effect in Congress that the action of the government would be hampered and so delayed that for some time to come we should have a navy as useless as ever in case of an emergency.

Hitherto the only public baths New York has had have been those which lay at various points on the East and Hudson Rivers. If, however, the bill introduced by Senator Cantor passes the Legislature, the poor of New York may hope in the future to have better opportunities to keep clean. It is quite obvious that in their own homes, bath-tubs are none too numerous, and that they should have better chances in both summer and winter to use soap if they want to. It is proposed that the new bath-house shall be situated in Essex Market. The premises are also to contain facilities for poor washerwomen to laundry their clothes at small expense. This experiment has long been tried in England and on the Continent, and the results have been satisfactory.

The foreign trade of this country last year, excluding gold and silver coin and bullion, was more than seven million dollars less than in 1887, the decrease in exports being $23,523,597, and the increase in imports $16,384,011. Those who hold to the peculiar idea that the more a nation exports and the less it imports the richer it is becoming will not consider the year's trade satisfactory; for this increase in imports and decrease in exports was accompanied by an excess of imports over exports amounting to $33,425,042. This is contrary to the usual course of our foreign trade. For years past we have sent abroad between $100,000,000 and $200,000,000 worth of merchandise and specie more than we have received. Between 1874 and 1886 alone the excess of exports amounted to a total of about $1,670,000,000, and granting that a portion of this may be accounted for by the undervaluation of imports it still leaves a vast sum which on any "balance of trade" theory must be regarded as a dead loss, for no one imagines that the foreigner owes us that amount and is waiting his convenience for a settlement. Apart from the figures which may or may not truly represent the exact state of our commerce, we may safely conclude that this country is not giving away or extending credit to foreigners to anything like the amount of a billion and a-half.

The excess of our exports have gone to pay the interest on foreign investments in this country, the expenditure of summer tourists, etc. It is worth noting, as running counter to the popular idea, that as a rule the wealthy countries of the world are larger importers than exporters. British imports are about $49 per capita and the exports less than $30. In France the ratio between imports and exports is as five to four. Belgium imports 2,662,715 thousands of francs worth of goods and exports 2,512,122 thousands of francs worth. Holland, a rich country for its size, imports from fifty to one hundred million dollars worth more of merchandise than it exports. Denmark, Italy, Switzerland are also importing nations. Russia, however, exports more than it imports; so does Mexico, Peru, Germany, Austria-Hungary, Guatemala, and most of the Central and South American republics.

President-elect Harrison undoubtedly obeys the wishes of a large part of the Republican party in making James G. Blaine his Secretary of State. It looks, indeed, as if Mr. Blaine's influence would be paramount in the new Cabinet. The Democratic and Mugwump papers have already opened fire on the new administration because of Blaine; but is this quite fair? Should not President Harrison have a chance to show of what metal he is made. Mr. Blaine is confessedly a man of rare ability, and he ought not to be condemned until he does something calling for criticism. Let us wait and see before condemning the new administration. Whitelaw Reid is said to be booked for the English mission. It would be an excellent appointment. Anyone, who has seen Mr. Reid preside at a Lotus Club banquet will bear witness to his tact and discretion as a public orator. He would shine at the dinners and social festivities at which he would take part in London.

The opposition papers take a great deal of comfort in berating ex-Senator Thomas C. Platt. This was to be expected. Any successful political boss is sure to be roundly abused, no matter how conscientiously he may discharge his duties. It is said he is disgruntled at not obtaining a Cabinet position, and that he will make war on the administration. If he does, that will be the end of him. He will be powerless against a collected wielding of the patronage of the Federal government. But Mr. Platt does show one weakness—he aspires to hold offices of trust and honor himself. A really first-class political leader wields power and bestows patronage; but never holds office. Recall the careers of Thurlow Weed, Dean Richmond, Daniel Manning, Hugh McLaughlin, Peter B. Sweeny. True, Manning at the end of his career accepted the position of Secretary of the Treasury, but he ceased to be a political boss for doing so. Sweeny's acceptance of a public position was his ruin. Platt will certainly come to grief if he tries to use the position he has achieved to foist himself into office.

The annual political effort to do "a little something" for the police makes its appearance this year in the Assembly in the guise of Mr. Creamer's bill, which gives permission to the Police Board to increase the salary of roundsmen to between $1,300 and $1,500. Roundsmen at present are receiving $1,200. From a political point of view their services might be worth more; but we doubt whether there is any labor in the market better paid, considering the amount and the character of the work done. Generosity of this kind at the public expense for political effect should be summarily disposed of.

A bill has been introduced into the New Jersey Legislature for the purpose of reforming the present methods of making and managing important roads in that State. The duty is no longer to be left to little towns with no sense of public responsibility and no realization of what their true interests are. The Boards of Freeholders of the various counties are to take the matter in hand. Each board is to have a map made of all the roadways in its district, and the larger ones are to be selected for maintenance and improvement at county expense. The necessary money is to be raised either by a tax of 1 per cent. of the assessed value of taxable property in the county, or, if necessary, by the issue of county bonds. What is still more important, the freeholders are empowered to employ a competent engineer to inspect the roads, and to recommend and superintend improvements. Experience has long since demonstrated the necessity of this reform. The practice of leaving in the hands of the farmers along the road the care of their particular sections puts a public duty in the hands of men who, when not negligent, are often ignorant and incapable. Good roads are necessary to the county and should be sustained by it.

The growth of the Australian system in public favor throughout the country has been rapid. Such is the interest in the subject that, according to Mr. Wigmore, a Boston lawyer who has devoted much time to its consideration, there have been received in the past four months one hundred applications from States and Territories in all parts of the Union asking for copies of the Massachusetts law, or any other pertinent material. Bills have been passed by the Legislatures in three States—Massachusetts, Kentucky and New York, though in the case of New York it was subsequently vetoed—while others are under consideration in twenty-six States and Territories. It is safe to say that it will be adopted before three years are out over two-thirds of the Union. It is just such large facts as these that speak hopefully for the country's future. Within their sphere politicians may have power, but their sphere is limited.

Whatever may be said about the power of politicians in this country to check legislation adverse to their own interests, it is proved very clearly by the spread of ballot reform legislation all over the country that when public opinion is thoroughly aroused upon a certain point this power of theirs counts for little. As a class politicians have been opposed to any such reform. They have not dared to come out against the principle it represents; but in every case some objection could be found to the particular bill in which the principle was embodied. We do not wish to imply by this that politicians have taken this position because they find bribery a part of their profession, but it is certainly a suspicious fact that the class on whom the imputation of corruption must fall is the same class which, as a general thing, has opposed the most effective means to prevent corruption that has yet been devised.

The Policy of Objection.

There are several matters of the utmost importance to the growth and welfare of this city which for years have required action in the most pressing way. The improvement of rapid transit facilities is one of these. It has been the subject of numerous schemes, bills in the Legislature, articles in the press, reports from commissions and committees, and simply an enormous amount of public and private talk. The result is that we are about as far from action or any solution of the difficulty as we were when the problem first arose. In the first place, not a single fact has been settled. The only fruits of this endless palaver is a useless muddle of opinion. Whether the city needs an elevated or an underground road; whether a line should be under Broadway or over it, or along it or on it at all; whether it should run through blocks or over them; lie on the east or the west side of the city, or both; be operated by steam or electricity—are all unsettled points, as much in question to-day as if they had never received a moment's consideration. Is there to be no end to this policy of talk until the present wretchedly inadequate system of transportation breaks down under the strain on it, and we reach a position when the choice will be between action and chaos? The old course is evidently still believed in, for the Real Estate Exchange only recently appointed another committee of inquiry to discuss and investigate and propose.

In a difficulty of this kind the Mayor should be a very natura person for the city to turn to for assistance. He has the public ear the influence of position, and a certain amount of authority. When the official character and ability of Mayor Hewitt became known it was very generally expected that at last something would be done to at least improve the present means of transit, if not to establish something fully adequate to the needs and growth of the city. Hopes were disappointed, however, for the Mayor settled down to what may be called a policy of "obstinate objection," and he continued it with splendid pertinacity to the end of his term of office. Every scheme proposed was admirably criticised; every trivial defect clearly set forth. What splendid industry and watchfulness! What a thorough appreciation of the city's needs! But how profitless!

And now will Mayor Grant adopt the same policy? It is too early yet to pass judgment with fairness. His first contribution of importance to the transit difficulty is—an objection. After several days' labor it was brought forth, and on Monday was sent to Albany. It deals with the cable railroad scheme, a bill to revive which has been introduced into the Assembly by Mr. Hamilton.

The Mayor has evidently been at great pains to show (1) that the bill is unconstitutional; (2) that it gives the company much wider authority than appears on the face of the measure; (3) that the proposed payment of 5 per cent. of the gross receipts to the city is not sufficient.

Suppose we grant all this: that the bill is unconstitutional and deceptive, and gives away a valuable franchise for an inadequate compensation—important as the action of the Mayor is, it is after all only a negative contribution to a deplorable difficulty; and, unfortunately, these negative contributions are all we have received from first to last from the municipal authorities. It is more than time that it were recognized that this negative policy is almost as bad as no policy. Another course should be taken at once, and as the action of the city officials is of very great importance in the matter a change of policy on their part would be of the utmost value. Let the city state what it does consider constitutional; what rights, if granted to a corporation, it would not oppose; what contribution to the municipal treasury it would consider adequate; what thoroughfares in its opinion might be used by cable, steam or electric roads; and if a complete statement cannot be made on all these points, let us have a partial one, but as full as possible. If this were done the public would know something; and the limits of the permissible, at least so far as the municipal authorities are concerned, would be discernible. When the city has a policy, a scheme may be forthcoming that will fit it. Just at present we have nothing—neither policy nor acceptable scheme, unless the Arcade road be such.

Electric Lighting by Municipalities.

The entrance of municipalities into the field of electric lighting is the latest form in which the advantages derived from city control of certain public works have been made manifest. The movement thus far has been confined principally to the smaller cities, although the larger cities, as Chicago and Detroit, are beginning to recognize that the element of size is not necessarily a bar to their entrance upon the same course. Reports from twenty-two cities, which own and operate their own electric lighting plants, show that in each individual case the plan has worked satisfactorily. Definite information received from eighteen of these cities regarding the net cost of light per night for each arc light is presented here:

Aurora, Ill	15.3 cents	Lyons, Ia	8.2 cents
Bay City, Mich	16. "	Madison, Ind	16. "
Champaign, Ill	12.3 "	Michigan City, Ind	12. "
Chicago, Ill	15. "	Painesville, Ohio	10.6 "
Decatur, Ill	13.7 "	Paris, Ill	10.4 "
Dunkirk, N. Y	13 5 "	Portsmouth Ohio	10. "
Easton, Pa	27.3 "	Topeka, Kansas	20. "
Grand Ledge, Mich	1.8 "	Ypsilanti, Mich	11.2 "
Huntington, Ind	13.7 "
Lewiston, Maine	14. "	Average cost per night	13.4 cents

It is seen that, of these eighteen cities, seven are able to furnish their own electric light at a cost of twelve cents or under for each arc light of 2,000 candle-power per night, nine at a cost of between twelve and sixteen cents per night, and two at a cost of above sixteen cents. The low net cost in Lyons, Ia., and in Grand Ledge, Mich., is due to the fact that these cities own and operate commercial wires from which they derive a profit. The full significance of these statistics is revealed when a comparison is made between the cost of the same light under private and municipal control. Fortunately a comparsion can be made, as five of these cities previous to assuming control of their own works were supplied with light by private companies. The cost of each arc light per night under both systems of control is given here in tabular form:

	Private.	City.
Bay City, Michigan	27.5 cents.	16. cents.
Painesville, Ohio	19.7 "	10.6 "
Huntingdon, Indiana	39. "	13.7 "
Lewiston, Maine	50. "	14. "
Aurora, Illinois	89.5 "	15.3 "
Average per night	45.1 cents.	13.9 cents.

To make these statistics accurate, it should be stated that in Lewiston, under private control, the lights burned only half the night. It is seen from these figures that in five cities the minimum saving which follows the change from private to public ownership and management of electric lighting plants was nearly one-half, and the maximum saving nearly five-sixths of the former charge.

Nor is the cost per light in these instances of private control cited, exceptional. Returns from twenty-five cities, which are supplied with light by private corporations, give forty-two cents as the average cost per light, or only three cents less than the average cost for the five cities mentioned. The commonly accepted belief that municipalities cannot operate their own electric lighting plants and other works of a similar nature so economically as can private enterprise is shown by these examples to have no foundation whatever in practice.

These statistics do not introduce any new principle for municipal action, but only emphasize what has already been demonstrated a thousand times by experiment, that certain pursuits which are from their very nature monopolies cannot be efficiently administered by private corporations. Every time two gas or electric lighting companies consolidate the truth of this statement is verified. The most economical system for supplying electric lights is obviously that by which the citizens of a city or of a given district are supplied by one central plant; provided, that is, the system is so held in check that the cost to the community will not exceed the running expenses of the plant plus a reasonable profit. It is clear that no one plant can be operated with regard for the economic interests of the people in a given district under private control. City councils recognize this fact when they encourage rival companies to enter the same field. But they fail to perceive that a duplication or multiplication of engines, dynamos, lines, linemen, engineers, superintendents, etc., for the purpose of competition, where one plant can supply the demand, is only a dead weight upon the consumers which must be borne in the shape of increased cost of lights. Competition between private companies may cause a temporary spasmodic fluctuation in the cost of light to the consumer, but on account of the limited number of companies that can enter the field of electric lighting at any one time, free and natural competition is excluded and consolidation is made possible. Consolidation is not always confined to cities which have two or more electric lighting plants; very often a gas company and an electric lighting company find it advantageous to combine and raise the price of both gas and electric light. When the city supplies its own light, but one plant is necessary to each district. It is by adopting this principle that the city of Chicago is able to furnish its own light in certain districts for fifteen cents per light a night, including interest on the investment, while New York is paying thirty-three cents and Boston sixty-five cents to private corporations for the same service.

The existence of but one plant in a district, and that under municipal control, simplifies administration and tends to purify our city politics. Any entanglement of public and private interests promotes corruption in the city government, which must react upon the community as a whole. This, as well as other matters relating to municipal control of public works, is fully treated in Ely's "Problems of To-Day," a work to which we have taken occasion to refer a number of times in our columns. This tendency to promote corruption is seen in every city where the electric lighting, gas supply or similar public work is delegated to private corporations. It is noticed that these light companies take a special interest in city elections. Stocks are distributed where they will do the most good. So strongly do these corporations become intrenched in private interests, that it is well-nigh impossible for the consumers to receive light at a reasonable price or for the city to obtain control of the works. A councilman who burns free light is not over-zealous in his opposition to a system which furnishes him with this convenience, no matter how much the community, whose interests he is supposed to represent, may suffer. Any slight move in the direction of ownership by the city is met with bitter opposition from existing private companies, and in more than one instance our "city fathers" come out of the fight with their pockets lined.

The movement at present in favor of municipal control of electric lights is certainly encouraging. In Detroit, Mich., Allegheny, Pa., and Philadelphia, as well as in a number of smaller cities, a change to this system has been under consideration for some time. Chicago has demonstrated its practicability by furnishing itself with light at a cost far below what it paid to private corporations. St. Louis is now making a vigorous effort to obtain control of the gas supply, which, if successful, will lead to the control also of the electric lighting. The latest move has been made by Boston, in which city the Board of Aldermen have ordered an investigation to be made into the advantages of ownership and operation by the city of both gas and electric lights.

An Imaginary Conversation.

PARTICIPANTS:

JAY GOULD, MELVILLE D. SMITH,
CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW, MAYOR HUGH J. GRANT,
MR. KNICKERBOCKER.

MR. KNICKERBOCKER—Gentlemen, I have called you together to-day to discuss the important matter of rapid transit. It seems to me that you four men can do more to give New York swifter communication, between both ends of the city, than any thousand men that could be named outside of this meeting.

MAYOR GRANT—I have been turning this matter over in my mind, and consulting engineers and others as to the best plan.

MR. K.—Now, Mr. Mayor, do not let us waste words or time. It' is absurd to talk about any new plans. We must utilize the "L' roads, so they can carry more trains and cut down the time between the Battery and the Harlem River. Then we must try to get some agreement between the Central Road and the owners of the Arcade charter, so as to establish speedy communication on solid earth between the Battery and 42d street, the route being under the surface of Broadway and 4th avenue.

MR. DEPEW—That reminds me of a little story—

MR. K.—We have no time for stories—they are well enough after dinner. I want you gentlemen to understand that I propose to do the most talking to-day.

MR. SMITH—The Arcade plan is a magnificent one—

MR. K.—Stop just there, Mr. Smith. You could talk on that theme for ten years without stopping. I am taking for granted that the Court of Appeals will decide in favor of your company, Now, I don't know whether you have money to commence work or not. You have a very costly job on hand, and it will take ten years at least to build an Arcade road under Broadway from the Battery to the upper end of the island. But we want rapid transit on solid earth, and in five years if possible. Now, by arrangement with the Central Road you could open a portion of the line on Broadway and complete your magnificent plans afterwards.

JAY GOULD—But why not utilize the Manhattan tracks? Were we authorized to build an additional track on 3d and 6th avenues, we could in a little over a year greatly abridge the through time between the Battery and the Harlem River; in fact, we have this third track partially built on both the 3d and 6th avenues.

MAYOR GRANT—But see what a row the press would make, and how angry the public would be if the Manhattan Company were to get any more privileges without paying for them.

JAY GOULD—But how can we afford to pay with the enormous amount of damage suits against us? We charge only five cents a fare when we have a right to charge ten cents, and even as high as fifteen cents on the west side. Although this road has benefited New York enormously, and although we have added untold millions to the taxes of valuable city property, yet we are being punished; and what damages we will have to pay Heaven only knows.

MR. K.—Mr. Gould is quite right. The Manhattan Company has been of great benefit to New York, and it can give us somewhat swifter transit than we now have. With a third track on the east side the Harlem River could be reached from the Battery in half an hour and thus vastly more people could be carried. If arrangements could be made it would seem to me to be wise to widen Elm street and allow the Manhattan Company to erect an elevated structure on that thoroughfare as well as one on the Boulevard. If the city protected the company from damage claims, Mr. Gould and his friends could afford to "come down handsomely" to the city treasury.

MR. DEPEW—Mr. Gould seems to be silent. He would like extra privileges for the Manhattan Road; but I think he would prefer to get them for nothing. I am on record as opposing an underground road from 42d street down. I should prefer the extension to be an elevated structure. Former Central managers were willing to build from 42d street to the Battery. Indeed, Commodore Vanderbilt had the plans made and was about to go on with the work, when such an insane clamor was raised by the press he gave the matter up in disgust. William H. Vanderbilt was at one time also willing to undertake this work; but he also was bulldozed by the cry of "monopoly." At least 200,000 people are living in Brooklyn and Jersey City to-day who would have stayed in New York and helped pay the taxes had Commodore Vanderbilt or his son's plans been carried out; that is, we might have had rapid transit from the Harlem to the Battery five years ago.

MAYOR GRANT—I am consulting now with experts, and hope to mature a plan which will give us real rapid transit.

MR. K.—Stuff and nonsense, Mr. Mayor; you know that any new scheme will excite a world of opposition. A commission has to be appointed, legal proceedings taken, and then the swarm of blackmailers of all kinds will assail it. The promoting banker will try to have his share. The lobby will demand its plunder. The engineering crank will want employment. Then there are the courts and the lawyers. Ask Mr. Smith his experiences for the last twenty years; he is an expert at manipulating legislatures and newspapers. But at last he has a charter, and you could not get another like it, in less than ten years' time. No, Mr. Mayor, if you favor us with a new plan there will be no rapid transit while you are Mayor, even should you succeed yourself three times.

MR. SMITH—Our friend rates my personal ability too high. The Arcade scheme was twice indorsed by the Legislature, because of its intrinsic merit and magnificence.

MR. K.—Now, Mr. Smith, don't be mock-modest; you are one of the most wonderful talkers that ever wagged a tongue. But this meeting will never come to an end if you get started on the "Arcade scheme;" and, gentlemen, I think we had better adjourn. I wanted to impress upon Mayor Grant the utter folly of talking of any new scheme of rapid transit. If he wants to give New York quick communication, he must consult with Mr. Jay Gould, Mr. Depew and Mr. Smith.

MR. DEPEW—This reminds me of another story.

(Here the conversers put on their coats and hats and leave, while Mr. Depew is spinning his yarn.

MR. K. (waking up)—What a curious dream I have had. I have a good mind to write it out for the benefit of the readers of THE RECORD AND GUIDE.

Men and Things.

M. Jules Verne, in the current number of the Forum, has given us a pen picture of what the daily life of a newspaper man may be a thousand years from now, if journalistic enterprise keeps on increasing and mechanical invention makes new conquests in wider fields. His picture is fantastic and satirical rather than ingenious. Mr. Napoleon Smith does everything more or less by machinery, even to thinking. His paper is no longer printed; it is spoken through telephones to its subscribers—a process which seems to our unimaginative intelligence rather cumbrous. However, the man of that time may be able to say more in a dozen words than we can in as many hundred. At any rate, this is the improvement in the newspaper business, introduced by Mr. Smith, who thereby has run up a large circulation and accumulated the snug little fortune of $10,000,000,000. In consequence, to all appearance, he has rather more to say than anyone else about the running of the whole earth. His weather bureau can make sunshine or rain just as it will; his astronomers can communicate with the other planets. Ambassadors from other nations come to him in preference to the central authority, if such a thing exists: and inventors, at that time probably the most important class in the community, are under his particular direction. It would be useless to run through all the details of his picture. If not a very fine, there is certainly a very obvious vein of satire apparent on every page. Indeed, it is impossible to write a thing of this kind without running either into satire or else into Utopias. Any amiable prophet can announce to the world the glad though somewhat reiterated tidings that the coming centuries are going to see mechanical progress. But the minute he undertakes to designate what particular form that progress will take he has, except in a very general way, nothing but his imagination to fall back upon. M. Verne is amusing; but he is not instructive.

A curious story of literary adventure and skill comes to us from Paris. M. Blowitz, the correspondent of the London Times, in that city, was challenged over a dinner-table to write a short story in less than twenty-four hours in a language not his own and with characters prescribed by another. He accepted the challenge, hurried home, and wrote what is said to be a really thrilling romance. The characters selected were the Emperor Napoleon, an aid-de-camp, a French actor, an English actress and a telegraph messenger. It would seem that the challenger, in giving such people to M. Blowitz for the latter to harrow into a story, did not take advantage of his opportunities, and rendered the task of the other comparatively easy. Without in any way knowing how M. Blowitz used his materials, visions at once rise before us of a gas-light expedition, incognito, of the Emperor and his follower, their meeting with the actress, entanglement with the actor, the employment of the messenger to regulate matters, and on the last page a beautiful settlement, including perhaps a pension or so. It may be added that M. Blowitz was so successful that the Figaro accepted his romance immediately and gave him a handsome notice into the bargain.

Harry Edwards, it seems, is pretty well tired of the stage. He said, in conversation recently, that he would be glad to sever his connection with the theatre at any time if it was not, in a way, necessary that he should keep before the public. This is hardly to be wondered at. One by one his old associates have either died or drifted away. In Mrs. Potter's company, in which he is playing at present, there is nobody of prominence who has long been connected with the American drama. As long as Mr. Wallack was alive, and his company included actors of such experience as John Gilbert and Madame Ponisi, there was something for Mr. Edwards to cling to; but with the disintegration of that company there was nothing in the way of association to keep him before the public.

David Bennett Hill, according to a prominent Brooklyn politician, is a man whose sole aim is to advance himself. Like a priest, he is cut off from all connections, family or social, that in any way can check him in the pursuit of his end. He is scrupulous as to his means only so far as not to lose himself the support of honest men. Really he is without any settled policy. The course of events govern his action. Nevertheless, he is a man of good ability—far better, indeed, than most people give him credit for—and the pity is that he does not use it more disinterestedly. It is not meant that he is dishonest, but simply over-ambitious. Yet, according to the same authority, the very fact that he is aiming at the top of the ladder is a sufficient guarantee that he will never get there. Hardly a case can be cited in the whole of our history of an able man who shaped his actions with a view of attaining the Presidency, and in the end satisfied his aspirations. Prominence always makes opposition. It is generally the man whose candidacy is not suspected that gets the nomination.

We Americans vindicate our religious faith more than do the English. When Charles Bradlaugh was in this country, he was refused membership to the Lotos Club. And, only the other day, Col. Robt. Ingersoll was blackballed in the Players' Club. It is safe to say that that eloquent Atheist could not gain admittance into any respectable social club in this country. Nor could he be elected to any office of trust or profit in any part of the United States. In England, however, "heretics" often hold high positions. John Morley is a "Positivist," and holds views not unlike Col. Ingersoll's, yet he is a leading English statesman and a possible "Prime Minister." Professors Huxley and Tyndall are avowed "Agnostics," yet they, and others like them, hold government positions and are permitted to lecture in the leading colleges. Huxley is an honored member of the "Atheneum Club." Matthew Arnold rejected revealed religion, and his definition of God would be called Atheistic in this country, yet he was almost constantly in the employ of the British Government as an expert in educational matters. It is probable that, to maintain a State Church, British authorities find it necessary to conciliate dissenters and heretics. But in this country the hatred of infidelity can have full swing. The Mayor and "Chief Executive" of a leading American city discovered recently, while conversing, that they held heretical views, known only to their most intimate friends; but they dared not make them public, as it would ruin them politically. That tolerance of infidelity is not increasing in this country is very evident. Thomas Jefferson was not liked by the religious people of his day, yet he was elected President. It is doubtful if he would have been chosen had he been a candidate in these times.

On Wednesday, February 20th, there was a meeting at the office of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company of the owners of water-front property embraced within grants made by the city of New York of land formerly under water, containing covenants requiring the owners to keep the streets in repair. There are over 10,000 lots affected by these covenants, situated on West, Washington, Greenwich and cross streets, 13th avenue, 11th avenue up to 40th street; also on South and Water streets, intersecting streets, and whole blocks of water-front property further up town and on the Harlem River. Among those present were Albert Tag, A. K. Ely, Isaac L. Ogden, James L. Ogden, H. H. Cammann, Bradish Johnson and Francis H. Macy. Mr. J. Bleecker Miller presented a report on behalf of the committee appointed at the previous meeting to consider means for the relief of the property-owners from this covenant. According to this report the Corporation Counsel has prepared a bill which authorizes the Board of Aldermen to repave and repair such streets, without requiring the consent of the majority of the property-owners, as is requisite in the case of other streets after they have once been paved. The bill was not quite satisfactory to the committee. They wished the streets in question put exactly on the same footing as the other streets. Hence the passage of the bill was recommended, provided that no repairing should be done without the consent of the property-holders. All the owners of real estate interested are invited to put themselves in communication with the committee.

Nine Hundred per cent. in Ten Years.

The following history of the sales of two 9th avenue lots within the last ten years will prove interesting reading. Some of our readers who do not pay much attention to values of various property will no doubt be surprised to find an increase of over 900 per cent. in a period covering less than ten years. It may be remarked, however, that the lots quoted were sold in the year 1875 with four lots close by for a total of $72,000, or an average of $12,000 apiece. It will also be noticed that the increase during the last five years is greater than during the preceding five, for the sales show an advance of $13,000 between 1879 and 1885, against an increase of $24,250 between the years 1885 and the last sale made. Here is the record.

9th av, n e cor 70th st, 50.5x100. Christian Blinn to Edmund S. Bailey. June 21, 1879. $5,000

It may interest our readers to know that four lots on the northwest corner of 9th avenue and 70th street were sold in June, 1885, for $45,500.

A Good Word for the "Running Trap."

NEW YORK, February 15th, 1889.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

I have read your very interesting article on "Trap Ventilation" in last week's RECORD AND GUIDE, and have noticed more than ever the ventilators in our streets, and I must say I fail to see such a stoppage in the trap, if properly put in, as your writer states. I saw my plumber, and he says he never puts in a "back air vent" from the street to roof without having a space below the sidewalk opening of at least from 3 to 4 feet and making a pit to catch all rubbish or dirt, also placing the "vent pipe" as close to the sidewalk as possible, and having the grate or bars set in a groove, or counter sunk, and screwed down so that at any time it can be opened and cleaned out at a very "little cost." I know my own is so; also, all I have ever had put in are in that way, so there can be no stoppage of air and no closing up at the street end except when there is snow on the ground or walk, and then only for a few hours. Now, why do so many adopt it if not a good thing if properly put in? and why should any inspector allow any "street vent" to be put in without having a deep pit below? Pardon me for taking your valuable time.

Yours sincerely, REAL ESTATE.

Real Estate Exchange Matters.

COMMITTEE ON LEGISLATION.

The usual weekly meeting took place on Tuesday, and amongst the members present were: Messrs. Wm. Reynolds Brown, in the chair; Townsend Scudder, secretary; E. A. Cruikshank, S. F. Jayne, J. F. Doyle, Samuel McMillan, John D. Crimmins, Geo. De Forest Barton, Constant A. Andrews, W. C. Orr, F. R. Houghton, Beverly Ward, Geo. S. Lespinasse and Richard Deeves.

The Committee on Taxation and Assessment reported unfavorably on Assembly bill No. 238, the following being a full text of their report:

Your committee, to whom Assembly bill No. 238 was referred, beg to report, that in their opinion it is an unjust bill and one most particularly pernicious and detrimental to the interest of real estate.

By its enactment much outside capital which is now invested in various business industries in this State, whereby the value of real property is increased, would be excluded and driven out.

It offers a premium to people of easy and of no consciences to resort to false swearing in order to avoid taxation, while the money of widows and orphans in the custody of executors and trustees would be mulcted to the fullest extent.

At present the mortgagee receives and the mortgagor pays a lower rate of interest, because the latter has all the tax to pay. Mortgages are made and the rates of interest adjusted with reference to it. Real estate, its interest and values, have increased because borrowing has been easy. If we remove or hamper that ability to borrow on real estate security, its values will be diminished accordingly.

The calling in of mortgages for payment, in the event of the passage of this bill, would result in a financial panic; and the inability of owners of real property to replace their mortgages would transfer the ownership of vast amounts of real estate to financial institutions and others who have made loans under the security of the present laws, thereby possibly temporarily enriching these institutions, but certainly impoverishing the many unfortunate borrowers.

Instead, therefore, of being a measure for the relief of real property, this bill, if made a law, would cripple and injure it; it would seriously impair its value and would help to prevent, if it did not entirely accomplish it, an increase in all building operations.

We desire and recommend that opposition to this bill be made as efficient as possible; and we further recommend that proper legislation be sought looking to the entire abolition of taxation on mortgages.—Sinclair Myers, chairman; Geo. De F. Barton, W. C. Orr, Sam'l F. Jayne, Beverly Ward.

The report was adopted and a copy ordered to be sent to the representatives of New York in the Senate and Assembly, with the names of all the members of the Committee on Legislation attached.

Mr. John D. Crimmins rose to move the following resolution:

Resolved, That this committee approves of Senate bill No. 231, an act to authorize the Department of Public Parks in the city of New York, subject to the approval of the Sinking Fund Commissioners of said city, or a majority of them, to lease certain lands, buildings and property belonging to the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the city of New York.

And it is further resolved, That the secretary be directed to forward a copy of these resolutions, signed by the chairman and secretary of this committee, and the names of the Committee on Legislation thereto attached, to the representatives in Senate and Assembly.

Mr. Crimmins said the object of the bill was to realize a good rent from buildings in the new Parks and apply the moneys so obtained to the reduction of taxation. The buildings were valued by the commissioners who assessed the damages for the new parks at $1,193,805, and it was estimated that at least $10,000 to $15,000 a year could be realized from renting them.

Mr. Robinson asked why the bill should not be amended so as to let the buildings publicly. Mr. McMillan spoke in the same strain.

Mr. Crimmins replied that the Mayor and other members of the Sinking Fund could be relied upon to let out the properties to desirable parties and at a fair rent.

The resolutions were then put by the chair and carried. Several members, though not opposing them, did not vote in the affirmative.

Mr. Crimmins then proposed the following resolution, which was carried:

Resolved, That Senate bill No. 182, an act relative to the boundaries of certain public places, parks and parkways belonging to the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the city of New York, and to authorize the sale or leasing of land excluded therefrom, be the special order of the next meeting of this committee.

Mr. Houghton moved a resolution recommending that a Centennial Park be created of the high bluff known as Fort George, lying between the Ottendorfer Home for Convalescents and Fort George avenue and between Audubon and 10th avenues, and that a committee be appointed to wait on the Board of Street Opening to urge the measure. On the motion of Mr. Orr the matter was laid over till next Tuesday.

Mr. Houghton then proposed a resolution advising some action being taken by the committee towards favoring an improvement of the approaches to the Brooklyn Bridge. There being no seconder the matter was dropped.

On the reading of the new bills Mr. Jayne moved that the act to amend the Collateral Inheritance Tax be referred to the Committee on Taxation and Assessment, and it was so ordered.

The meeting then adjourned.

Legislation Affecting New York City.

ALBANY, February 21, 1889.

Nearly two months of the legislative session have passed without a single public question, such as those affecting liquor and beer licenses, the prisons, taxation or ballot reform being disposed of, and now another week has been frittered away in talk. The ceiling scandal in the Assembly and Mr. Vedder's graded State liquor tax bill in the Senate have consumed the entire week up to the adjournment, which was taken to-day until Monday evening, on account of Washington's Birthday. It is not putting it too fine to say that the ceiling job and its attendant scandal has demoralized legislation as well as legislators. Committee meetings are infrequent, and when held are of the most perfunctory character. Important bills on the files are not progressed, and there is a listlessness everywhere apparent in everything except the ceiling nightmare, which threatens to swallow up most of the time of the session, as well as scotch the reputations of a score or so of men of more or less prominence.

A bill has been introduced into the Senate by Mr. Cantor (No. 266), providing for the construction and maintenance of a public bath and washhouse in New York city. All the premises bounded by Grand street, Essex street, Ludlow street and Market place, now known as Essex Market, may be devoted to the purposes of a bath-house, but that section of the market not so used shall continue to be a public market. The Commissioner of Public Works will have the management of the institution after it is completed, and to his discretion will be left the settlement of the charges, accommodations, etc.

Senator Pierce has introduced a bill amending the act granting corporations organized under the laws of other States and doing business in this State, by extending the same rights to hold and convey real estate as are granted corporations organized under the New York law.

A bill by Senator Hawkins prohibits the Commissioner of the Board of Public Works of Brooklyn from laying water mains to draw water from ponds and streams in Queens and Suffolk counties.

Two important bills are fathered by Senator Ives. One authorizes the Department of Public Works to complete the inclosure of Morningside Park and its approaches and sidewalks upon the approval of plans by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, at a cost of $200,000. The other authorizes the Board of Street Opening to grant permits for the construction of light bridges across streets and avenues where the safety of pedestrians would thereby be increased.

Senator Van Cott's bill to extend the route of the Fifth Avenue Stage line has been favorably reported by the Senate Cities Committee.

There will be two joint hearings this week by the Railroad Committee on Mr. Hamilton's Cable Railroad bill. The bill was going along swimmingly, with a good prospect of its passage, when the big row of last week broke out in the Assembly over the ceiling job, which gave this, as well as all similar legislation, a severe set-back. Another black eye was administered to it when Mayor Grant, in answer to a resolution of inquiry on the part of Mr. Crosby, put himself on record in opposition to the scheme.

By Mr. Mullaney—Requiring all persons operating elevators to take out licenses at a cost of $1, and all persons placing elevators in buildings must have a permit for each elevator, at a cost of $50. Quarterly inspection by an officer appointed for that purpose is also required.

By Mr. Le Roy—In cities of more than 100,000 inhabitants, the Mayor shall appoint a commission of five practical mason builders to examine applicants for licenses as mason builders, and certify as to the same to the Mayor, who shall issue licenses at $1 each. Present masons are to be given licenses without examination.

The Assembly ordered to a third reading, Senator Ives' bill appropriating $400,000 for the completion of the Museum of Natural History, leaving it to the city authorities to decide on the question of Sunday opening. The Municipal Building bill was also ordered to a third reading, in spite of the opposition of Mr. Creamer, who maintained that the area of the City Hall Park should not be further encroached upon; as also was the bill increasing the number of notaries public in the city of New York to 1,000.

Mr. Kerrigan's Assembly bill, setting aside a number of city piers for the purposes of promenades, will probably be favorably reported.

By a bill sent up by Mr. McCoan the Mayor of Brooklyn may appoint a commission, the members of which are to be paid $10 a day, to examine into and report upon plans for the improvement of Gowanus Creek.

A bill by Senator Worth, introduced to-day, amends the Code relating to the recording of judgments affecting real estate, and one by Senator Coggeshall places a fine of from $500 to $1,000 on the keepers of bucket shops.

These bills have passed the Senate:

Senator Ives', relative to parks in the annexed district.

Senator Coggeshall's, requiring the filing in the office of County Clerks of statements of lands sold for taxes.

Senator Stadler's, for an exterior street along the East River.

Senator Foley's, extending the time for the payment of the capital stock of companies organized since May 1, 1884, under the Limited Liabilities law.

The Jones Sale Total.

A correspondent writing to us says: "On February 7th Mr Jefferson M. Levy made an estimate of the total sale on the Jones sale of the 19th inst., exclusive of the Staten Island property, putting it in a sealed envelope, for J. L. Douglass to open after the sale. The result is as follows:

Mr. Levy's estimate	$1,968,000
The sale realized	1,950,650
Amount short on Mr. Levy's estimate	$17,350

Mr. Levy's guess is not so near the truth as our correspondent makes out. This is a good example of the numerous mistakes which have been made as to the amount realized by the Jones sale. The exact figures are $2,102,200, or, excluding the Staten Island property, $2,067,200. The Times in its report made the total $2,228,550, and the Tribune put it at $2,105,000. Mr. Levy's estimate was $99,200 short of the truth, and not $17,350. It is said that Peter F. Meyer estimated the result of the sale at $2,107,000, which is less than $5,000 more than was realized.

The Equitable Life Assurance Society.

One of the most remarkable developments of the modern business world is the enormous life assurance companies, and of these, which by the by have reached a development in the United States superior to that in any other country, there are none larger and safer than the Equitable Life. In the business during 1888, the business of 1887 has been surpassed. There have been policies to the amount of $153,933,535 issued, bringing up the aggregate outstanding assurance to the amazing total of $550,000,000, over half the sum which the nation of France paid to Germany as an indemnity for the war of 1870. But this is not all. The other items of the account are proportionately large. Its assets are $95,042,923; its total income, $26,958,977; and its surplus $20,794,715. This immense volume of new business demonstrates that the Equitable possesses the confidence of the public to a remarkable degree. It has by a liberal insurance policy, by promptness in meeting its obligations, and by strict integrity in the management of its affairs, won recognition from people who are willing to intrust the welfare of their children and heirs to its honesty. The accumulation of a surplus of more than $20,000,000 for the protection of its policy-holders shows that this confidence has been well founded.

The New Municipal and Court Buildings.

A TALK WITH MAYOR GRANT.

It appears to be definitely settled that the new Court House is to be erected on the site of the present New Haven depot on Centre street. Destruction also looms in the near future for the Register's office, despite the historical memories attaching to it, as well as the old brown stone building and No. 7 Fire Hose Company's structure, facing on Chambers street, and they will probably all cease to exist before another February comes round.

Mayor Grant was seen by a representative of THE RECORD AND GUIDE in relation to the matter:

"Is there not a strong public feeling," he asked, "against any further municipal buildings being erected in the City Hall Park?"

"I don't know about that," said the Mayor. "It is my opinion that the measure now before the Assembly for the erection of the new municipal building in the park is best for the city. That is why I favor it. If the Legislature feels otherwise, of course, it can act accordingly."

"Don't you think that the city could acquire some property facing the park? Would this not meet the objection against further encroaching upon the park, and at the same time accomplish the object of having the public departments all together and near the Mayor's office?"

"We have considered that," said Mr. Grant, "but we found that it would probably take five years to go through the necessary proceedings to acquire title to the most likely plot we had in view, while other properties could only be obtained at such exorbitant figures that to think of acquiring any of them was out of the question."

"It is said that, if the bill is passed, it is intended to cover a space of 400x150 on the northeast corner of the park with the new building. This means 60,000 square feet," said the writer, "when the three buildings to be removed for the purpose only cover about 13,000 square feet."

"We do not intend," was the Mayor's reply, "to cover any more space in the park than is now covered by the buildings which will be taken down. We will not make any definite plans until the bill becomes a law. The city now pays in rents, for departments that could be located in the new building, about $120,000 per annum, which is equivalent to $4,000,000 in 3 per cent. bonds. If the new building is put up in the park, it will not cost more than a quarter of that sum and the taxpayers will be saved $90,000 a year."

"What are the conditions, Mr. Mayor, upon which the city will obtain possession of the New Haven depot site? It is said that the ground is filled in and is unhealthy."

"The New Haven Company's lease of twenty-one years expires in 1892," was the reply. "We wanted to get possession as soon as possible, so as to avoid delays. We ascertained the figure at which they were willing to surrender their lease for the unexpired term. They asked $10,000 as compensation, which we have agreed to give. The city owns the ground and will take possession of the property on May 1st next. As to the character of the ground, this objection was seen and satisfactorily disposed of. Although made ground, it can be securely cemented so as to be rendered perfectly free from dampness."

AT THE COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE.

With the assistance of Comptroller Myers and Deputy-Comptroller Storrs a detailed list was obtained of the rents paid by various city departments which will be quartered in the new municipal building. They are as follows:

	Annual rent.
Commissioners of Accounts (Stewart building)
Commissioners of Jurors, " "
Finance Department, " "	$62,500
Receiver of Taxes, " "
Department of Public Works (31 Chambers street)	12,000
Counsel to the Corporation (Staats Zeitung building)	10,500
Taxes and Assessments, " " "	8,000
Department of Public Parks (51 Chambers street)	6,500
Department of Street Cleaning, " "	4,000
Board of Excise (Bowery, corner Bond street)	2,520
Board of Assessors, &c., (27 Chambers street)	2,500
Civil Service Commissioners (Cooper Union building)	1,500
Total	$111,020

In addition to this there is the Aqueduct Commission, which pays $11,000 rent per annum. There are also others involving temporary expense, but, as they are not permanent, they can hardly be included in the above list.

Referring to Mr. Crosby's bill, it appears that no definite spot is assigned for the new municipal building. It merely constitutes the Sinking Fund Commissioners, together with the Surrogate, County Clerk and Register, a board of commissioners to select a site in the City Hall Park, and to erect a fire-proof building thereon for the use of the offices of the three latter, and for such other departments as the commission may designate. It also empowers them to remove any and every present building in the park, except the City Hall and the new County Court House.

The site for the new Court House covers about 200 feet square. It is intended to connect it with the Tombs by underground passages or otherwise, so as to enable prisoners to be transferred to and from the prison without having to pass through the public streets, as is now the case.

Notes and Items.

A large number of property-owners in the 23d and 24th Wards presented a petition to Mayor Grant on Wednesday asking him to promote, if possible, legislation creating a Department of Street Improvement for the annexed district to enjoy the powers in the matter of street control now held by the Park Department. The signers included Wm. H. Ten Eyck, Charles H. Cronin, Sam. M. Purdy, David C. Tefft, James L. Wells and Hugh N. Camp.

The Quarantine Commissioners, in their meeting in the Mayor's office on Wednesday, accepted the report of State Engineer Bogart on the progress of the work at Swinburne Island in charge of Contractor Walsh, and in spite of the fact that he was behind with the work, voted to continue the contract with Walsh. Mayor Grant offered a resolution requiring the architect of the Board to prepare plans and report the amount of money necessary to complete the work at Swinburne and Hoffman Islands.

Judge Addison Brown, of the United States District Court, has rendered a decision in the bankruptcy case of William F. Scott, assignee, against Sarah J. Mead and others, which has been for nearly ten years in the courts. The decision is against Mead, the ruling being that the original purchase of the lots by Mead in his wife's name was made to defeat recovery by his creditors and that the money expended in building the houses was a gift to his wife and void as against his creditors. By this decision Nos. 990 to 996 6th avenue and No. 75 West 55th street will be thrown on the market.

On the 26th of February, at 2 P. M., a hearing will be granted on the widening and extending of College place by the Board of Street Opening and Improvement.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company have petitioned the Board of Street Opening and Improvement that Brook avenue, between the Harlem Kills and the northerly side of 132d street, be closed and discontinued; also that no proceeding be taken to open either Willis avenue or Alexander avenue, both in the 23d Ward.

Mr. M. T. Williams has written to the Mayor advising the extension of 6th avenue, from Carmine street at 6th avenue to Beach street at West Broadway.

The New Cathedral.

Mr. Richard T. Auchmuty informed a reporter of THE RECORD AND GUIDE that Bishop Potter had not yet called a meeting of the trustees of the proposed Episcopal Cathedral at which the plans sent in will be considered. Sketches have been received from England, France, Italy and Germany, as well as from all parts of the United States. There are sixty-two in all, and they are each marked in cipher. They are in the library of the Diocesan house, and will be admitted to public view later on. It is probable that a primary selection will be made of the best sketches, and their designers requested to send in further plans of a complete and elaborate character.

Cyrille Carreau, of Bowery and Grand street, has been proposed as a member of the Real Estate Exchange by Horace S. Ely and seconded by F. Fish.

The New York Life's Annual Report.

The annual report for 1888 of the New York Life Insurance Company makes a showing quite up to the mark set by the splendid showings of former years. This company's cash assets amount to $93,480,186.55, while their liabilities on the new State standard are $79,974,159.17, leaving a surplus of $13,500,000. Their business has largely augmented during the present year. Their increase in income has been $3,348,495.71, in assets $10,400,340.70, in insurance written $18,270,436, and in insurance in force $60,950,969. The total insurance in force reaches the enormous sum of $419,886,505, a sum greater than all the greenbacks in the United States; and there are 129,911 policy-holders on the books. They have paid to policy-holders during the past year $10,973,070.05, of which $5,425,926.78 consists of death claims and endowments, and $5,547,143.27 consists of dividends, annuities and purchased insurances. The New York Life is one of the old and purely mutual companies organized back in the "forties," and it has had a steady growth for nearly half a century. It is not only one of the largest companies in the country but one of the strongest and best, as its report fully shows.

Real Estate Department.

The market for realty has been almost exclusively confined to the Exchange this week. Of course the Jones sale was the most important held, but the Lynch and other estate sales were also very important and attracted much attention. The former sale scored the greatest success and the Lynch estate sold well, notwithstanding that the owners' estimates were not realized. Taken altogether, the business transacted on 'Change during the week has been of an exceedingly satisfactory character. As before stated, the Auction Room has done the most business, and the "Gossip" column does not show up as well as it should.

The sales bulletined for Monday were not numerous, although some of them were important. The bad weather led to a small attendance, and the sales announced, with one exception, were postponed. The Bijou Opera House sale went over until March 4th. There is over $202,000 due on this property, which has been repeatedly advertised to be offered under the hammer. A plot of three five-story flats on the northeast corner of 7th avenue and 127th street were offered under foreclosure of a second mortgage, on which nearly $40,000 is due. The first mortgage amounted to $113,000 with interest from January 1, 1888, and bids were called for in excess of that sum. As none were offered the sale was postponed until February 27th. The three-story dwelling No. 131 West 95th street was knocked down at $15,900.

All other sales were thrown in the shade on Tuesday by the offering of the second and last batch of the Jones estate. The parcels put up were improved, with the exception of four lots on 9th avenue. The terms were cash, 10 per cent. down and the balance on April 1st. A total of $2,102,200 was obtained for about forty parcels, including one at Staten Island, which was sold at $35,000 to Wm. Alexander Smith, whose wife is one of the heirs of the estate. The sale was commenced promptly at noon by Auctioneer Meyer, and all the parcels were eagerly bid for and brought extremely high figures. Before the hour of sale the salesroom was well filled, and when the sale was commenced the crowd was so great that it was next to impossible to enter the auction room. There were fully as many present as at the November sale of the same estate, but not so many of the regular attendants. The crowd on Tuesday was to a large extent composed of strangers to the Exchange, comprising merchants and tradesmen doing business in the several districts in which the property offered is situated. It must not be understood from the above that all the faces and figures well known on 'Change were absent, for they were not, but, on the contrary, were well represented. Nearly all the well-known down-town brokers were on hand, among others the following: Messrs. H. H. Cammann, Wm. Cruikshank, Richard V. Harnett, Geo. H. Scott, Sinclair Myers, L. J. Carpenter, L. J. Phillips, L. Tanenbaum, John R. Foley, P. A. Smyth, Edgar Tucker, B. Richards, W. P. Seymour, F. Fish, H. H. Elliott, S. Eddy, Wm. Kennelly & Bro. and E. C. Potter. Among the up-town brokers seen were: Messrs. S. F. Jayne, M. B. Baer and M. B. Bronner. Of course there were many others on hand, but as Auctioneer Meyer frequently said, "Speak out, I can't see you all," so our reporter, who had a position to the left of the auctioneer could not see all in the room. In the way of investors and speculators the following were present: Messrs. David and John P. Duncan, Geo. F. Johnson, Henry Brash, John G. Wendel, Amos. R. Eno, H. Wronkow, Fleming Smith, Henry Waters, John Callahan, A. Lustig, Wm. Labor, M. A. C. Levy, B. Sire's Sons, John Donovan, Morris Steinhardt, Ed. Oppenheimer, Samuel McMillan and Newman Cowen.

The prices realized from start to finish were excellent, and the speculators present were unable to get in a bid owing to the high figures at which the parcels were started. Property for which $444,000 was bid was secured by the heirs of the estate. Among the interested parties who became purchasers are Helen Langdon, F. de R. Wissmann, W. A. Smith and James H. Jones. The five-story stone front building No. 121 Liberty street, size 25x100.10, was one of the parcels which sold only moderately well. Starting at $40,000, advances were offered until $48,000 was reached, at which figure L. E. Ransom, of Liberty street, became the buyer. The competition for the store No. 203 Broadway, size 24.9x100.3, was very sharp. Starting at $150,000, large advances were quickly offered, and soon $200,000 was reached. At this point two of the rival bidders were R. C. Alexandre, who made his bids by raising the handle of his umbrella, and David and John P. Duncan. The former finally secured the property at $211,000, and it was ascertained later on that he purchased on behalf of Col. Elliott F. Shepard, of the Mail and Express. It will interest our readers at this point to know that the Messrs. Duncan own the southwest corner of Broadway and Fulton street, size 16.10x97, which they purchased last July for $226,250, or $138.55 per square foot. The piece bought by Col. Shepard averages about $85.50 per square foot. Three stores on Fulton street, Nos. 164 to 168, together in size 66.6x77.4, and adjoining the Broadway store, were next offered, started at $100,000 and sold at $151,000. R. C. Alexandre, representing Col. Shepard, being the buyer. The premises will be renovated and occupied by the Mail and Express when certain leases expire. Two stores on Duane street, Nos. 72 and 74, which rent for $11,000 per annum, were sold to Louis F. Emilio at $130,000. Judge Dugro bought an irregular piece on the southeast corner of Duane and Hudson street for $45,000. The rental of this piece is only $1,800 per annum. The publishers came to the front again when Nos. 129 Duane and 54 Thomas street were offered together. Starting at $75,000, the high figure of $108,000 was reached, and Sol. Zickel, the publisher of German books, was announced as the purchaser. Only $6,000 is realized in the way of rental for the stores bought by Mr. Zickel, two lofts being vacant. The sum of $20,000 was obtained for No. 135 Front street, 19x61.10x18.6x64.8, which is much above values which have ruled thereabouts. Among the surprises of the day were the sales of Nos. 32 and 34 Maiden lane, at the astonishingly high figures of $60,000 and $41,000 respectively. Good judges estimated both pieces as worth $80,000. One of the heirs of the Jones estate became the purchaser. When the large five-story brick building on the northeast corner of Hudson and Thomas streets was offered it was announced that the building cost close to $100,000 to build about a year ago. The first bid was $125,000, and the last $155,500, which was made by R. C. Williams & Co., the occupants. There are over three lots frontage on both Hudson and Thomas streets, and over four lots on the rear lines. A rental of $10,500 is secured for the property, and it is considered low. For the five-story stone front building Nos. 107 to 113 Franklin street, size 76.10x100, the bidding was slow, starting at $175,000; it appeared when $185,000 was reached as if it would be sold. The bidding continued, however, until $227,000 was reached, at which figure A. Newbold Morris became the buyer for James H. Jones, one of the heirs. Some operators present felt that the figure obtained was a low one, but in this connection we are able to inform our readers that the same premises were purchased by the late Joshua Jones from the Appleton estate just seven years ago for $170,000, showing an appreciation of over 25 per cent. in seven years. The large sum of $69,500 was realized for the store, No. 36 Warren street, next to the corner of Church street. F. de R. Wissmann was the buyer. It will be remembered that Mr. Wissmann bought the block front on 75th street at the November sale and cleared $20,000 thereon in a few days. Wm. Cruikshank secured for R. T. Auchmuty the premises Nos. 91 and 93 Chambers and 73 and 75 Reade street at $255,000. These premises rent for $19,200 per annum. Two stores on Washington street, near Warren, Nos. 280 and 279, brought $44,500 and $40,000 respectively. Four vacant lots were next offered, the southeast corner of 9th avenue and 75th street. The corner brought $26,300, Judge Dugro being the buyer. For the other lots $15,300, $15,200 and $15,200 was realized. These same lots were sold in November, but the buyer failed to comply with the terms of sale. The corner lot was sold in November for $25,100, or $1,200 less than was realized on Tuesday, and the inside lots went in November for $42,000 against $45,700 obtained on Tuesday. Taken together, $4,900 more was realized on Tuesday than in November for the same lots.

Sales at the Exchange on Wednesday were both numerous and important and the attendance large. Some of the more costly parcels were not eagerly bid for, and it is quite likely that at least a few knocked down will not change hands. The four-story buildings Nos. 43 to 47 Broad street were knocked down to M. Graham at $140,000, and the large dwelling No. 13 West 22d street at $52,000 also to Mr. Graham, both parcels form part of the estate of Walter F. Brush. Another dwelling, No. 106 East 61st street, belonging to the same estate, was sold to Leon Tanenbaum for Isaac Sanger at $28,650. A three-story warehouse on Washington street, Nos. 516 and 518, 42.6x210 to West street, Nos. 311 and 312, was sold by order of court in partition. The buyers were Baker & William and the figure $72,000. Capt. B. P. Fairchild secured two extra deep lots on Charlton street, near Macdougal street, with small buildings, for $35,000.

J. N. Robbins bid $41,600 and became the purchaser of the five-story stone store No. 295 Church street, size 21.8x51.1. The dwelling No. 45 West 22d street went to Alex. B. Simonds on a bid of $42,000, and the store No. 7 Coenties slip, corner of Water street, 29.10x45, was secured by Isaac Hicks at $30,000 after being started at $18,000. Many foreclosure sales were held, and the plaintiffs generally became the purchasers.

The Lynch estate sale was the most important held at the Exchange on Thursday. There was a large attendance, but Auctioneer Meyer had to work very hard to bring out the bids. Before the sale commenced an up-town broker was doing active work among the representatives of the Lynch estate, and at one time it looked, to our reporter, as if something in the way of a sale would be consummated before the auction began; and something would have been accomplished but for the auctioneer, who would not countenance the sale of the two fronts on 8th avenue, for which an offer of $90,000 cash was made. The sale commenced and it was found that the prices realized were not up to expectations, and the auctioneer made public the offer already mentioned. It seems appropriate at this point to say that only $69,800 was realized for the fronts referred to. A total of $225,670 was obtained for about seventy lots sold, or an average of about $3,224. It will be interesting to note here that the broker who made the offer of $90,000 for the 8th avenue fronts informed the writer that an offer of $300,000, or $4,100 apiece, for the seventy-three lots, comprising the two blocks between 8th avenue and River street, 155th and 157th streets, had been made a few days ago and refused. The front (eight lots) on 8th avenue, between 155th and 156th streets, brought $39,025, and the front above went for $30,775. The lot on the northeast corner of 8th avenue and 155th street brought the highest figure of any sold, viz.: $10,100. The buyer of the latter is unknown about the Exchange. Thomas C. Higgins, B. P. Fairchild and W. C. Lester are the purchasers best known on 'Change. John Condit and Mahoney Bros. figure as the largest buyers. As stated elsewhere, the prices realized were much less than were anticipated. A total of $100,810 was obtained for six parcels belonging to the Luqueer estate. Five dwellings on Madison avenue, northeast corner of 78th street, brought a total of $180,350. The plaintiff secured four and A. G. Rosenbaum one.

Out Among the Builders.

Stephen D. Hatch has prepared plans for an eight-story, fire-proof building, 50x150, which the Manhattan Savings Institution will erect on the northeast corner of Broadway and Bleecker street, at a cost of about $300,000. The first two stories will be built of Portage Lake red sandstone, and above brown brick will be used with red stone and terra cotta trimmings. It will have a handsome front, in the Romanesque style, with one high arch and two side arches on the Broadway side, and five high arches on Bleecker street. It will contain one passenger and two freight elevators, and the upper part will be rented as lofts. The bank will take temporary quarters, for a year, immediately across the way on Bleecker street, and the present building will be taken down at once.

Eli Martin will shortly commence the erection of ten three and four-story, high stoop houses, on a plot 200x100 feet in size, on the south side of 91st street, commencing 100 feet east of 9th avenue. Seven will be four stories high, with frontages of 19 and 20 feet each, and the remainder three stories in height and 21x54 each, all being 54 feet deep, exclusive of extensions. They will be in hardwood trim throughout and have the modern improvements. The fronts will vary in design and material, and the stones used will be Carlisle, limestone, brown and Wyoming. Special Notices.

Mr. P. Minturn Smith, well known to the iron trade from his long connection with the sale of the products of the Phœnix Iron Company in this market, embracing a period of over twenty years, has recently assumed the presidency of the Union Iron Works, an extensive establishment located on Newtown Creek, Paidge avenue and Setauket street, Brooklyn. The shops and yards include an area of twenty-four city lots, and are fitted with new and improved machinery and appliances for the economical production of iron construction work of all kinds. Their business announcement appears in another column. Mr. Smith has just completed a number of contracts, including the roof trusses, etc., for the Rochester Court House and Post-office building, the iron work for the stations along the line of the Kings County Elevated Railroad Company of Brooklyn, and the iron work for the Twenty-third Street Theatre in this city, erected by Mr. A. B. Darling and Messrs. Proctor & Turner.

Edwin Louderback & Co., of Nos. 413 and 415 South 5th street, Philadelphia, announce in another column of our paper that they have sold all their interest and trade in the business of manufacturing "Inside Sliding Blinds" and "Venetian Blinds" to the Venetian Blind Co. of Burlington, Vt., whose offices are at No. 18 Cortlandt street, this city, and No. 16 Court street, Brooklyn. They recommend their patrons to this company as being the leading manufacturers of these goods now in the trade.

P. Pryibil, the well-known manufacturer of shafting, pulleys, hangers, etc.; also of wood-working, brass-working and special machinery, has removed to his new and spacious factory, Nos. 512 to 524 West 41st street, as may be seen by his advertisement in another column. For illustrated catalogue and further particulars address him as above.

Ralph L. Townsend, the architect, who has for many years been on the corner of 10th avenue and 101st street, has removed to handsome and commodious quarters on the second floor of the new Adrian building on the southeast corner of 9th avenue and 72d street.

It is the intention to send a portable steamer from Liverpool to Central Africa, to be transported by natives to Stanley Pool, 240 miles from the mouth of the Congo River, to navigate the Congo, which, it is estimated, is navigable for a distance of 4,000 miles. The steamer, it is hoped, will be running in about a year.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—The holiday has made some difference in the week's business, but, altogether, matters have progressed about as well as could be expected, and there is a repetition of favorable suggestions as previously made. From such points as are open for navigation, the shipments thus far have not been very liberal, as there seems to be a caution about overloading the market, and hence receivers experience very little difficulty in securing custom or obtaining full prices, buyers tacitly admitting the justice of the line of valuation, especially on pine and attractive goods. There is also thought to be an excellent prospect for pretty steady consumption, even during the usual intermediate period between the finishing up of old jobs and commencing operations on new. There is considerable work, not only laid out but practically under way, that could not yet have been reached without the facilities builders have enjoyed for finishing up contracts in hand during the first half of the winter, and with the probabilities of only moderate cold spells they are willing to push ahead on whatever can be handled before the first of May. Consumption, too, may also make considerable progress before the full restoration of communication with primary points, and this will make demands dependent upon dealers' stock. Some of them are reasonably well provided with a supply, but a number, including some of the largest, have worked accumulations down pretty low, and may, therefore, be expected to keep on the look-out for such additions as may become available. Pales are a somewhat uncertain article, but when buyers want them, they generally want them promptly, and a sudden stimulus to value is likely at any moment.

HARDWARE.—Since the first of the year there has been a slow but sure improvement in the general run of business on this market. Suspicions of scant accumulations at interior points have been confirmed by the admissions of customers, and as fast as transportation facilities improve and other minor seasonable influences can be overcome the orders for filling out assortments are sent forward. Export trade, too, has been good and some quite liberal shipments were made to Australia, South America, etc. Builders' Hardware has held good proportion in all the selections made and promises to do so right along, as the almost certain increase of local consumption will find more or less reflection in the interior, it is believed. There has been an unusual absence of revision of lists and discount sheets this year, and it is the hope of manufacturers and agents to preserve a uniform as well as a healthy element of the situation. Stocks and assortments now in hand will admit of any ordinary suggestion.

LIME.—In a general way the market undergoes no change worthy of note. The open winter has made consumption so much more liberal than usual that many dealers are working on scant supplies, and it looks as though the market would steadily exhaust quite a bunch of stock without difficulty. Even if arrivals came in with a little more freedom than can immediately be attended to receivers say they should not worry, as any kind of a fleet here at this season is a pretty good evidence of nothing else afloat to speak of, and as the association holds the price up, waiting for custom can be indulged in with fair patience and a reasonable assurance of success.

LATH. — Demand is good enough, indeed very much beyond anything that can be secured at the moment, and of course sellers have the advantage. At the close of last week there were about half a million coming forward by rail from the interior, with possiby a hundred thousand more working down the coast, and with two cargoes loading at Calais and one at St. John, constituted all the supply in sight, and induced a full plane of valuation. Indeed, it is believed the market would exhaust a great many more if here and ready for prompt delivery. Bringing supplies forward from the interior is looked upon somewhat dubiously by a conservative portion of the trade, on the fear that matters may possibly be overdone and a set-back on values follow. Some out-of-town custom is understood to have left orders here "in case there should be anything to spare."

LUMBER.—Some little irregularity may be found in the tenor of reports, a portion of the trade admitting a slight falling away of business, with others claiming about as good as before, and still others an increase. Taken as a whole, however, the market is in pretty good shape, and there is no ground for serious complaint; indeed, the undercurrent of the market is undoubtedly of a cheerful character, and operators seem to have better basis for hopeful feeling than a year ago. It has been a successful winter, the fuller local consumption than expected, coupled with a good shipping deal, both domestic and foreign having moved out considerable stock at a time when trade is generally calculated upon to rule comparatively dead, and with the promising outlook for both building and manufacturing purposes it is reasonable to calculate upon healthy conditions. It is said that prospects indicate less general and severe competition from primary sources, as offerings are likely to be in the hands of experienced agents whose knowledge of the wants and methods of the market will no doubt lead to negotiation upon a fairly solid and business-like basis, and it looks as though most staple lines of stock would cost a trifle more money than last season.

Some time ago we referred to the amendment made in the Senate Tariff bill at the last moment before passing. The following is the full text thereof known as Schedule D—wood and woodenware:

Wood, unmanufactured, not specially enumerated or provided for in this act, 20 per centum ad valorem.

Veneering, and briarroot or briarwood, and similar wood, unmanufactured, or not further manufactured than cut into forms or shapes suitable for the articles into which they are intended to be converted, 20 per centum ad valorem.

Eastern Spruce is still spoken of cheerfully from the selling side. It is always common at this season of the year to hear very roseate reports from sources of supply with more or less reflection through receivers here, but making due allowance for that the market really seems to have considerable merit and promises to absorb a goodly amount of stock, and more especially the larger sizes if they can be obtained, though there may also be a pretty good chance for medium and small sizes if the indications of work in Brooklyn are fully realized. It is pretty certain that an offering of 25-foot 10 to 12-inch stuff would go like hot cakes on a local demand, as very few dealers have anything of that kind in stock against which orders are not already booked. No special fear is entertained about logs, but it is believed that sawing and facilities for transporting the product will not get a balance with the demand for some time.

Piling retains a good general position, the stock here being well in hand; no danger thought to exist through which fresh supplies will come forward freely, and pretty much all evidences still pointing to a good consumption, including some jobs that disappointed operators last year. Prices are full and firm.

Hemlock has a somewhat irregular call at the moment, and nothing in the way of a discouraging nature is admitted. Indeed, on the contrary, while there is moderate danger of irresponsible parties occasionally interfering with the regular natural course of the market, most of the trade seem to feel that matters can be managed without any undue strain, and that a successful season is before them.

White Pine, although still open to many chances before the new season can be considered as having started in, does not show anything that should create a particularly gloomy feeling. As a matter of fact, if the first two months of the year are a fair indication of what may be expected throughout the season, trade will, in comparison with last year, be quite satisfactory. How far poplar will displace white pine remains to be tested, but it is a contingency not yet alarming in proportions. The accumulation here is reduced, and in some instances much broken up, in view of the shipments and consumption taking place for the past nine or ten weeks. Naturally holders' ideas are pretty firm, and the offerings from primary points are also found to be generally on a full line of valuation.

Yellow Pine, backed by two harmoniously working associations, one at the principal point of supply and the other here to watch over the distributive end, has quite a good support from the selling side, and secures further advantage through a very good demand, in addition to a local call quite equal to the average for this season, and some of the trade think rather fuller than usual. Other points of consumption operating through this market increase the advantage of agents, and were it possible to obtain a record, some very desirable invoices would no doubt be shown. Sellers are evidently not inclined to crowd advantages, however, and prefer that any further upward turn in value should come through natural force of legitimate trade. It is reported that Western buyers are skirmishing around the Southern markets quite lively.

Carolina Pine is complained of now and then from the selling side, but nothing of that kind comes from the older and experienced houses who, having long ago found out what the market really wants and adjusted their product accordingly, with rarely a deviation from the standard established, are now enjoying the fruits of their effort. They, in fact, receive recognition from a very fair volume of orders now and see excellent promise for a further increase of trade as the season progresses.

Hardwoods are all around pretty steady and look like gaining rather than losing in tone. Opportunities for placing any great quantity from first hands are not plenty as yet, but a place is being prepared for fresh stock through the distribution going on, and while we believe some of the trade overrate the probable requirements of the market a fair quantity of first-class stuff will no doubt find custom. Poplar will undoubtedly be the great card, and operators claim that every day demonstrates that business will be upon a better paying basis than last season. All the other leading woods now in favor here can be depended upon to obtain their usual relative share of attention, with, of course, walnut the most lonesome on domestic account, but remaining more or less a favorite with foreign buyers, both in the log and cut, provided quality shows up fine and attractive.

Shingles meet with about a seasonable demand mostly on foreign account, but occasionally a home order, and generally standard goods command steady rates. There is an impression that healthier conditions will prevail this season than were current last year.

THE WEST.

From the Northwestern Lumberman we take the following:

The great study nowadays on the part of lumbermen in Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota while the pine is fading away concerns the avoidance of waste, and the utilization of all the timber in some way. Even wormy pine is being cut in large quantities by Saginaw valley lumbermen this winter. Its manufacture into lumber is a special industry in itself, as the product can be readily marketed for certain purposes to which it is adapted, including glass box shooks, heads for crockery casks, coarse fencing, etc. A large demand for this class of lumber is found at Pittsburg, Pa.

James McLaren, of Buckingham, P. Q., who is interested in an annual lumber product of 80,000,000 feet, says that Canada has already passed a law to the effect that when the United States takes the import duty from lumber, Canada will take the export duty from logs, as both countries would then be on an equal footing, and it would make little difference where the lumber was manufactured. From that line of argument, it amounts to the same thing to put the export log duty at the figure placed by the United States on imported lumber. But there is another very important detail in the way. The United States has been getting a great deal more duty out of Canada for lumber than Canada has obtained from the United States on logs. Canada evidently wants to get as much as possible from the manufacture of the logs to make up for the import duty to be paid on lumber. But it rarely occurs to Canada to offer any trade compensation for finding in the United States its largest and most reliable markets. In the matter of lumber the proposition is all one way. Canada sells nearly one-half its lumber output in the United States, according to late statistics, while the United States markets a comparatively small amount in the Dominion. In regard to the $3 export log duty Mr. McLaren says the law authorizing it was passed about two years ago, but suspended on account of purchases made in good faith by American lumbermen who had bought Canadian stumpage on the basis of $1 duty. After a reasonable time the duty was increased to $2, and finally to $3. He, however, thinks it would be a fair thing to make the Canadian export log duty the same as the United States import lumber duty.

The Timberman hears from an authoritative source that of present holdings of pine belonging to Manistee parties, there is an available fuel stock for all the mills there for three years. After that date the mill output will decline unless suplemented by the purchase of timber belonging to non-residents. The present annual cut there is about 250,000,000 feet. The output at Muskegon has already dropped off greatly from their 1886 banner year of 800,000,000 feet The falling off there is a permanent one, as no great quantity of outside timber can ever be profitably secured for the Muskegon mills, even by rafting.

And the following from a letter recently dated at Tacoma, seems to contain information of no little significance: The price lists of dimension timber, published in the Timberman from week to week, afford a fine opportunity for the Puget Sound lumbermen to establish a good business with Chicago and other Eastern cities. The very thing that is scarce and dear in the East is cheap and plentiful in this country, and of much better quality than can possibly be obtained in the Central States. The Washington Territory fir is fully equal to oak for bridge building, as it will last quite as long and resist as great a strain. Besides this, it has the quality of holding bolts with a grip possessed by no other timber. A bolt driven into this timber may be extracted a year afterwards, but it will only be by boring all around it and cutting away the wood with it.

No matter what length of lumber may be required for bridge or other building, from 120 feet down can be supplied just as readily as a 16-foot board, and it may be had of almost any desired thickness or width up to 24 or 30 inches, or even more than that. There should be an opportunity for lumber dealers in Chicago to work up a very profitable business in this lumber, as prices in St. Paul and Chicago are quoted at from $38 to $45 per thousand. At the mills here $15 per thousand would be considered a big price, and freight rates to Missouri river points are only 50 cents a thousand, or say $15 to $17.50 per thousand, making a total of from $30 to $32.50 per thousand, according to the dryness of the lumber. The general calculation among lumbermen here is that fir lumber will run three pounds to the foot green from the saw, and, in exceptional cases, three and a-half pounds to the foot.

The Washington Territory mills are preparing to enter the Eastern field as soon as possible, and will prove keen competitors in the race for business. The contract made by the St. Paul & Tacoma Lumber Co. with the Northern Pacific Railroad is a very favorable one, and is destined to open the Eastern markets to them in any event. This contract calls for the shipment by the lumber company of 60 per cent. of their whole output over the Northern Pacific Railroad, and the latter on their part agree that the rates shall be fixed at such a price as to give the lumber company a certain per cent. of profit, no matter what the price obtained in the East may be. When it is remembered that this mill will, before the close of this year, be cutting half a million feet per day, and that three hundred thousand feet of this, or say ninety millions a year, will be shipped to Eastern markets, it can readily be seen what an important bearing the completion of the mill will have on the lumber business not in St. Paul alone, but as far east as Chicago at all events.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman as follows:

It is yet early to form any conclusive judgment upon what the outcome of the work in the woods is to have on future prices. It is only certain now that throughout Minnesota, Wisconsin and the upper peninsula of Michigan the loggers are doing as good work as was ever done, and putting in logs as fast and as cheaply as logs are ever put in. The outcome depends upon how early or how late the break up may occur. Two or three weeks will suffice to settle whether there will be any considerable reduction from the estimates made early in the season of the winter's cut, based on the plans of the loggers then made.

NAILS.—Supplies move out fairly, and the general market maintains a steady tone, but the force of business is not great, and sellers gain no special advantages. Stock and assortments are equal to all calls with, however, production apparently under good enough control to prevent any piling up of a surplus. We quote at $1.80@1.90 per keg for car lots, and $1.95 @2.00 do. for small invoices from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—Most reports carry the impression that the volume of trade is increasing thoroughly standard goods, such as leads, etc., are possibly and indeed probably getting the greatest attention, but the selection is gradually becoming more general in character, and that adds to the healthy features of the situation. To meet the outlet there appears to be an ample supply and assortment, yet no surplus, and sellers manage to retain a steady line of valuation without difficulty, especially on jobbing parcels. Linseed Oil has rather more demand and is steady at 57@57½c. for Western, and 58@59c. for City. Spirits Turpentine moves into consumption fairly and under about steady conditions, with quotations made at 47@48c. per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—Demand is about seasonable without new or important feature worthy of attention. The supply fair, and can be reached without important variation from former cost. We quote Pitch $1.25@1.50 per bbl.; Tar at $2.00@2.20, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.
